DAR Votes Disapproval Of U. S. Aid To Education

By Genevieve Reynolds
Post Reporter

Delegates to the fifty-eighth annual Continental Congress, Daughters of the American Revolution, yesterday unanimously indorsed resolutions opposing Federal aid to education and world government.

Also approved with applause and without dissenting voices, were resolutions commending the House Un-American Activities Committee and indorsing Congressional legislation authorizing publication and distribution of books and pamphlets exposing Communism.

But the smooth motion passing at the morning session in Constitution Hall erupted into confusion and spirited debate over a resolution opposing ratification of the International Labor Organization's proposed Freedom to Organize Convention, which the ILO adopted at a general conference held at San Francisco in July, 1948.

The resolution said the convention proposal, if ratified by Congress, would place control of all defense workers, defense industries, and other industries under control of a world committee. Hence the freedom of the American worker would be usurped, depriving him of the right to work where he wills, and giving the committee complete control of wages, hours and working conditions. After a motion to vote, objections were raised, and the resolution was returned to the committee.

"Federal aid will ultimately mean Federal control, which would reflect the views of the Government in power, and could hasten the advance of State socialism," declared the resolution opposing Federal aid to education.

World government was termed an un-American movement and condemned in the resolution opposing it. State and local DAR chapters were urged to "study this un-American movement; to use every effort to counteract the influence of propagandists in their communities; to watch their State Legislatures, and to fight against the adoption of past and future resolutions favorable to the relinquishment of the constitutional rights of freeborn American citizens."

A resolution opposing participation of the United States in the International Trade Organization was returned to the resolutions committee on a motion that it be deferred for later consideration.

During the confusion on the voting of the two motions pertaining to ITO, and the ILO proposal to set up a central world committee, Mrs. William A. Becker of Westfield, N. J., an honorary president general, advised the delegates to reject such controversial issues.

She said she had been talking with several "distinguished Representatives and Senators" who had suggested that "the DAR stay away from controversial issues."

"Furthermore, the resolution we have just passed opposing world government and indorsing free enterprise takes care of these things (ITO and ILO)," declared Mrs. Becker. "It has been the policy of our national society to stay away from issues which do not deal with fundamental principles in line with our constitution. We are treading on very dangerous ground."

Delegates, however, adopted a resolution calling on all DAR members to retain American ideals in education and to oppose the introduction of subversive ideas in education.

Rep. Coffey Killed Instantly As Plane Crashes at Takeoff

Representative Robert Lewis Coffey, jr. (D., Pa.) was killed instantly last night when his Air Force Shooting Star jet plane crashed as he was taking off from Albuquerque, N. Mex., the Air Force announced last night.

The 31-year-old Congressman, who became a crack pilot after working in the mines, was killed at 7 p. m., Washington time, when the F-80 fighter crashed immediately after taking off from Kirtland Field, Col. S. D. Grubbs, commanding officer of the Air Force's Headquarters Command, announced.

Coffey, who held a colonel's commission in the Air Force Reserve, was on a cross-country proficiency flight.

He took off from Andrews Air Force Base at 9 a. m. yesterday and had refueled at Detroit before landing at Kirtland to refuel again. He had been cleared for March Air Force Base, Riverside, Calif., and had gained only 25 feet of altitude before crashing.

The Congressman-pilot was serving his first term in Congress. Coffey's home was in Johnstown, Pa., and his local address was 9207 Sligo Creek Parkway, Silver Spring.

A native of Chattanooga, Tenn., Coffey attended the University of Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania State College.

Prior to World War II, in 1939, he was appointed a flying cadet and was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1940 and assigned to Langley Field, Va.

In January 1941, he was transferred to Puerto Rico and then was in the Panama Canal Zone. He saw service in the European theater of operations with the Ninth Air Force.

He flew 97 combat missions over Italy, Yugoslavia, France and Germany, and was shot down over a German airfield.

A month later, after evading capture and working with the French underground (the Maquis), he returned through the German lines to join U. S. forces.

He was assigned as military air attache to the United States Embassy at Santiago, Chile, in October, 1945, serving there nearly three years.

He received training in jet flying here but resigned his regular commission September 1, 1948, to run for Congress.

He was commissioned a colonel in the Air Force Reserve the day after his resignation from the regular force, and had continued his flights as a reserve officer

Services Told To Report on Race Policy

By Richard Morris
Post Reporter

Defense Secretary Louis Johnson yesterday gave the armed services 10 days to report how well they have obeyed President Truman's command to eliminate race discrimination.

Johnson issued a firmly worded directive defining the intent of the President's executive order of nine months ago, in which restriction of Negroes to segregated units or certain types of duty was forbidden.

The Defense Secretary foretold an end to such practices with the statement that "qualified Negro personnel shall be assigned to fill any type of position vacancy in organizations or overhead installations without regard to race."

He sent his memorandum to the Secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force, and to the chairman of the Personnel Policy Board.

It charged each department to report in writing by May 1 what progress has been made to comply with policy established by President Truman and supplemented by Johnson.

The deadline was interpreted by a Pentagon source as a possible answer to protests that President Truman's order of July 26, 1948, left a loophole for delay in execution, viz:

"The policy shall be put into effect as rapidly as possible with due regard to the time required to effectuate any necessary changes without impairing efficiency or morale."

Johnson reiterated the general policy of the National Military Establishment on nondiscrimination.

He then set forth "supplemental policies" to assure "uniform application" of the general principle."

"All personnel will be considered on the basis of individual merit and ability and must qualify according to prescribed standards for enlistment, attendance at schools, promotion, assignment to specific duties, etc.," the directive said.

"All individuals, regardless of race, will be accorded equal opportunity for appointment, advancement, professional improvement, promotion and retention in their respective components of the National Military Establishment."

The Defense Secretary said that "some units may continue to be manned with Negro personnel." A Pentagon spokesman said this meant "all-Negro" personnel.

"However, all Negroes will not necessarily be assigned to Negro units," Johnson's order continued. It then directed that "qualified Negro personnel shall be assigned

Allies Defied On German Constitution

Hannover, Germany, April 20 (U.P.) — Defiant German Socialists tonight rejected allied proposals for a West German constitution and submitted their own ideas on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis.

Leaders of the Socialist Democratic Party voted, 63-4, that "the Allies must not limit German freedom of decision in political matters."

Eight persons abstained from the vote, which climaxed a day-long discussion.

Kurt Schumacher, party leader, said the Allies and all other German parties must accept the streamlined, 21-article constitution drafted here by the Socialists. He warned his powerful organization would fight any other proposed charter.

Schumacher declared Allied plans for a weak federation of West German states would ultimately aid Russian aims in Germany.

The Socialists have tied up the German constitutional convention at Bonn for months with their demands for a strong centralized German state—strongly opposed by France.

The new Socialist draft constitution was written by Carlo Schmid, Schumacher's deputy, and approved at today's conference.

Policeman's Shot Kills Fleeing Theft Suspect

An unidentified man was shot and killed at 1:45 a. m. today by a District policeman, who said he saw him leaving a restaurant at 201 Upshur st. nw., with a quantity of loot.

The policeman, Tenth Precinct Pvt. R. G. Sydnor, said he called to the man to halt. When the man dropped the loot and fled, he fired, the officer said.

The eating place, Crain's Restaurant, had been closed for the night some time earlier, the policeman said. He saw the man while walking his regular beat, he said.

Police said a car was parked in front of the restaurant, with some merchandise apparently taken from the restaurant in it.

Houston, Tex., April 20 (AP).—William L. Clayton, former Undersecretary of State and a member of the cotton firm of Anderson, Clayton & Co., was sued today for divorce by Mrs. Susan Vaughan Clayton, whom he married more than 46 years ago in Clinton, Ky.

The petition was filed in the office of District Clerk J. W. Mills by Mrs. Clayton's attorney, Dillon Anderson of the law firm of Baker, Botts, Andrews & Parish.

It charged Clayton with "neglectful, unkind and cruel treatment" over a period of the past two years.

Clayton's conduct, the petition said, has rendered their living together insupportable. It charged that during the two-year period, Mrs. Clayton has suffered long periods of anxiety and mental anguish as well as severe embarrassment and chagrin.

The court also was told that as a result, her health and well-being have been impaired.

The Claytons were married on August 14, 1902. They have four grown children. One child died in infancy.

Since the separation April 4, the petition said, they have reached an amicable agreement on the partition of their community property.

The agreement will be submitted for approval of the court if the divorce is granted, it was stated.

26 Seamen Are Killed by Communist Shore Guns

Nearly 40 Injured As Chinese Reds Resume Attack Along Great River

Shanghai, (Thursday) April 21 (AP).—Another British warship was shelled on the Yangtze River, bringing the two-day toll today to three British ships damaged, 26 seamen killed and nearly 40 injured.

British naval sources said that today's victim of Communist shore-based shellfire was the frigate Black Swan, with 15 or more casualties. It was not known if there were any dead.

Yesterday 26 British sailors were killed and more than 23 wounded by Chinese Communist shelling of two other British warships on the Yangtze.

A British naval spokesman said 17 were killed aboard the sloop Amethyst and 20 wounded. Nine crewmen of the British destroyer Consort were killed as the ship went to aid the Amethyst, aground on Rose Island, 60 miles downstream from Nanking. Three were wounded seriously.

Shelled on Aid Mission

The Black Swan was shelled, naval sources said, while trying to aid the stricken Amethyst, the first British ship caught as China's civil war broke out in full fury again along the great river.

The Black Swan was shelled between Nanking and Shanghai in the same area where Communist shore guns on the river's north bank pounded the Consort and the Amethyst.

Naval sources said they did not know whether any of the Black Swan's crew had been killed in the attack.

[The United Press said British and American naval authorities called a conference for later today to decide whether all foreign warships—including American—should be withdrawn. Some American ships are at Shanghai on the Whangpoo, a branch of the Yangtze.]

A report received from the Amethyst early this morning said she was refloated last night by her own efforts.

The Consort had steamed out of Nanking to the relief of the Amethyst, which was the first to be fired on. The sloop had left Shanghai for Nanking with supplies for the British embassy. Artillery fire drove away the destroyer when it tried to draw alongside the sloop.

Carried on Running Duel

The destroyer carried on a running duel with the shore-based guns along a 50-mile stretch of the river. The Red gunners may have mistaken the British warships for Chinese Nationalist gunboats.

The official British version of the incident declared the Consort encountered "serious resistance" when she came in sight of the sloop. The Amethyst signalled the Consort to turn back upriver because of the heavy fire from shore.

The Consort, however, twice attempted to approach but was forced to withdraw.

"Steaming downriver, she encountered brisk fire as the result of which she sustained the majority of her casualties. Her coxswain was killed and the steering gear temporarily disabled," The British report said.

"Her total casualties include

Laughlin Fires $208,500 Suit At Bowie, Who's Out to Get Him

By Benjamin Bradlee
Post Reporter

The Government will appeal a District Court order enjoining the removal of a telephone allegedly used in violation of gambling laws, it was learned yesterday.

The decision to appeal was reached after a conference between United States Attorney George Morris Fay and his assistants.

District Court Judge David A. Pine granted the injunction Thursday, preventing the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. and Fay from removing the telephone of Nathan Miller at 4923 LaSalle rd., Avondale, Md. Fay is trying to remove 324 telephones, including Miller's, in his campaign to curtail District gambling.

While saying that Fay might have evidence that Miller was violating Maryland laws, Judge Pine granted the injunction for lack of evidence that District statutes were being violated.

Fay said he could not comment on the government appeal until he knew the details of Judge Pine's court order. Only then, he said, would he know from what an appeal could be taken.

The appeal will be filed immediately, it was learned, in the Court of Appeals. Efforts will be made to have the case heard there as quickly as possible. Even with speed, the case will probably not be argued before June.

The future of telephone removal as a method of curtailing gambling in the District is at stake in the Government's appeal of the Miller case.

Fay and the telephone company face 70 suits similar to Miller's, contesting the legality of removal. Twenty-three cases are before the Maryland Public Service Commission. The telephone company will start filing its answers to those suits Friday, a spokesman said yesterday.

Nine cases are before the Prince George: County Circuit Court,

The District line yesterday became a closed frontier in the verbal war between Washington Attorney James J. Laughlin and State's Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie of Prince Georges County, Md.

Actually, it wasn't all verbal. Laughlin threw some legal ammunition yesterday in the form of a $200,000-plus damage suit filed against Bowie in District Court.

It boils down now to this:

If Laughlin steps into Maryland he will be served with a body attachment calling for his appearance to answer a charge of contempt of court.

If Bowie comes into the District, he will be served a summons to appear as the defendant in Laughlin's damage suit.

To further complicate what started as an investigation of alleged gambling conditions in Prince Georges County and has now developed into a personal battle between Laughlin and Bowie, the investigating county grand jury yesterday recessed until May 2—the first time a county grand jury has recessed before completing its work in the memory of one court veteran of 36 years.

Laughlin, well-known District criminal lawyer, injected himself into the county gambling investigation last January when he sent a telegram to Maryland's Governor William Preston Lane, jr., announcing he would divulge details of gambling operations in the county.

At that time he was representing Mrs. Anna T. Keleher in a divorce suit against her husband, John B. (Sport) Keleher, once-convicted gambler.

Laughlin, according to Bowie, was under subpena to appear again on April 18. When he did not appear, Judge Charles C. Marbury issued an attachment calling upon the sheriff to produce Laughlin

Lonely Heart's 3d Son Held In Death Case

Dover, Del., April 20 (AP).—The third son of Mrs. Inez Brennan was arrested today in connection with Delaware's "lonely hearts" slayings as workmen began digging up parts of her 30-acre farm where State police say she has admitted burying two victims.

George Brennan, 19, was arrested at Lackland (Tex.) Air Force Base at the request of Homer Garrison, chief of the Texas Department of Public Safety. Col. Herbert Barnes, Delaware State police head, said George had been charged with first-degree murder in the shotgun killing of Wade N. Wooldridge, 70, Bedford, Va. Another son, Raymond, 23, has been charged with being an accessory. Barnes said New Hampshire police would file charges in the death of Hugo Schultz, 66, Epsom, N. H.

The Delaware State police head said Mrs. Brennan, Robert and Raymond have signed statements telling how Robert shot Wool-

Original 'Mail Order' Murderess Killed 17

La Porte, Ind., April 20 (AP).—Old-timers around La Porte claim the "mail order" slaying scheme was invented 40 years ago by Belle Gunness of La Porte—and Belle did away with at least 14 men, 2 children, and possibly 1 woman.

The bodies were found buried all over the Gunness farm after fire destroyed the house in 1908. There were bodies of two children and the headless corpse of a woman—supposedly Mrs. Gunness—in the ashes.

Ray Lamphere, a hired hand, was sent to prison on an arson charge and died two years later. But he left behind a deathbed statement that he helped Mrs. Gunness escape and the burned bodies were "a plant." La Porte officials never found the woman.

Kirk Is Named Ambassador To Moscow

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday nominated Vice Admiral Alan G. Kirk as Ambassador to Russia, while American officials adopted an attitude of watchful waiting on reported Russian "peace feelers" toward easing the cold war.

Officials here have been unable to determine if the reported Soviet probing is intended as leading to peace talks on the Berlin crisis, or if the feelers are unfounded or purely propaganda.

Reports Without Foundation

Some of the widespread reports are wholly without foundation, it became known, but others are founded on conversations between Soviet representatives and officials of other nations. Whether any of the reported "overtures" were made to American officials was not disclosed.

The State Department has refused to "confirm or deny" any of these reports, declaring, "They are so many and so varied that the department will make no comment on them."

Secretary of State Dean Acheson's position, which he referred to in a news conference yesterday, is that "the door is open" anytime Russia is ready to sit down with the United States, Great Britain and France to work out the German stalemate.

Meanwhile, it was learned, the American attitude is that the rumors and reports probably will continue, and they should be greeted without excitement until a clear situation is created.

American Position

The American position is that ending of the Russian blockade of Berlin, which forced establishment of the airlift 10 months ago, is a prerequisite to any peace talks.

In selecting Admiral Kirk as Ambassador to Russia in this critical period of relations between Russia and the non-Communist world, President Truman continued

Compromise May Pave Way for Senate Vote On Housing Bill Today

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

A compromise of the Administration-GOP split over the number of low-rent public housing units President Truman can allow in one year may pave the way for a vote today on the multi-billion-dollar national housing bill.

The measure, providing for the building of 810,000 public housing units in six years, would give the President authority to step up the annual rate of 135,000 to 250,000 a year if economic conditions warrant.

Chairman Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) of the Republican Policy Committee, one of the 23 bipartisan sponsors of the bill, had introduced an amendment to cut the number which could be built in one year to 175,000 as a safeguard for private industry.

Of all the 16 pending amendments to the bill, Administration forces had expected this to be the major stumbling block to early passage of the measure.

The Washington Post learned exclusively last night, however, that a tentative compromise has been worked out cutting to 200,000 the number of units the President can authorize. This compromise, it was predicted, may permit action today.

Acting Senate Democratic Leader Francis J. Myers (D., Pa.) told reporters last night he believed the Senate could get the bill out of the way today. He said the

Senator Urges Fund To Probe Blighted Areas of Capital

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Senator John P. Sparkman (D., Ala.) last night proposed attacking Washington's sharply criticized slum conditions by two major moves:

1. An immediate Senate Banking Subcommittee study of the city's slum housing situation to serve as a guide for future Nation-wide housing and building code legislation, and

2. An amendment to the pending national housing bill restoring site acquisition power to the National Capital Housing Authority to permit the agency to launch a broad public housing program here.

The chairman of the housing subcommittee of the Senate Banking Committee said he planned to introduce the amendment that NCHA may proceed under the Federal public housing funds provided in the national measure.

Congress took away NCHA's land acquisition authority and transferred it to the District Redevelopment Land Agency, which was created in 1946.

John Ihlder, NCHA executive officer, has protested his agency's loss of site-acquiring authority, and has urged legislation to construct 5500 low-rent dwellings here.

Sparkman emphasized that making a housing guinea pig of the District would not only serve to clean up Washington's slums—" a

Officer Admits Army Staged 'Mock Trials' in Malmedy Case

By The Associated Press

An American Army officer acknowledged yesterday that weird "mock trials" were staged but denied that brutality was used to wring confessions from German storm troops in the Malmedy massacre case of World War II.

Lieut. Col. Burton F. Ellis, the chief prosecutor, told the Senate Armed Services Committee that the procedure was "proper" under the Army's rules of evidence.

Outside the hearing room, Senator McCarthy (R., Wis.) told newsmen the Senate group appeared more concerned with a "whitewash" of the Army than with getting the facts about the trials.

The committee also received an accusation, by letter, from James J. Bailey of Pittsburgh, Pa., who said he was a member of the United States Army's confession-gathering team for 10 weeks but quit because he "could stomach it no longer."

Bailey, a 53-year-old World War I veteran, identified himself as an official court reporter for 28 years. He said he witnessed some of the mock trials and declared that evidence was gained by "starvation,

Drugs That May Help Ease Menstrual Pain Described

Detroit, April 20 (AP).—Drugs that may help in relieving menstrual pain were described today to the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

They were tested in studies at Memphis, Tenn., by Drs. R. A. Woodbury and P. C. Feng of the University of Tennessee.

Menstrual pain and accidental abortion often are due to an allergic reaction to one of the body's own hormones, vassopressin, they said. Women who suffer menstrual pains generally are hypersensitive to this hormone.

Using rabbits, they tested drugs that counteract the action of vassopressin. The most effective so far are two hormones that work against each other, they said. One is the pregnancy hormone, progesterone. The other is the male sex hormone, testosterone. Together they relax the uterus and counteract vassopressin, they said. The research is sponsored by the U. S. Public Health Service.

New clews to the causes of high blood pressure, cirrhosis of the liver, shock and heart failure were reported by Drs. Abraham Mazur and Ephraim Shorr of Cornell University Medical College and New York Hospital, New York.

The clews came in studies of

Communists Launch Offensive in China

Churchmen's Trials Hit By Britain

Lake Success, April 20 (AP).—Britain attacked the iron curtain trials of churchmen today as a fresh phase of Communist opposition to religion and free thought.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, told the special political committee of the U. N. Assembly that Britain joins the United States in supporting a Bolivian move to keep the cases before the U. N. until the September assembly.

This would permit the U. N. to act if nothing comes of proposals to settle the disputes over the religious trials through the peace treaties with Bulgaria and Hungary.

Debate on Mindszenty

The committee is debating what to do about the trials of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary and of 15 Protestant clergymen in Bulgaria.

Australia demanded the U. N. set up a special investigating committee to be sent to Europe to inquire into the situation.

This is similar to a proposal by Cuba. The United States turned down the Cuban proposal, and gave its support to the Bolivian resolution.

The Russian bloc maintained its opposition to any action in the Bulgarian and Hungarian cases. Their speakers insisted the trials were internal matters.

Question of Libya

Elsewhere in the U. N.:

1. Burma, Saudi Arabia and Iraq lined up with Egypt's demand for freeing all of Libya. Short of that, they told the Assembly's political committee in debate on disposing of Italy's prewar colonies, they would agree to international trusteeship for Libya. Chinese Ambassador V. K. Wellington Koo said his government is considering proposals for putting all of Italy's former colonies under U. N. trusteeship. Russia made this proposal in the committee.

2. The U. N. Conciliation Commission reported from Jerusalem that Israel has turned down the U. N. plan for international rule over the Holy City. However, Assembly President Herbert V. Evatt told U. N. correspondents that he talked with Israel's President, Chaim Weizmann, and was confirmed in the belief Israel would abide by the U. N. decisions. Evatt said there is a strong feeling among U. N. delegates Israel's admission should not be put off.

3. The United States was reported to have decided neither to support nor oppose any U.N. move to drop the U.N. ban on sending top diplomats to Madrid.

Nanking, April 20 (AP).—China's civil war erupted today with a furious Communist offensive along more than 400 miles of the vital Yangtze Valley.

The Reds struck after the government rejected their latest peace offer.

Nanking, the capital, and Hankow, major supporting base 375 miles to the southwest, seemed the first objectives of Red armies one million strong. To meet this shock the Nationalists had possibly 500,000 men.

Nanking shook to artillery attacks from three points across the river. Communist veterans were attacking on the plain before Hankow.

Gunboats, Shore Batteries Duel

The first onset is designed to wipe out Nationalist bridgeheads on the north bank of the Yangtze. This great river divides the Communist north from the Nationalist south.

There was no mention of a crossing attempt. Government gunboats dueled with Red shore artillery both above and below Nanking.

The Nationalist Air Force was far away in the island of Formosa, a last-ditch government redoubt.

Shells Burst in Pukow

Red advance guards were attacking a town four miles north of Pukow. This apparently was their closest approach.

Red artillery shells, some of large caliber, were already bursting in Pukow. Observers on the south bank could see the flashes of the shell bursts. A number of fires broke out west of Pukow.

A second Red attack rolled up at Kiangpu, seven miles southwest of Nanking.

The third attack broke east of Chinkiang, 45 miles northeast of Nanking. A number of Nationalist gunboats joined in the battle here. It was in this area that the British sloop Amethyst was hit.

The streets of Nanking were filled with troops moving to the front. Earthworks were being dug along the south bank.

The greatest threat to Nanking, however, appeared to be on the Wuhu front, 60 miles southwest of the capital. A top ranking general expressed fears that the Reds would cross there. The Yangtze, narrows to a mile at that point.

Fighting Is Severe

Severe fighting also broke out east of Anking, north bank bridgehead city 150 miles southeast of Nanking.

Gen. Lin Piao's Red armies from Manchuria, estimated at 400,000 men, were attacking the town of Hsiaokan, 35 miles north of Hankow.

The troops of Gen. Pai Chung-hsi, defender of Hankow, were outnumbered two to one.

On a separate front 600 miles to the northwest, the Communists launched their heaviest attacks on China's "Pittsburgh" — Taiyuan, long encircled capital of Shansi Province. Red shells were said to be falling inside the city, causing heavy casualties.

Nationalist Premier Ho Ying-chin met with China's Parliament in secret session. He said the government had rejected the latest Communist peace offer because it was drawn in the harsh terms of a victor.

A legislator said the government could not agree to a Red demand for unopposed crossing of the Yangtze; punishment of government leaders as "war criminals," confiscation of estates of the wealthy, and the setting up of a "coalition" government by May 1.

The Consort returned the Red fire "with her entire armament."

The Communists shelled the Amethyst with medium artillery from 9:30 a. m., until noon yesterday, the British statement said, and "sniping continues during the afternoon.

"Casualties were about 17 killed and 20 wounded."

A message received by the British naval attache said about 60 of the Amethyst's crew — including four wounded — were making their way to the nearest large town.

This message said the crewmen "could not return through land minefields," to their ship.

The Shanghai spokesman said this indicated most of the ship's complement of about 150 men apparently had been forced to evacuate the sloop temporarily to avoid casualties.

The spokesman said all who could returned to the ship yesterday evening.

Sir Ralph Stevenson, British ambassador in Nanking, has asked the Communist high command at Peiping that the local Red artillery commander be instructed not to impede further rescue operations.

The Consort had met the Black Swan, which put out from Shanghai with doctors and medical supplies for the Amethyst.

The rendezvous was at Kiangyin, government naval base midway between Nanking and Shanghai, apparently the Black Swan then went on to attempt to aid the Amethyst. The 10,000-ton British cruiser London also was steaming to Kiangyin.

Aboard was Vice Admiral A. C. G. Madden, second in command of the British Far East station.

While a British naval source in Shanghai said "I do not know what Madden can do except use force," the fact that the ambassador is in contact with the Communists may ease the situation.

to fill any type of position vacancy."

This was said by an Army spokesman to be one of the more significant sections of the order.

He pointed out that Negroes previously have been assigned "mostly in technical jobs" with whites. There were some "line units" in World War II, to which both Negro and white officers were assigned in command of Negro enlisted men.

Johnson's order directed "each department to examine its present practices and determine what forward steps can and should be made in the light of this policy."

After the study is completed, it added, written reports are to be submitted showing "detailed implementation of the general policy stated herein and such supplemental policies as may be determined by each service to meet its own specific needs."

The reporters are to be sent to the Personnel Policy Board chairman not later than May 1.

No U. S. Ships In Chinese Fighting Area

No American naval vessels are in the Yangtze River area where fighting took place between the British and Chinese Communists, a National Military Establishment spokesman said yesterday.

All United States forces inside China have been withdrawn except for attaches at the Embassy and several consulates, and a Marine guard unit of less than 100 men at Shanghai, it was said.

Aboard the task force of Vice Admiral Oscar C. Badger, commander of naval forces, Western Pacific, are the only American troops in the area, a Marine battalion landing team.

In all of China, State Department records show, there were 5031 Americans as of April 14, compared to 6496 there in January, 1948. Nonofficial personnel remaining are mostly businessmen and missionaries.

A total of 614 Americans now there are official personnel or their dependents. The largest single group of Americans is in the Shanghai area—206 official personnel and 2273 others.

Within the four Communist-controlled provinces of Mukden, Dairen, Peiping and Tientsin are 103 officials and 222 other Americans.

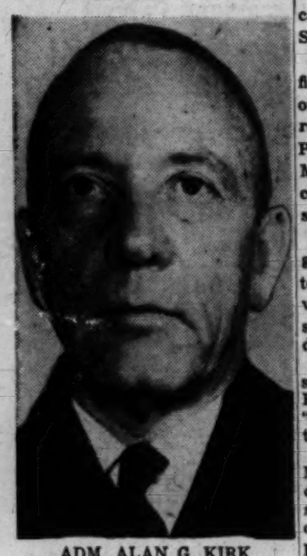
Negroes Won't Fight Soviet, Robeson Says

New Ambassador To Russia



ADM. ALAN G. KIRK

Kirk Chosen For Moscow

his policy of placing military men in Moscow.

A 60-year-old retired naval officer, Kirk, who has had the dual role of Ambassador to Belgium and Minister to Luxembourg since February, 1948, will follow Lieut. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith as Ambassador to Russia.

General Smith asked to be retired from that post and now commands the First Army. The designation of Kirk to succeed him, which will require confirmation by the Senate, has been expected for several weeks.

A popular officer and a poker-faced diplomat, Admiral Kirk commanded the naval forces supporting the Sicily invasion and led the American task forc in the invasion of Normandy in 1944.

Before World War II, he gained diplomatic experience as a naval attache at the United States Embassy in London in 1939 and 1940, and for eight months in 1941 was Director of Naval Intelligence. He retired from the Navy in 1946. A native of Philadelphia, he maintains his permanent home at Black Point, Conn.

Probably at a Peak

As the new Ambassador to Russia, Kirk will be taking over there when anti-American feeling is probably at a peak because of the North Atlantic Treaty—unless the reported "peace-feelers" are borne out and Russia feels obliged to deal with the Western Allies.

Secretary of State Acheson today will appear at a closed session of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for a thorough discussion of Administration plans to support the treaty—which is now before the committee with arms aid.

Acheson said yesterday that he hopes to be able to give the committee final cost estimates of the aid proposals. It is expected that this controversial program, which is meeting far more opposition than the 12-nation defense alliance, will seek between $1,200,000,000 and two billion dollars in first-year arms aid for treaty members and such other nations as Greece, Turkey and Korea.

No Delay in Announcement

While many Senators are aroused by reports that the arms program may not be announced until the treaty is ratified, Senate Republicans yesterday were assured that this is not the case.

Senate GOP Policy Committee Chairman Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) announced after a lengthy committee meeting that Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) Republican leader in bipartisan foreign policy, had declared he is "quite confident" the arms program will soon be disclosed.

Taft told reporters there was general GOP feeling that a method should be found for "consolidating" domestic defense programs with foreign military aid to reduce the "grand total." This follows general indications of increasing economy mindedness in Congress.

Quebec Has 13-Inch Snow

Roberval, Quebec, April 20 (AP). Winter returned today to this St. Lawrence North Shore district with a snowfall of 13 inches.

Paris, April 20 (AP).—Paul Robeson, American Negro singer, told the Communist-inspired World Peace Congress today that American Negroes would never fight the Soviet Union.

His resonant voice injected the first fire into anotherwise monotonous opening session that heard repeated attacks on the Atlantic Pact, the U. S. atomic policy, the Marshall plan and "Anglo-American capitalist imperialism" from a series of speakers.

Robeson brought the 2000 delegates from 52 or more countries to their feet in cheering applause with his call for a "fight for friendship" with Russia, the "eastern democracies and a free China."

He ended his appearance by singing a rewrite of "Ole Man River" which substituted the words "show a little grit" for "git a little drunk."

"I bring you a message from the Negro people of America that they do not want a war which would send them back into a new kind of slavery," Robeson said.

Flays "Slavery" Program

He declared President Truman's program for colonial development, coupled with what he called the invasion of Africa by former Secretary of State Edward Stettinius "and his millions," meant new slavery for Africans.

He obviously was referring to the multi-million-dollar development scheme for Liberia being backed by Stettinius.

"It is unthinkable," said Robeson, that American Negroes "would go to war on behalf of those who have oppressed us for generations" against a country "which in one generation has raised our people to the full dignity of mankind."

American wealth, he said, was built by millions of immigrant workers from eastern Europe and on "the backs of millions of Negroes" and "we are determined to share this wealth."

Robeson sang a verse about a Salt Lake City labor organizer named Joe Hill. It said "when working men defend their rights, Joe Hill is at their side."

Typifies "12 Brave Men"

Robeson said Joe Hill typified the "12 brave men" who are defendants in the New York trial of Communist leaders, because he, like them, "was framed by the company cops."

He said he was going to testify in the Communists' defense.

Frederic Joliot-Curie, Communist head of the French Atomic Commission, was named president of the congress. He opened the congress with a call for the formation of peace committees in every country to carry out the aims of the congress.

"We will show the warmongers that they have to reckon with us," he said.

Atomic Policy Assailed

Joliot-Curie declared "we must ally ourselves with those who want to outlaw the atomic bomb." He said the United States entertained "the illusion of a lightning war based on atomic energy," but an atomic war would be "terrible even for its initiators."

The French scientist attacked the Marshall Plan as a blockade against East-West trade.

Pietro Nenni, Italian pro-Communist Socialist, also attacked the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Alliance.

One of the first acts of the congress was to indorse an "overflow" meeting at Prague. The Prague congress was made up of delegates not permitted to enter France. The French limited the number of delegates from several Communist-dominated countries to eight.

The Prague congress heard a number of speeches calling the French "bootlickers of Wall Street." It then adjourned until Friday.

MISSING BABY FOUND—In Community Hospital at Big Rapids, Mich., 3-year-old Jacqueline Simons is comforted by Nurse Ruth Classon Harvey. The child, who apparently toddled out of her house unnoticed, was found yesterday after a 15-hour hunt through swamp land and underbrush. Searchers in a posse of 100 men came upon her about 7 a. m., huddled against a fence on her hands and knees, about three-quarters of a mile from home. She was crying and one of her boots was missing. Her father, Carl Simmons, was in the search party

Berlin Peace Feeler Given Official Status

Berlin, April 20 (U.P.).—A British official statement today confirmed reports that Heinrich Rau, German economics chief for the Russian zone, had urged the lifting of the Soviet blockade of Berlin and the western Allied counter-blockade.

At the same time western German Communists spread word in Frankfurt that an announcement "of great importance" to East-West relations might be made within 24 hours.

Counter-Blockade Tightened

Western Allied authorities continued to ignore all apparent feelers from the Russian side, however, and the United States today tightened its counter-blockade of the Soviet zone. The American Military Government ordered a registration of all ball bearings and roller bearings to keep them from reaching the Russians.

The British statement regarding Rau was the first official confirmation of blockade feelers.

Lawrence Wilkinson, American economics chief, said Rau had proposed "informally" the lifting of the blockade and counter-blockade about two weeks ago.

Russian Proposal Rumored

There were unconfirmed reports Rau's proposal had the approval of the Russians.

The Associated Press reported a high German official declared that Soviet Russia is ready to propose a German settlement, including lifting of the Berlin blockade, if the West will bar Germany from the North Atlantic alliance.

[Confirmation was lacking from Allied authorities. The German source said the Russian plan would provide for lifting the Soviet blockade of western Berlin, withdrawal of both Russian and western Allied armies from Germany and formation of a central German government at a conference of the United States, British, French and Russian Foreign Ministers. He said the plan would be advanced by Russia herself, and not through a satellite.]

Nationalism Curbs Urged By Churchill

London, April 20 (AP).—Europeans must curb excessive nationalism and rebuild the continent along new lines, Winston Churchill told an economic conference of the European Movement today.

"We must think and plan and toil, not only as patriots in our own countries, but as Europeans, if we are not to be paupers or slaves," the former British Prime Minister said.

He is honorary president of European Movement, an unofficial organization of leading public figures seeking a unified continent.

"Excessive nationalism and consequent military precautions thrive upon this foundation" of old boundaries, he said.

Bishop Upheld By Court in Melish Ouster

New York, April 20 (NYHT.).—The Rev. Dr. John Howard Melish has "ceased to be" the rector of the Church of the Holy Trinity in Brooklyn, Justice Meier Steinbrink ruled today.

Justice Steinbrink held that the Right Rev. James Pernette de Wolfe, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Long Island, was within his rights in removing Dr. Melish, that the vestry of the church were within their rights in petitioning for his removal, and that Dr. Melish was wrong in refusing to obey the bishop's order to leave the church he had served for 45 years.

The court granted the vestry an injunction to retsrain Dr. Melish and his son, the Rev. William Howard Melish, assistant rector, from resisting the bishop's order and from trying to form a new vestry. It "denied and dismissed the Melishes' countersuit asking that the bishop and vestry be restrained from carrying out the dismissal order.

The vestry sought to oust Dr. Melish as the only way to get rid of his son, assistant ractor, who they charged, headed a subversive group.

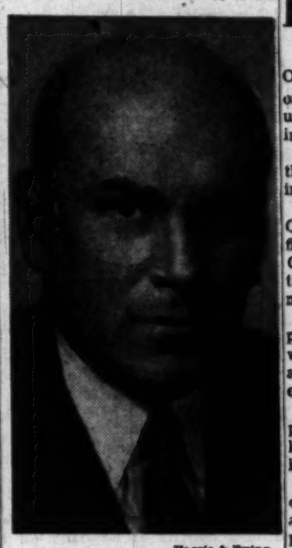
Dr. Melish asked a stay until the case could be appealed. Justice Steinbrink said he would grant a stay, but only on two conditions—that Dr. Melish refrain from all activities except conducting church services, and that a new pro-Melish vestry, elected Monday night, hold no meetings.

The justice said he expected a decision Thursday.

Justice Steinbrink recalled his 30-year-old friendship with Dr. Melish and said:

"When all is said and done, you, the members of Holy Trinity Church, and I worship the same God. I beg of you, the parishioners, to do all in your power, as I shall do, to bring peace to your troubled ranks. Just a few days ago, those of my own faith celebrated the passover, which commemorated their deliverance from bondage. And, at the same time, on Good Friday, you of the Christian faith throughout the world, observed the day of crucifixion. Jesus's prediction that he would rise in three days came true. That was a far greater miracle than composing your differences. They can be composed, they should be, and the court offers to all of the parties and their counsel all the service that I can give you toward that end."

Reported Choice For Germany Post



Harris & Ewing

JOHN J. McCLOY,
president of the World Bank, was reported authoritatively by the Associated Press yesterday to be President Truman's likely choice as the first American high commissioner for Germany. Informed officials indicated the post already has been offered to him, but that he has deferred a decision.

Red Plot Is News to Company

Cumberland, Md., April 20 (AP). Officials of the Celanese Corp. of America said today they were unaware of a Communist plot back in 1940 at their big factory here.

The story was unfolded before the Communist conspiracy trial in New York.

Charles W. Nicodemus, then a CIO organizer at the plant, testified as a Government witness that Communists among workers at the plant were ordered to draw maps of the layout.

H. C. Givens, jr., manager of the plant, said today he knew there was some Communist activity among workers in the plant in the early days of World War II.

But he never heard of the map plot, Givens said, and he did not know of any instance of Communist sabotage at the plant.

Fred T. Small, a vice president of the company who was manager at the time, said it was all a surprise to him.

Nicodemus said he joined the party in 1937 in the belief that it would strengthen Local 1874 of the CIO Textile Workers of America at the plant.

Local 1874 has about 9000 members and is the largest textile workers unit in the country. The plant employs about 10,000 workers.

In 1940 it was engaged in chemical research for national defense, including work on components of synthetic rubber, magnesium flares and parachutes.

Factory Earnings, Hours and Jobs Decline, But Snyder Denies Depression Is Indicated

By The Associated Press

The Nation's economic barometer continued to show falling tendencies yesterday as Government reports noted drops last month in factory employment as well as in workers' earnings.

But Secretary of the Treasury Snyder maintained "we don't have the elements that brought on depression and depression crises in the past." He told a New York audience that "Right now, in the pockets of the American people we have 200 billion dollars of liquid assets."

These were highlight developments on the economic front:

1. The Labor Department reported that factory earnings and working hours, as well as nonfarm employment slumped significantly last month below February levels. The gross weekly factory earnings dropped about one dollar, to $53.37, while the average factory work week declined from 39.4 hours in February to 38.9 in March.

Ewan Clague, Commissioner of Labor Statistics, told a news conference these decreases mean a cut in the public's purchasing power at a time when a spring upturn in business activity is normally expected.

2. The Federal Reserve Board said that business loans fell off 84 million dollars in the week ended April 13, to mark the thirteenth consecutive drop in this phase of business activity. Last week officials said it indicated that merchants and industries were not taking on any new obligations until the outlook is clarified.

3. The Agriculture Department estimated that farmers' cash receipts may be 10 per cent less this year than the 1948 record total of $31,019,000,000. It said the drop would result largely from lower farm prices.

On the job situation, Snyder reported there were 250,000 more people working last month than during March, 1948, despite a rise in unemployment figures. He said this means "sustained purchasing power."

Clague, however, reported that non farm employment — which comprises about three-fourths of the Nation's workers—fell off 150,000 during March to a total of 43,848,000. This compares with an increase of 300,000 for March, 1948.

The job statistician said that production of durable goods, which had continued strong the past few months, also is showing slackening activity because of lowered employment, working hours and earnings.

Louis H. Bean, economic advisor to Secretary of Agriculture Brannan, said in a New York speech that recent surveys show businessmen plan to reduce their outlays for plants and production machinery 40 per cent below the 1948 level in the next five years.

Such a cutback, he said, could only bring on unemployment, lower national income and depressed conditions.

Pilot Sucked From C-47 Plane

DAVE HUYCKE, of Los Angeles, third pilot aboard a C-47 commercial passenger plane, was sucked out of the plane when he tried to check a draft around a door and was plummeted 3500 feet to almost certain death over Alaskan waters. The accident occurred about four minutes after the plane took off from Annette Island, near Ketchikan, with 10 passengers. "No one knows just what happened, but in some way he got the door open and was sucked out of the plane," according to an airline official

Dan River Mills Reduces Cotton Dress Goods Prices Up to 12.5 Cents

New York, April 20 (AP). — Dan River Mills cut prices sharply today on cotton dress goods to help stabilize the price structure and encourage buying in textiles.

The importance of the reductions are three-fold—they come from one of the largest textile manufacturers; they are made on popular, first quality lines, and they are substantial.

The drops range as high as 12½ cents a yard. The old range of prices was 47½ cents to 75 cents a yard. The new span will be 38½ cents to 62½ cents.

How much of this reduction will be passed along to the ultimate consumer will be a matter for the individual converter and merchant to decide.

They affect more than 100 diversified styles in ginghams, cotton taffeta, corded and combed chambrays and combed suitings.

Hartford, Conn., April 20 (U.P.). Wallace F. Bennett, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, said today the country is "just moving back to normal."

Business, he said, is "merely rediscovering competition, which is a shock to some people because there hasn't been any for 10 years."

Arriving to address a dinner meeting of the Connecticut Industrial Conference tonight, Bennett said he considered price reductions "a very healthy situation."

Fortunately, he added, these reductions have taken place in different industries at different times, thus throwing up a "safeguard against serious decline."

Along Our Street

with Aunt Penny

My telephone table in the hall is a regular "catch-all" for books, magazines, old letters and recipes. This morning, I noticed that the telephone receiver was propped up on some of these books and what-have-you. I'd just put it back on the hook when someone rang the doorbell.

It was a young man from the telephone company. He said one of the other parties on my party line had reported his telephone out-of-order. He explained that when one receiver was off the hook, it took the whole line out of service. When he asked me if I would check my telephone, I turned a deep shade of crimson and told him what I'd discovered.

I made a note then and there to put a sign up over the telephone. In big, bold letters, I wrote, "Always replace the receiver carefully after each call."

10% Drop in 1949 Farm Income Held Likely

By the United Press

Farmers are facing leaner days.

The Agriculture Department said yesterday their net income this year may be as much as 10 per cent below the whopping $17,400,000,000 they took in last year.

Falling farm real estate prices already are reflecting the trend.

The department said prices received by farmers have been falling steadily in recent months while many of their fixed charges are remaining steady or even increasing.

"These trends," it added, "are expected to continue unfavorable to farmers through the rest of the year."

The expected drop in farm income will be due almost entirely to lower prices since the farmer is expected to sell about as much food and feed as last year.

Prices of field crops such as corn and wheat are likely to lead the parade toward lower levels, the department said. The price of meat and meat products probably will drop—but not as much.

To Spend More, Get Less

On the other hand, farm production costs probably will not drop more than 5 per cent. That means the farmer will be spending more in proportion to produce crops which will bring him less.

"Under these circumstances," the department said, "A reduction of about 10 per cent in farmers' gross income would result in a larger drop in their net income."

Actually, farm income fell off faster during the first three months of 1949 than Government economists expected.

They predicted back in February that farm receipts during that period would run nearly $6,600,000,000. Actual farm receipts for January, February and March now are estimated at only $6,100,000,000.

Reflecting that trend, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported the market value of the Nation's farms averaged 1 per cent less nationally on March 1 than on November 1.

It was the first time in 10 years that farm land values have dropped, and the bureau cited lower farm prices, including livestock, as probably the greatest contributing factor.

Lower Earnings Ahead

It said the downward trend of farm prices "tended to confirm the belief of many prospective buyers that lower levels of farm earnings may be ahead."

The decline in farm real estate values probably will lag behind the drop in prices, however, because land prices have jumped only 40 per cent as much as net farm income since 1940.

"While a seller's market still prevails in the better farming areas and for the better farms," the bureau said, "more sellers are finding it necessary to reduce their asking prices . . . to make a sale. The fact that sellers have been reluctant to do this is reflected in the smaller volume of sales last year."

During the November-March period, land values dropped 6 per cent on the Pacific Coast and 5 per cent in the Mountain States where the hard winter and falling livestock prices discouraged buyers.

These drops, coupled with scattered declines in other States, more than offset rising land values in some Eastern and Midwestern States. Land values as a whole still are 3 per cent higher than a year ago and 111 per cent higher than in 1935-39.

Security Program Indorsed by Green

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared yesterday that union demands for welfare-pension plans would be greatly reduced if Congress broadens and liberalizes the Federal social security program.

The AFL leader made the remark in reply to a question by Representative Wilbur D. Mills (D., Ark.) during testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Organized labor's demands for welfare and pension plans in management-union contracts would not be entirely done away with under a more liberal social security system, Green said, but the demands certainly would be reduced.

If New Program Fails

Green added that if, on the other hand, Congress does not enlarge the social security program—as proposed by President Truman—labor would increase demands for management-union welfare programs.

In indorsing President Truman's Fair Deal recommendations for doubling the present scale of social security benefits, Green said that labor is prepared to pay its share of additional costs.

"There is not a labor organization that I know of in which there has not been a consistent appeal from its membership over the past 10 years to broaden and improve our social security," the AFL chief said.

On Eve of Parleys

Green's comments came virtually on the eve of the spring-summer contract negotiations reopening in the Nation's major industries, with the big CIO unions virtually committed to seeking welfare and and retirement plans regardless of Federal action.

The CIO Auto Workers, with one million workers, already has announced its intention of seeking a $100 a month retirement pension from Ford. The CIO steelworkers, almost as large, is said to be angling for $150 a month pension for retired employes.

Spokesmen for CIO unions, in their appearance before the Ways and Means Committee last week, stressed the need for expanding the social security program as part of the Government's over-all action to improve working and living conditions of the Nation's workers.

Hyman Blumberg, vice president of the CIO's Amalgamated Clothing Workers, whose union has one of the oldest and best welfare programs, said he believed there wasn't much chance of such programs being developed to any great extent in other industries. For this reason, he said, his union strongly supported the President's proposal to liberalize Federal society security.

Sol Barkin of the CIO Textile Workers' Union said that less than one per cent of all textile workers are covered by pension systems guaranteed in management-union contracts.

CIO President Phil Murray, in a statement delivered to the committee for him, said that pension plans sponsored by management are "by no means a substitute for basic social insurance, and most such plans are wholly inadequate for production workers . . ."

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, little more than three million of the Nation's 50 to 60 million workers are covered by management-union welfare and pension plans.

Biggest and most widely known welfare-retirement plan is that run by the United Mine Workers and the coal industry, which picks up around 100 million dollars a year through a 20-cents-a-ton levy on every ton of coal mined. John L. Lewis is expected to seek a higher levy, as much as 40 cents a ton, when new contract negotiations begin next month.

Cuban Gunboat Is Sent to Oust Ship Strikers

Havana, Cuba, April 20 (U.P.)—The Cuban gunboat Siboney was ordered today to proceed at full speed to the port of Caibairen where the captain of the strike-bound Canadian freighter Canadian Victor asked for aid in putting ashore 22 striking seamen.

He described the men as "armed and hostile."

Capt. P. L. Scott of Halifax and his fellow officers were described as virtual prisoners of the strikers aboard the freighter, anchored off Cape Frances, 17 miles from the port.

Latest reports said the strikers had hauled up the gangplanks and warned away anyone approaching the ship.

The strikers were reported to have advised Captain Scott that "under no circumstances" would they leave the ship.

Seventeen striking crewmen of another Canadian freighter, the Federal Pioneer, who walked off the ship at Nuevitas yesterday, were taken into custody by Cuban authorities for deportation.

A spokesman for the Canadian Victor's agents in Havana, the North Atlantic & Gulf Steamship Co., said the last report they had received from Captain Scott this morning said he was ashore but was returning to the vessel with a Cuban navy detachment to attempt to remove the strikers.

The strikers apparently thwarted this plan and then prevented the captain from leaving the ship again, it was said.

7500 Leave Jobs In Bendix Strike

South Bend, Ind., April 20 (AP).—A Federal mediator failed to bring union and management together today and some 7500 CIO-United Auto Workers left their jobs in the Bendix Aviation Corp. plant here. The action was in accordance with a strike vote taken last week.

The union had demanded: (1) An adjustment in rates guaranteeing take-home pay of certain employes in the brake shoe department; (2) reinstatement with full pay of 47 workers dismissed for an alleged slowdown in the brake shoe department; and (3) dismissal of a Federal Court damage suit filed by the company based on the charge that the union had engaged in an unauthorized work stoppage.

The plant produces automotive and aviation parts. Aviation products comprise about 60 per cent of its output and a large portion is under Federal Government contracts.

The company also produces brakes for nearly all large automotive manufacturers except Studebaker and Chrysler.

Soon after the strike started Nash Motors announced it would close its car assembly lines at Kenosha and Milwaukee, Wis., Thursday, as it depends on Bendix for brakes. The two Nash plants employ 12,000 workers.

2000 Leave Jobs to Back 10-Miner Sitdown in Pit

Lansford, Pa., April 20 (AP). — More than 2000 anthracite employes walked off their jobs today in support of 10 miners staging a sitdown strike deep in a coal pit.

The sitdown strike was started yesterday by 13 miners in protest of pay reductions. Three of the men, weary and dirty, came to the surface today and returned to their homes.

The 10 remaining below the surface sent up appeals for support of nearly 4000 other hard coal miners in the Coaldale and Tamaqua district pits of the Lehigh Navigation Coal Co.

The strike is the third sitdown stemming from a long-standing dispute over pay for days on which the men leave the pit before the scheduled end of their shift. Under the UMW-anthracite operators agreement this is permitted when working "conditions" in the mine are considered "bad."

Lincoln Plant Workers Approve Strike, 484-15

Detroit, April 20 (AP).—CIO-United Auto Workers at the Ford Motor Co. Lincoln plant approved a strike today. The announced vote was 484 to 15.

Art Valenti, local 900 president, said he would seek the required approval from the UAW international exccutive board on Monday.

Valenti charged a 10 per cent speedup of production lines. The company made no immediate comment.

A similar vote among 65,000 UAW-CIO Ford Rouge plant workers is scheduled for completion Friday. Executive board approval also would be required for a Rouge strike.

The Rouge plant dispute also involves production rates.

More than 6300 employes at Packard Motor Car Co. and the Briggs Manufacturing Co. were idled today by a dispute at Packard.

A Packard spokesman said 3500 employes were sent home because of a slowdown by 190 final assembly workers.

Briggs halted production at its Conner plant, blaming the trouble at Packard. This idled another 2800.

Workers at both firms were told not to return until Monday.

NLRB Finds Two CIO Unions Guilty of Violating T-H Act

The National Labor Relations Board yesterday found two CIO unions guilty of violating the Taft-Hartley Act by insisting on using union-controlled hiring halls as the sole means of employing seamen and radio operators in Atlantic and Gulf port vessels.

The NLRB ruling came one day after a spokesman for the CIO National Maritime Committee told a Senate committee that the CIO maritime unions will strike if the Federal courts rule their hiring halls are illegal.

To Come Up in Court June 6

The question comes up before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals on June 6, as result of an earlier NLRB decision that the National Maritime Union's hiring hall is an illegal closed shop. The closed shop is prohibited under the Taft-Hartley Labor Management Relations Act of 1947.

In its decision yesterday, the NLRB ruled that the National Maritime Union and the American Radio Association had twice violated the Taft-Hartley Act: first, by insisting on maintaining the hiring halls; second, by threatening a strike to back up their demands.

An NLRB panel, consisting of James J. Reynolds, jr., Abe Murdock, and J. Copeland Gray, found that the hiring hall without question brought discrimination in the hiring of workers and in the tenure of employment so as to encourage membership in the unions. Hiring discrimination because of membership or nonmembership in a union is an unfair labor practice under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Coal Mining Parley Told Of Big Output

Pittsburgh, April 20 (AP).—"Astonishing strides" in increasing the world's postwar coal production were noted today by Michael J. Galvin, U. S. Undersecretary of Labor, at the opening session of the International Labor Organization's Coal Committee.

Galvin told labor, Government and operators' representatives from ten member nations that they should place major emphasis on improving the living standards (of miners), which, in turn, should reflect itself in greater production through a "happier and more stable work force."

The U. S. official was among the first speakers at the coal committee's 10-day session. The group was given the task of proposing world-wide standards for miners' working and living conditions. Its recommendations will be referred for ratification to the international group and to member nations.

Galvin told the delegates that the U. S. produced 680 million tons of coal in 1947, 65 per cent more than in 1939. Declaring large quantities were exported in 1947, he added:

"We believe that this achievement was due in a large part to our voluntary arrangements for meeting difficult and rapidly changing conditions and to the high standards of living of American workers."

At the conference—held under sponsorship of the ILO's Industrial Committee—each nation is represented by two government officials, two coal operators and a similar number of labor leaders.

The countries are the United States, United Kingdom, Union of South Africa, France, Netherlands, Belgium, India, Poland, Denmark and Canada.

The conferees limited themselves to three topics of discussion: (1) protection for young miners working underground; (2) rehabilitation of disabled miners, and (3) work hours.

Union Urges Labor Envoys

Leaders of metal industries unions in the Western nations meeting here, yesterday, enthusiastically indorsed the idea of having the United States send some of its top-flight labor leaders as Ambassadors to the European countries.

Conrad Ilg, president of the Swiss Metalworkers Union, declared it would be a "good thing" for all the free democracies to have labor leaders in their Diplomatic Corps.

The union chiefs from the metal industries of 11 European nations, Canada and this country are here holding a three-day session of the Central Council, International Metalworkers Federation, under the auspices of the International Association of Machinists.

The federation officials are seeking to enlist the metal trades and industriy unions of the AFL and CIO in the world-wide battle of the free trade unions against the menace of communism.

D.C. Meetings Told Of Radar Wonders

New radar devices for plotting storm clouds beyond the reach of the eye, and for measuring to distant points across no-man's land, were unveiled here yesterday by Army researchers.

The first, a super-radar set to penetrate completely overcast skies, was described by Lester A. Zurcher, Army Signal Corps civilian scientist, to the American Meteorological Society.

The second radar device, an experimental model for speedy calculation of line-of-sight distance measure in danger zones, is being tested at Fort Belvoir, Va., Charles R. Hoover, of Falls Church, Va., explained to members of the American Geophysical Union.

Both the weathermen and the earth physicists are meeting separately and in joint sessions here.

Dr. Zurcher said the Signal Corps instrument already has detected clouds to an altitude of 47,000 feet, close to 9 miles, and some 2 miles higher than they had been known to exist. The device was perfected at the Evans Engineering Laboratories, Belmar, N. J., the same research center from which radar signals were successfully bounced off the moon.

Dr. William B. Gould, research associate, said the storm cloud radar set is an extension of other radar sets used for distance detection of rain and snow.

Increasing the frequency of the radar waves to a point where they shorten to 1 centimeter in wave length (close to the wavelength of invisible light) enabled the scientists to plot out high and distant cloud formations, he said. The set's power and frequency are Army secrets, but the power exceeds the 200,000-watt peak of conventional radar sets, it was said.

The Fort Belvoir radar device, described by Hoover, project engineer, operates under a different principle in that it bounces back light waves from a companion reflector. Its present effective range is about 5000 yards with an error maximum of about 2 yards at that distance, he said.

Because the 200-pound instrument can be set up and made to register its first measurement within 15 minutes, its obvious military advantage would be speed in locating distance to enemy points. More hazardous ground surveying measures take much longer even under favorable military cover, it was explained.

Another geophysicist, Dr. George Woollard of the University of Wisconsin, told the scientists that Russia has blocked his attempts to remeasure gravity forces in Potsdam, in the Russian-occupied zone of Germany.

For more than half a century, Woollard stated, gravity determinations made at Potsdam have been a reference point for gravity calculations in many parts of the world. Rechecks with recently developed scientific instruments at other points, he said, have uncovered many errors in earlier computations.

Receives Bowie Medal

Walter Davis Lambert of Canaan, Conn., recently retired geophysicist, last night was awarded the William Bowie Medal, top honor of the American Geophysical Union.

The award was given for "outstanding leadership" during his 40 years of service with the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. Lambert was chief of the survey's section on gravity and astronomy.

Mental Clinic For Arlington Away Behind

Only a year old, Arlington County's new mental health clinic is already nine months behind in its work.

Paul Phillips, clinic administrator, said yesterday the clinic is able to handle "only 5 per cent of the crying need" in the county for mental care on a out-patient basis.

Patients must now wait an average of nine months for treatment, he said.

The statement followed a charge Tuesday by the Mental Hygiene Society of Northern Virginia that the area is neglecting its mental health problems.

Cases are referred to the clinic by Arlington courts, schools, and the welfare department.

"So far," Phillips said, "we've only been able to do a token job on their referrals. We can't begin to touch the cases referred by private individuals."

A patient coming to the clinic today has to wait an average of three months for his initial interview, at least six months more for actual treatment except in emergency cases.

Many persons on the waiting list "just drop out entirely without treatment," Phillips said.

The present clinic staff is composed of Phillips, a psychiatric social worker; Dr. Robert C. Burnham, psychiatrist and the clinic's medical director; Miss Margaret Stone, child therapist; Miss Miriam Speck, a psychologist, Miss Jean Williams, a nurse, and two clerks.

According to Phillips, the clinic needs another full-time psychiatrist and at least two full-time psychiatric social workers to begin to touch the court, school, and welfare load.

Set up in 1948, the clinic was given $6000 from county funds, $12,000 from matching State and Federal sources.

For 1949-50, Phillips said, Arlington tentatively has earmarked $7000 as its share for a total clinic budget of $21,000. The clinic head said the increase would provide half-time services of an additional psychiatrist.

Card Effigy of Malan Destroyed in Rioting

London, April 20 (U.P.).—A cardboard effigy of Prime Minister Daniel Malan of South Africa was torn to pieces in Hyde Park tonight in a scuffle between police and demonstrators who sought to burn it in protest against Malan's racial policies.

Police reinforcements kept the British, Indian and Pakistani Communists and students who held the demonstration from burning the effigy in Trafalgar Square as they planned.

Woman, 25, Still Own Lawyer, Files Supreme Court Petition

NYNT News Service

Mrs. Inez Horton Gay of Montclair, N. J., 25-year-old former model who acted as her own attorney and won a law suit against her father and stepmother in New Jersey Superior Court two months ago, tackled the Nation's highest court yesterday again as her own attorney.

Mrs. Gay walked confidently into the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court and filed a petition for a writ of certiorari to make the New Jersey Supreme Court review a lower court's decision against her in a suit against the Fidelity Union Trust Co. of Newark.

The suit, like that against her father and stepmother, involves money which she contends is due her from the estate of her mother, the late Inez Stengel Horton. She places the amount at $33,000.

Mrs. Gay has been at odds with the bank and her father, Col. Paul J. Horton, U. S. A. (retired)—executor and coexecutor, respectfully, of her mother's estate—since 1947 when she filed, and won, a suit in Orphan's Court in Newark to recover part of the estate. Then, however, she was represented by an attorney. The decision was appealed to prerogative court and Mrs. Gay, again represented professionally, lost.

By this time, Mrs. Gay says, she no longer could afford a lawyer. Consulting the law books, she filed an appeal to New Jersey Supreme Court as her own attorney. The court turned her down, on grounds she was a few days late. Mrs. Gay again turned to the books—this time the new State constitution and the new State law statutes, just put in force—and petitioned the court to reconsider. Again she was refused.

Then the former model, settling down to real scrutiny of New Jersey law, discovered a technicality which she now thinks will oblige the State high court to review her case in spite of its previous refusal.

In filing her petition in Supreme Court, Mrs. Gay appealed "in forma pauperis"—unable to afford a lawyer—for permission to act as her own attorney.

Prince Georges Commercial Areas Rezoned

The Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday approved six petitions for commercial rezoning, six applications for special land use permits, and one residential rezoning request.

The residential rezoning will permit New Hampshire Estates, Inc., to use for two-family dwellings, Blocks D-1, D-2, J, K, and L and sections of C, Q, M and O on the west side of New Hampshire ave. near University la.

Turned down, upon opposition of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commision and residents of the area, was the request of Angelo Scandolas to rezone for two-family dwellings a lot on East-West hgwy. near Takoma Park.

Permission to operate day nurseries, subject to health department approval, was granted Mrs. Nancy A. Self for 4921 59th pl., Rogers Heights; Jessie M. Randolph for 724 61st ave., Fairmount Heights, and Christine G. Plato for part of the J. B. Plato estate near Ritchie, Md.

Also approved was the request of Edward E. Bell, jr., for a convalescent and nursing home on property on the west side of Baltimore blvd. at Beltsville, and the petition of Harold F. Greaser for a riding academy on Sheriff rd. between Glendale and Telegraph rds. near Greenbelt.

A MESSAGE FROM THE MOST TALKED-ABOUT LIQUOR STORE IN THE UNITED STATES

nice trick, eh?

REMEMBER those hectic days during the recent war? Remember how tough it was to get an "in" with someone who would sell you a half-decent bottle of liquor without taking your left arm for it? YOU SURE DO! BUT—maybe you also remember the lines that used to stretch for BLOCKS around EIG'S LIQUOR STORE. Remember how EIG'S sold ANYONE—prince or pauper? Remember the write-ups in FORTUNE magazine and the feature stories in newspapers throughout the country? They all told how EIG'S did it. And, it was pretty simple—there was no trick to it at all! EIG'S simply had direct distillery connections. EIG'S had enough nerve to order a million bottles of liquor at one fell swoop! And—EIG'S sold it at bargain prices to ANYONE who wanted it. No penalties—no hooks—no favorites!

What's Happening at EIG'S Today?

Same old story. We're still buying huge quantities of liquor DIRECT from independent Kentucky distilleries. NOTHING BUT THE BEST! And, we're still selling top quality merchandise at the lowest possible prices. Folks still continue to beat a path to our door—and, they still walk out smiling. Because, when they figure the whole thing out, they STILL get MORE for their money at EIG'S.

'Brass Hats' Use Of U.S. Cars Curbed

Many Army, Navy and Air Force brass hats who have been riding to and from work in Government autos at the taxpayers' expense got their "walking papers" yesterday from Defense Secretary Louis Johnson.

He told them they no longer may use official autos except for "actual performance of official duties."

His crackdown came barely two weeks after Representative Daniel J. Flood (D., Pa.) protested in a House speech that it was high time the armed services and other Government departments cut down the number of "bureaucrats" riding around the Capital in "fancy limousines."

Spokesmen for the Army, Navy and Air Force asserted they were already enforcing the regulations laid down in Johnson's memorandum. They said that no officer has been improperly using official autos to ride to and from work.

Johnson, in a terse memorandum yesterday, exempted the 20 top officials who are specifically authorized by acts of Congress to have Government automobiles at their full-time disposal. These are the secretaries, undersecretaries, assistant secretaries, chiefs of staff and vice chiefs of staff of the three services, the Undersecretary of Defense, and Johnson himself.

Representative Albert J. Engel (R., Mich.) ranking GOP member of the House Armed Services Committee, commended Johnson for the order and predicted he will have "the full support of Congress."

Accused of Biting

Dog Netted After Chase Of 47 Blocks

The Washington Post

BOW WOW
Went astray

Police chased a vagabond pooch for 47 blocks yesterday before two men from the dog pound finally caught him under a net.

It all started at 8:15 a. m. when James Pateridge, 1109 Penn st. ne., saw the dog in the 1300 block of Maryland ave. ne. He recognized it as the dog that bit him in the leg Monday near his home.

He called the dog pound. The dog pound called police. Two scout cars, a motorcycle policeman and the dog pound wagon rushed to the scene.

But the dog led them a merry chase. Once, he was reported under a porch at 13th and D sts. ne. The radio dispatcher announced tersely:

"He's now running north in the 1600 block of Benning rd.—and his tongue's hanging out a foot."

"Bow wow," interrupted an unidentified scout car.

The dog—a brindle bull terrier—was finally captured at 13th and G sts. ne. Walter Johnson and William H. Stewart from the dog pound dropped a net over him and the chase was over.

The animal was taken to the dog pound where it will be examined to see if it has rabies.

The methods show more accurately which portions of the heart may be falling down on the job, where blood clots may have formed, and what the starting point is of skipped heart beats, said Drs. Louis H. Nahum and Hyman M. Chernoff of the Yale School of Medicine.

Easter Seal Drive Extended to May 1

Extension of the annual Easter Seal campaign of the District of Columbia Society for Crippled Children to May 1 was announced yesterday by Drive Chairman Albert W. Howard.

Howard said about $45,000 worth of seals have been sold to Washingtonians to date, bringing the drive ahead of last year's for the same number of days.

"Due to unpreventable delays, we were really not under way until April 1," Howard said, "and we feel we should follow our annual practice of devoting one full month in the effort."

D. C. May Raise Fees of Finance Firms by $200

The District's 70 finance companies may be required to take out at least three more licenses totalling $200 a year to cover present operations.

District License Superintendent Chatham T. Nottingham revealed yesterday that the firms have been requested to file complete details on what operations they carry on so he can determine which licenses they will be forced to obtain.

The move resulted from a decision by Assistant Corporation Counsel Chester H. Gray that the firms did not qualify for used car dealer tags as they were not engaged exclusively in buying and selling cars.

companies should be required to obtain licenses for dealing in each type of merchandise which they now repossess.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Robert D. Wise, chairman of the District License Committee, which promulgates license regulations, said most finance firms will be forced to obtain a second hand dealer license for trading in used cars at $50 a year, another such license for trading in electrical appliances, and a detective agency license at $100 a year in order to locate the articles they seek to repossess.

In addition, Nottingham's survey will be used to determine whether additional licenses should be required of the finance companies, Wise declared.

Same Old Slums

Pictures of putrid slums "in the very shadow of the Capitol" are no rarity. Photographs similar to the ones we have published in the last couple of days have appeared fairly often in The Washington Post and other publications. Almost always there is the pointed contrast between filth and squalor in the foreground and the shining dome of the Capitol in the middle distance.

The slumming that several Senators have done in recent days in their neighborhood ought to put particular meaning behind the drive for the new housing bill. The Senate Banking and Currency Committee, reporting favorably on S. 1070 in February, declared that "Approximately one out of every five of our urban families is living today under slum conditions which, in turn, are the breeding ground for disease, juvenile delinquency, and crime. Your committee is convinced that the Nation cannot and should not tolerate indefinitely the social costs resulting from the impact of these conditions. . . . The effects of bad housing apply with equal force on farm families, and on the health and character of their children."

S. 1070 authorizes the provision of Federal funds to assist localities in slum clearance and low-cost housing construction and rental. An amendment drawn up by Senator Sparkman would give the National Capital Housing Authority the power it once had to acquire sites for such development and redevelopment. The picture of progress looks good. But we have seen it before, just as we have seen the slum pictures. The money has yet to be appropriated, and unless Congress' previous record is reversed this time, we are going to see those gaping and shocked explorers on many another voyage of "discovery."

Farm Issue

The Nation's farmers, in order to get their incomes guaranteed under the Brannan scheme, would have to comply with Government marketing regulations, obey Government directives concerning land use, and take other orders from Washington. As Senator Aiken says, "It would be a controlled economy with a vengeance." Yet such controls would be essential in order to prevent the accumulation of excessive surpluses or shortages, if high and rigid price supports are maintained to insure a high, fixed level of farm income. Consequently the Senator is quite right in concluding that the level at which support prices are fixed is "a fundamental issue not only of economics but of philosophy of government as well." The choice lies between a system of flexible, moderate price controls that would leave the farmer considerable freedom of action and a system of controls that would deprive him of freedom of action.

Now the trend toward state controls is world-wide and the United States is the only important nation that has shown any disposition to resist that trend. If this country were to abandon the fight against regimentation on the agricultural front in order to guarantee satisfactory incomes to farmers, other groups of producers would clamor for similar benefits. And, as Senator Aiken suggests, Congress could not, with a clear conscience deny them satisfaction. In short, if the Administration's farm plan were to be approved, the country would be well started on a journey the ultimate goal of which would be state-controlled industry as well as state-controlled agriculture.

Troops In Korea

The decision to withdraw remaining American troops from Korea was inevitable as soon as the Korean Republic was established. Indeed, it is the logical extension of our policy of helping to bring the republic into being and thus to fulfill our pledge of self-government to the Koreans insofar as this is possible in that artificially divided country. The move follows the announced evacuation of Russian troops from the puppet northern Korean People's Republic. Actually the withdrawal of American soldiers has been proceeding for some time; from a peak strength of 40,000 the garrison is now down to 8000.

This determination to end the occupation is predicated on the assumption that the Korean Republic is now capable of fending for itself. The threat of an invasion from the north, or fifth column activity leading to civil war, cannot be discounted—though present estimates place the strength of the Communist police force in the north at 50,000 instead of the 200,000 sometimes claimed. But the Syngman Rhee government of the south so far has met several severe tests with increasing evidence of stability. The American-trained constabulary has been built up to 50,000 men and has demonstrated its ability to cope with internal disturbances as well as sporadic incursions from the Communist north.

Lending weight in the balance is the factor of American economic aid to the Korean Republic. Under military government this amounted to approximately 125 million dollars. The figure requested for next year is 190 million dollars for materials and fertilizer to build up Korean industry and agriculture. Particular emphasis has been placed on the development of electric power to compensate for the supply from the north arbitrarily cut off by Russia. All this helps create a climate for genuine independence.

Actually Korea never has been tenable from a military point of view, and the presence of American troops has been a mere symbol. Withdrawn to a firmer bastion in Japan, these troops will still serve to demonstrate our determination to remain in the Far East, and there should be no delay, in view of the prospect of the resumption of civil war in China, in mapping out centers of security off the coastline. Meanwhile, a Korea free of occupation forces, but with continued economic help from this country and under the watchful eye of the United Nations, can go ahead with its evolution as a free nation.

Spur From The Ruhr

Workers of the world, unite! The tocsin, of which the Marxists have hitherto claimed the prerogative, has the ominous ring of revolution. But as sounded yesterday in the Nation's Capital by the world's metal workers, it was all compact of statesmanship. Metal workers are here from western European countries in a conference with their American and Canadian brethren. After they have talked over issues of common and of general concern, they will disperse for visits to American industrial centers. They deserve a hearty welcome for the leadership they have been showing in the movement for a united as well as a free Europe.

The metal workers are banded together in the International Metal Workers Federation, which embraces all branches of the metal trades in 11 European countries. Here the International Association of Machinists is a member, and the delegates hope that other North American unions in allied crafts will join the federation before the delegates go home. In the meantime the visitors will discuss the problems of the Ruhr with their hosts, and what they say is bound to be worth the most earnest attention of governmental policy-makers. For the metal workers already have made a notable contribution to the long-term solution of this central problem in Europe. As recently as March 15 the union leaders of the five countries directly interested in the Ruhr—Germany, France, Luxembourg, Holland and Belgium—met under the federation's auspices to work out a specific understanding. The upshot was the establishment of the Joint Committee of the Metal and Mine Workers Unions. Headquarters are at Luxembourg, where the meeting was held, and there could be no better place for the achievement of the federation's aim than this former headquarters of the Ruhr cartel. The aim, of course, is the Europeanization of the Ruhr.

As Alexander Hamilton, in his wisdom, knew, union must be preceded by the creation of a vested interest. This was done in the case of the American union by the assumption of the preexisting debts of the constituent states. The Ruhr is the logical place to begin the process of Europeanization. As Europe's hub, with its ganglia of operations and resources extending into the the five countries, it is Europe's first asset. The circumstances of war, which reduced so much of the Ruhr to rubble and scattered ownership to the winds, have provided a heaven-sent opportunity to Europeanize the Ruhr. This is what the metal workers' federation, with rare vision and statecraft, thinks, and to them is due the groundwork insofar as labor is concerned through the establishment of the joint committee.

To be sure, the powers are moving in the same direction, but the pace is that of the tortoise, and the goal is left unstated in a manner which leaves policy toward Europe unclear and lacking in drive and inspiration. An authority has been agreed upon which will put the distribution—and, to some extent, the supervision of management—of Ruhr resources under international auspices, though the members of the authority still have to be named. Another step is the appointment of German trustees. Ownership, for the time being, is in abeyance, though what is done from now on may well determine the pattern of ownership. The old ownership is impossible for various reasons to re-create, and foreign claimants will doubtless find compensation in due course of time.

What is important as a spur to governments is that the same initiative which has been displayed by union labor shall be shown by Europe's industry. The Social Democratic Party of Germany is the party of the free German workers, and the party, clearly, is equally animated with the aim of Europeanization. What the party wants is all-in Europeanization. The iron and steel industry in adjacent countries is of a piece with the German, and it is the party's contention that Europeanization shall be coequal with it. If Europe's industrialists could be persuaded to see the issues in the Ruhr in the European terms in which the metal workers have envisaged them, the destruction of the Ruhr would be akin to the destruction of the phoenix, and a new and enduring Europe would rise again. Only the Ruhr can make "visible the great community" of Europe toward which American policy is fitfully directed.

Commonwealth

The Prime Ministers of the British Commonwealth are meeting in London under the same threat of disintegration that hung over the last conference. It was Eire last time which insisted on breaking its last tie to the British crown. This has now been accomplished, and the conference may be faced with a similar decision by India, which is set to transform itself into an independent republic, though Premier Nehru has been given a free hand in London. Whether India can be restrained by some formula or other from taking the extreme plunge is now to be determined.

The fact remains that the delegates came together in the most harmonious spirit of comradeship. The warmth of the emotion occasioned by the gathering last October seems to have been duplicated. Why this phenomenon when the association is formally falling apart? A witty Frenchman once said that the British association was bound to collapse because no Frenchman could explain it. The collapse is not coming in the way that the Frenchman meant, and if old ties are snapping, new ties seem to be taking their place.

This is as noticeable in Eire and India as in any other of the dominions which have no wish to resign their figurehead. It seems to have come as a surprise to most of the Irish residents in England that their voting rights may be voided in English elections. They had been under the opposite impression as a result of a British Nationality Act passed last July. This act provided that "a citizen of Eire, who is not a British subject, is to be treated under English law as a British subject." But, as Lord Simon has been pointing out, the act was passed when "a citizen of Eire" meant a citizen of the Dominion of Eire. Since Easter Monday there has been no such dominion. If the Irish in England were still to retain English rights in England, the solution would be Irish, indeed. But there are so many curiosities in the Irish-English relation that one more would not seem unduly surprising. Even though Eire did not join England in the war, the fact is proudly proclaimed among the people of the new republic that they contributed more per thousand of population to the British fighting forces than Northern Ireland!

The same goodwill marks Indian-English relations. Never, according to returning travelers, has the feeling been better, and the British businessmen, who foresaw extrusion as their portion in the event of independence, are said to be thriving. It almost seems as if the way to build up an association is to do without one. At any rate, this applies to Portugal and England, between whom a mere alliance of six centuries past has deepened into a relation without equal between two sovereign nations, perhaps between any two dominions. The British Commonwealth is one of the stoutest pillars of world peace. And the American people, in this day of American maturity and American power, must wish the gathering success in tightening the intangible tie, no matter how loose, invisible or nonexistent to the eye the formal one may become.

Destructive Rider

If Senator Johnson of Colorado should succeed in his attempt to attach a rider to the margarine tax repeal bill calling for a reduction in other Federal excise taxes, the result would be to kill the repeal measure. For even if Congress were to accept the rider, it is a foregone conclusion that the President would refuse to sign a bill cutting revenue returns by 600 million dollars (Senator Johnson's own estimate). In the opinion of the Ways and Means Committee's tax experts, the revenue loss would be considerably higher—about 750 million dollars. Since the Federal Government now faces the prospect of budget deficits, any substantial reduction in excise taxes at this time would necessitate other compensatory tax increases or imposition of new taxes in addition to the tax increases that may be required to insure budget balancing.

Existing levies on margarine yield negligible returns to the Treasury. As a matter of fact, they are not imposed for the sake of revenue, but for the purpose of discouraging margarine sales. Hence the arguments against immediate repeal of excise taxes, imposed to raise much-needed revenue, do not apply to the discriminatory margarine taxes which tend to dry up sources of taxable revenue. To be sure, strong arguments exist for reducing or abolishing Federal wartime excise taxes as soon as feasible. Some of these taxes represent burdensome additions to the prices of goods and services and should be dropped when the revenue needs of the postwar adjustment period become less pressing. Others are well adapted for State and local use; and if the Federal Government withdrew from the field, State and local governments, in desperate need of revenue, could step in and use them to good advantage. In any case, proposals for reducing or repealing Federal excises require careful study and discussion on their merits. It would be a highly irresponsible as well as an ill-timed procedure for the Senate to attach such proposals as a rider to the margarine bill.

Washington's Slums

You and Senator Flanders deserve much praise for the story with photographs about Washington's horrible slums, printed on April 19. (Also the Czechoslovak Embassy officer and the woman from India must share a point of credit.)

I wonder if there wasn't one missing element in the story—that is, a listing of the owners of these decrepit, disease and crime-breeding shacks. Some months ago when some of the alley-slum property was announced to give way to Government building construction, your reporter did list the names and full details of the owners of the rat-infested hovels. I suggest that in future stories (or even in a follow-up of the one this morning) that some detailed analysis be made of the owners of the slum properties.

Along with the listing of names, business, associations and other information about the owners, they should be interviewed so each may explain to the public their point of view and how it is they accept an unearned increment on these civic ulcers, on which they apparently never so much as think to place a poultice.

Freedom Fair

I live in Georgetown, and I love it. It was a product of its time. But of what time or place is the Freedom Fair plan a product? Why all these "monumental" buildings for a summery fair that could be gay, friendly and free . . . for these qualities, we, the American people, are known throughout the world. We need openness, we need air in Washington.

Why have not the outstanding architects, whose fine work epitomizes the culture of our country, been asked to design the Freedom Fair? Men who could plan for our climate and the purpose of this fair. Who did the plans anyway?

SALLY FITZGERALD.

What sort of thinking produced the plans for our 1950 sesquicentennial buildings? Can't you see the sweating, fainting crowds in those windless courts on a typical Washington summer day?

After all the talk in your real estate pages about adapting the house to climate and location, you publish, without comment, a Freedom Fair plan that would have been bad in 1800 and is revolting in 1950.

Is this the symbol of 150 years of planning and building progress? Can't aviators see USA outlined in lights (if they must be told where they are) without having to twist an entire fair into those letters?

Carson's Appointment

In your April 18 letters column, Mr. Leslie Eichel, who evidently appreciates the new Federal Trade Commissioner, Mr. John Carson, failed to mention Carson's amazing record as the Bituminous Coal Consumers Counsel.

His solid accomplishments as a pioneer in this type of agency, against rugged opposition are numerous and a matter of history but what I would like to call to attention is his superior if not unique handling of public funds.

Three times, in as many years, Mr. Carson returned to the Government a large portion (as high as 30 per cent, I believe) of the appropriations for his offices which he refused to spend unwarrantedly.

The often abused title "public servant" finds in John Carson an outstandingly idealistic yet practical candidate.

Army Dentists

This is in reply to former Defense Secretary Forrestal's letters and news release threatening to draft dentists and physicians into the Armed Forces, or retain those now in service, or recall those who have reserve commissions.

His statement of the three alternatives of drafting dentists, ordering back into service those with reserve commissions or holding those dentists now in service, shows a very poor knowledge of dental problems.

A fourth and much more satisfactory alternative is before Secretary Johnson of reducing the need of so many dentists in the armed forces by minimizing the amount of required work. This work could be decreased 80 per cent by having the new recruits complete all dental work required before entering service. After complete mouth rehabilitation by a competent dentist, at the usual draft age, a patient needs very little dental care for the next year or two.

This preservice care could be given by the patient's own dentist: a local dentist who knows and is interested in the patient and his family. The Government could arrange payments for this work, as the cost would be comparable to the cost of forced dental labor in the Army.

The draftee should find this much more satisfactory as he could select his own dentist, rather than being forced to submit to the administrations of any disgruntled dentist just marking time in an Army post.

Jeffersonian Democracy

You published an interesting letter on April 15 which points out that Thomas Jefferson did not believe that all men are created equal in talents or capacity.

Surely this is an understatement. The Jeffersonian theory of democracy is based on man's inequality. Jefferson felt that democracy was the best possible system because it provided a mechanism by which the "natural aristocracy . . . of virtue and talents" could be chosen to lead the Nation, rather than the "artificial aristocracy, founded on wealth and birth."

In his well-known letter to John Adams of October 28, 1813, he wrote: "The natural aristocracy I consider as the most precious gift of nature, for the instruction, the trusts, and government of society."

This is, of course, similar to Dr. Arnold Toynbee's theory of a creative minority which, in all periods of social growth and development, leads, inspires and leavens the mass of mankind.

In Jefferson's age, the electorate chose Presidents who were the intellectual and cultural leaders of the Nation. They were political philosophers, men of vast mental breadth and creative capacity.

Have we been wise as a Nation in departing from this practice? The tasks and responsibilities of Government are far heavier now than then. Perhaps the contemporary Jeffersonians would do well to attempt to apply his theories of leadership as well as his theories of democracy.

Teen-Age Sightseers

I am appalled at the busloads of high school teenagers that are sightseeing in this Capital of our country. I have observed them quite closely, especially Easter week, and my complaint is that they do not seem to appreciate anything they see. They shamble along, arm in arm, chewing gum and taking all the room on the sidewalks. They even make fun of some of the things they see.

Perhaps proper understanding and appreciation should be taught in the schools before the trip is made.

"Gregorian Ghost"

In your April 10 editorial "Gregorian Ghost," you gave full recognition to Sol Bloom's attitude on the one or two extra days which appear in the world calendar. He referred to these extra days as having "neither name nor number." In this he was mistaken. The 365th day at the end of every year has a definite name, Worldsday, and date, W December (31). The leap-year day every four years also has its name, Leapyear Day, and date, W June (31).

Calendar reformers are indebted to an inspired and far-seeing Roman Catholic abbot who conceived these days as separate and apart from the seven days of the week—one coming between a Saturday and Sunday on the closing day of every year, and the other coming in the leap years. In this manner the first day of the week, Sunday, begins the year on January 1, and the seventh day of the week, Saturday, always falls on the seventh day of every new year.

One cannot but honor and respect Sol Bloom's deep and loyal faith. In his sincerity, however, he blinded himself to peoples of other faiths who did not hold to his belief in the unbroken seven-day weeks upon which his Sabbath day worship seemed to center. History clearly records that the interpretation of the unbroken sequence of the seven-day week had its origin during the Babylonian Captivity and does not date from time immemorial.

The Rev. Thomas Morris, in Orate Frates, wrote: "The Jewish people have their own calendar, though in practice they have been forced to use the Gregorian calendar. It is, moreover, the Gregorian not the Jewish calendar which is proposed for revision."

Then, too, the Jewish people are at present operating under two calendars, the civil calendar now in use and their religious calendar. The same situation applies when the world calendar is adopted.

Senator Kefauver is surely to be commended for his understanding of the subject, his far-seeing outlook and his courage in presenting to the Senate his bill, S. 1415, on the world calendar.

It is difficult to conceive how anyone of any creed, nationality, race or color would seek to deny or reject Worldsday, a universal world holiday that would unite all nations, peoples, races and creeds as one in its annual observances.

Peacemonger Shortage

By Malvina Lindsay

Mrs. Feddup Screams

AFTER A LONG spell of good behavior, Mrs. Francine Feddup, chronic screamer aloud at human stupidity, was in court yesterday. She had been arrested while shrieking on a streetcar.

"Your honor, it had been one thing after another," she told Judge Parmalee Pudd. "Every time I picked up the paper I read about some new guided missile, jet bomber, atom bomb target, or plan to win the next war. Every time I turned on the radio I heard about some new row in Congress among Democrats, Dixiecrats, Old and New Guard Republicans. Then here came the usual dogfight headlines from the U. N.

"I warned you," the judge interrupted, "about such reading. Why don't you stick to the comics?"

"I am sticking to them. Isn't it comic that, on top of all this, Ernest Bevin should have said that if we get peace we'll have to get it in a year? Well, I thought to myself 'Why aren't we all of us peacemongering day and night?' Then I looked around at all those people on the car, like myself, going downtown to buy frippery, or to club meetings to whisper and row over candidates, or to offices to argue and feud, and—well I just let everybody have it."

"WHY DO YOU want to stick your nose into this peace business?" asked Judge Pudd. "Why don't you leave all that to the signers of the Atlantic Pact?"

Mrs. Feddup hurriedly clapped her hand over her mouth. "That's just the point," she said. "Everybody is!"

"After all," asked the judge, "what can we do for peace except be stronger than the other fellow?"

"What can we do?" almost shrieked Mrs. Feddup. "We can be smart enough to sell ourselves to the world as offering it something besides an atom bomb. For one thing we can talk more about President Truman's Point IV, the 'bold new program' that could help millions of miserable people to better themselves."

"You forget, little lady," said Judge Pudd, fingering his hound's tooth watch charm, "that charity begins at home."

Mrs. Feddup held her lips tightly for a moment. "I'm talking about self-defense—not charity," she retorted. "Anyway, I screamed because we weren't doing more peacemongering at home as well as abroad."

"I don't like that word," said the judge. "It sound sort of er—subversive."

"What I mean is," continued Mrs. Feddup, "that we ought to be doing something about depression instead of talking so much about it. If I've heard it once, I've heard it a thousand times in the last three years that the Kremlin's war plans hinge on the expectation of a bust in this country. Then why on earth aren't we all of us, consumers, manufacturers, workers, farmers, holding meetings in every hall and on every street corner to figure out how we can prevent a depression—and maybe a war? But here we go on like ostriches, each thinking of how much profit he can make, how much of a raise he can get, what smart buying he can put over. It almost makes me scream to think of it!"

"Watch out" cautioned the judge. "You can't meddle with the law of supply and demand."

"WHAT'S more," went on Mrs. Feddup, "why aren't we being smarter in the U. N.? Why are we letting the world get a chance to believe the propaganda that we're just a big bully who wants to play entirely by himself?"

"The U. N.," said Judge Pudd, "is a very worthy enterprise—in its place."

"Then why," asked Mrs. Feddup, "do we permit the world to think we're snubbing it? Why does Congress have time to talk endlessly about nothing and not get around to authorizing the money we've already set aside for the International Children's Emergency Fund? Why aren't we smart enough to grab the advertisement as humanitarians we get in helping feed and heal children all over the world, even in iron curtain countries?"

"What you need," said the judge, "is a few weeks in Florida."

Mrs. Feddup gritted her teeth. "Why," she demanded, "don't we call a moratorium on all this political and personal bickering among ourselves and pool our time and our minds to do something positive for peace? Just think if we'd had this chance before 1939—or, rather, if we'd had enough sense to know we did have it."

"Mrs. Feddup," said the judge, "you're neurotic about all this. After all, this country's safe so long as we keep the atom bomb secret——"

A series of shrieks pierced the courtroom. Mrs. Feddup was led back to her cell.

"New DP Law"

In regard to your April 18 editorial on the "New DP Law": How can The Washington Post be in favor of the new DP law when there are four million unemployed Americans? Why should we let in thousands of foreigners to compete with our men when there are not enough jobs to go around? Charity should begin at home!

If we must let these people in, why not confine them to Alaska where there is plenty of land, or are the DP's so choosy that they would not go there?

Today and Tomorrow

The Soviet Feelers

LIPPMANN

THE SOVIET feelers about Berlin are no surprise. Last September in Paris when we rejected the United Nations compromise proposals, General Clay and the State Department thought that a more satisfactory settlement could be had by waiting until the spring—until the air lift had proved itself through the winter months, when our counter-blockade had begun to bite in the Soviet zone, and after the Atlantic Pact had strengthened the military position of the West.

But it is now spring, all these things have happened as expected, and yet the feelers are embarrassing. That is because on the main issue which caused the Berlin conflict the timetable of events is not what was planned and expected. By this time the western Germans were supposed to have agreed on a constitution which we approved, there was to be a German government in Franfurt, Allied military government was to have been replaced by civilian control. We were then to confront the Soviets with a democratic state in three quarters of Germany which was on the road to economic recovery and to a position of political equality and self-respect among the free nations.

THESE expectations have not yet been fulfilled, and, therefore, we are not yet ready to deal with Berlin and the German question. The constitution, which we would be willing to approve, has been rejected by the Social Democrats, who are the strongest political party in western Germany. There is, of course, no German government in Frankfurt. Though Messrs. Schuman, Bevin, and Acheson have agreed to end military government and replace it with a civilian control, that cannot be done until there is a German government.

Moreover, the plan to have western Germany well on the road to economic recovery is overshadowed by the belief that a recession has begun, that the sellers market for German exports is waning, and that German recovery will be in severe competition with British, Belgian, and French recovery.

THE POSITION is awkward. Last summer in Moscow, last September in Paris, again as recently as February when Stalin made his statements to the International News Service, we insisted that we would negotiate when the blockade was lifted, and only when. We refused to postpone the western German state, as Stalin demanded, in order to get the blockade lifted.

But now there is as yet no German state, and no good prospect that there will be one in the near future. At the same time there are the feelers which indicate that the Soviet government may lift the blockade and call upon us to carry out our pledge to resume negotiation for a German treaty. If they did that they would have gotten, not as a concession from us to be sure but as a consequence of the breakdown of our plans, a negotiation about Germany before there is a western German state. That is what they have asked for from the beginning. That is what we have refused to agree to. That is what they tried to force us to agree to when they instituted the blockade of Berlin. Now the blockade has not caused us to give up the western German state, and therefore the blockade as such may be described as a failure. But since we do not have the western German state, and yet must negotiate if the blockade is lifted, it is not easy to see what we ought to do.

WE CAN, of course, exert pressure upon the Germans to agree on a constitution and set up the Frankfurt government. But we must remember that this will be the second time we have had to do this. Last July the 11 German minister presidents in the western zones went publicly on record against a constitution "until a solution for all of Germany is possible and until German sovereignty has been sufficiently restored." General Clay, General Robertson, Ambassador Murphy went to work on the Germans, and got them to go through the motions of doing what they had declared they did not want to do. But in fact the Germans have not done it anyway. They have not produced a constitution that they and we could agree on.

The basic fact, which we have preferred not to recognize, is that the Germans do not believe in our conception of the western German state. They would rather not have it. But if we insist that they have it, they will make the most of it, using the machinery of the government to liquidate or nullify our controls and to work out their own terms of settlement with eastern Germany and the Soviet government.

THE SOVIET feelers are addressed to the Germans, quite as much as to us, probably even more than to us. In this complicated game for high stakes, the Soviet government holds some very high cards. If we have no plan for a German settlement by four power agreement, the Russians have an alternative, which is to negotiate directly with the Germans.

That in fact is what they are now doing, and no one who knows anything about Germany and its history can have any doubt about the seductiveness of a German-Russian understanding. The Germans have not forgotten, and cannot be expected to forget, Frederick the Great and Bismarck and the Treaty of Rapallo, or that as long as Hitler had a deal with Stalin, Germany was master of Europe—and that only when Hitler attacked Russia, did Germany go down to destruction.

Second Thoughts On Unification

THE REASON for the delay in accepting the resignation of Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall is one of those Washington mysteries that is no mystery at all. The difficulty has been in finding a proper successor willing to accept a post which is bound to be greatly reduced in importance.

Childs

Just how far it will be reduced is at this point anyone's guess.

It must be a guess because once again a great many men with responsibility are preoccupied with the question of power and who in the military establishment shall exercise it.

There is nothing really new about this debate, which is going on for the most part beneath the surface. The root of it is the deep distrust inherent in the American character of any concentration of authority in Government.

That goes back to our origins and the Founding Fathers. It is new in that for the first time this Nation has world-wide military power and responsibility.

Royall's successor may be announced before this is in print. At the same time the resignation of John Sullivan as Secretary of the Navy may be made public along with the name of his successor.

BEHIND the heaving and groaning that issue from the Pentagon Building these days are two facts. One is the ironclad determination of the new Secretary of Defense, Louis Johnson, to run the military establishment himself.

Here is no Hamlet "sickled o'er with the pale cast of thought" and struggling in vain to make difficult if not impossible decisions. Johnson was once described as a superbull in a china shop. As he put it when he came in, he is knocking their heads together.

The second fact is the new unification bill, which the President has asked Congress to approve. It is strong medicine; so strong that some are gagging at it.

The measure would give the Secretary of Defense powers such as an official of Government in the United States scarcely ever before has wielded except in time of war. That may be necessary to bring about unification. Nevertheless, an under-current of resistance is growing.

Unless he is persuaded to change his views, the most formidable opponent is likely to be Representative Carl Vinson of Georgia. Vinson's opposition is put down to a Navy point of view acquired before unification in his years as chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee. It is believed, however, to be tinged with suspicion of Johnson's personal drive for power.

Johnson himself is in favor of retaining the title of Secretary for the civilian heads of Army, Navy and Air, although at the same time he opposes having them sit on the all-important National Security Council. Regardless of title they would be, in effect, Assistant Secretaries.

THE HINT was passed to Navy Secretary Sullivan that he should testify in favor of the measure. According to Sullivan's associates, he wrote a stiff letter declining on the score that the bill was "repulsive" to him. He added that if this meant his resignation, he would be happy to resubmit it.

Out of office for most of the past five weeks with virus pneumonia, Sullivan has not testified on the bill about the measure. Nor will he discuss it with anyone, which accords with Johnson's injunction against spreading controversy.

Less discreet was a witness called before the Senate Armed Services Committee in closed session. The Senators had heard much hemming and hawing and politic evasion before they asked Gen. Clifton B. Cates, commandant of the Marine Corps, for his opinion. According to members of the committee who could not help but admire his soldierly honesty, Cates said he could not support the unification measure.

The direst fears exist within the Navy of what the new unification may mean. This helps to explain the almost comic stealth with which the laying of the keel of the superaircraft carrier USS United States was carried out in the Norfolk Navy Yard. It was as though the Navy were terrified that at the last minute its precious possession would be torn away from it.

The decision on unification cannot be postponed too long. So much depends on it both on the question of security and on the billions that are being appropriated for defense.

national disgrace"—but would serve as a model for the rest of the country.

As one step, he suggested that an intensive Senate study of local conditions could develop a model building, health and sanitation code for the District, which might later be adopted nationally.

Could Learn at First Hand

Washington is an ideal testing ground, Sparkman told a press conference last night, because members of Congress could learn at first hand the working and flaws of public housing and slum clearance.

He stressed the educational value of such a District study. It will demonstrate, he said, how public housing and slum clearance work will eventually save the taxpayer vast sums in reduced juvenile delinquency, police and fire protection costs.

Sparkman proposed that his subcommittee could make a $20,000 District housing study if the Senate approves a pending measure calling for a $60,000 appropriation to the full Banking Committee to conduct various investigations in the coming year.

The District housing study developed after Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.) said on the Senate floor that the pending measure was offered as a "cure rather than a preventive" for slum conditions.

Should Develop Model Code

He told the Senate that its Banking Committee should develop a model, antislum code, covering building and health regulation, and then refer it to the Senate District Committee. He said the code should promptly be put into effect here to give it a working test.

Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.), who toured city blighted areas Tuesday, joined the pleas for an immediate slum attack locally.

"I think the time has come when those of us in the House and Senate can do no greater service than clear up these Washington slum conditions through law enforcement, education, and any other means necessary. Let's use Washington as a guinea pig and demonstrate to the country that we can clean up slum conditions right here," said Ferguson.

Ferguson said he wanted to know why the city's health regulations were not being strictly enforced. "Some of these slums have been here more than 20 years," he said.

Planning Officials in Huddle

Meanwhile, Federal and District planning officials were in day-long huddles yesterday over possible technical roadblocks which might prevent the ill-fated District land agency from securing slum clearance funds under the national measure.

Mark Lansburgh, land agency chairman, said his group was "definitely interested" in receiving funds under the slum clearance provisions of the bill but indicated enabling legislation might be necessary.

The local land agency act calls for a $20,000,000 authorization over a 10-year period, but since its creation three years ago the agency has been denied all fund requests by Congress.

Whether further legislation to permit the agency to avail itself of money from the long-range housing bill should be asked is a "policy question for the Commissioners to decide," Lansburgh added.

West's Opinion Asked

Lansburgh and National Capital Park and Planning Commission officials plan to meet with the District Commissioners shortly to settle this question.

Senator J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.), Senate District Committee chairman, also entered the local housing picture by calling on Corporation Counsel Vernon E. West to determine possible effects of the pending national bill upon the 1946 District slum act.

Federal housing officials have consistently held the Nation-wide measure is intended to assist the District on a par with the States.

Housing Bill Faces Vote

Senate might have to stay in session a little late, if by 5 p. m. it looks as if final action can be completed.

Once the housing bill is out of the way, Senate Democratic leaders will give the green light to four important measures, Myers said.

These were:

1. Legislation to authorize the Commodity Credit Corporation to acquire storage facilities for crops on which they make loans to farmers to bolster prices.

2. The Federal aid to education bill.

3. A companion measure to improve the health of all the Nation's school children, whether they attend public, private or parochial schools.

4. The appropriation bill for the Labor Department and the Federal Security Agency for the next fiscal year.

Senate Administration leaders, Myers said, put the four bills ahead of the House-approved measure to extend the reciprocal trade agreements program.

Myers, Senate Democratic whip, told reporters the Democratic policy-makers have taken no official position on the attempt by Republican Senators John Bricker of Ohio and Harry P. Cain of Washington to write an antisegregation provision into the housing bill.

Will Oppose Amendment

But, Myers said, he as one Democrat thoroughly in favor of the President's civil rights program, was going to vote against the antisegregation amendment because he believed 'it was the way "to wreck the public housing bill."

There is every indication that the Bricker-Cain move will be thoroughly swamped when it comes to the floor.

Senator Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) touched off a not-so-lively debate on the segregation issue yesterday when he urged the Senate to approve the Bricker-Cain amendment.

Senator Edward J. Thye (R., Minn.) retorted, "The question in my mind is whether we should support the amendment and lose the housing bill."

Taft declared there was no justification for the amendment. There "has been no discrimination" in Ohio in the matter of public housing, Taft declared.

Bricker, Taft's junior colleague from Ohio, however, exclaimed that if the antisegregation amendment is defeated, "then there is something wrong with the bill, or with the Constitution, or there is something wrong with the Democratic and Republican platforms."

"We've been shadow-boxing on this civil rights issue long enough," Bricker said. "Here's a chance to vote our party platform."

Fay to Appeal Phone Ruling

where hearings have been postponed until May 9.

In District Court 36 more suits will be scheduled after the Easter recess. And one case will be heard before the Public Utilities Commission on April 28.

In addition, Fay has agreed not to remove an additional 40 telephones pending final outcome of the Miller case.

Meanwhile, a section of the telephone company tariff reserving telephone service to lawful use has been in effect since Monday.

In its appeal the Government will contend that Miller's telephone must be removed on evidence of gambling regardless of the area in which the Government alleged the gambling occurred.

The Government will also contend that the aid of a court of equity to prevent the discontinuance of telephone service, which is being used to facilitate bookmaking in violation of the law, cannot be invoked.

Laughlin Fires Suit at Bowie

lin in court when apprehended to answer a contempt charge.

The Washington lawyer countered yesterday with his suit in District Court against Bowie in which he asks damages totaling $208,500.

He asks $101,000 damages for malicious abuse of process, $57,500 for malicious prosecution and $50,000 for slander.

When told that Laughlin had filed a suit naming him, Bowie inquired, "What for?" For defamation of character, he was told. "What character?" asked Bowie lightly.

When a reporter informed him of some of the details in the suit, Bowie laughed. "It's a farce. It amuses me. It's perfectly ludicrous."

Bowie was asked if he would go into the District to accept service in Laughlin's suit.

"Why should I inconvenience myself?" he asked.

Invective and charges and counter-charges were tossed freely across the District line yesterday.

"I don't want the newspapers," said Bowie, "to get or give the impression that there is anything personal in this matter. Insofar as I am concerned there is nothing personal about it. If Laughlin wants to make it personal, the hell with him, and that's exactly the way I feel about it."

Expects to Get Him in Court

Bowie said he believes he will be able to get Laughlin before the Maryland court "if he stays in the United States and above the ground."

"To me he is just another witness who has defied the court," said Bowie, "and will be treated just like everybody else. He is the most insignificant thing in my life."

Taking another tack, he asked: "Don't the clearly obvious facts speak for themselves? Don't they give the lie to everything Laughlin has said?"

Laughlin, after reading the statements attributed to Bowie in afternoon newspapers, commented, "I believe the Biblical quotation has application that reads, 'The voice is Jacob's voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau.'

Too Elevated, He Feels

"In my judgment, Bowie is incapable of using language of this elevated caliber. Therefore, it is my judgment that wording was furnished him by his three men in waiting—Jimmy La Fontaine, Sam Beard, the pickle man, and Jewboy Dietz." (The three are gambling figures in the county and the District.)

When this statement was read to Bowie, he said, "Every word of it is a contemptible lie."

Laughlin also said that he had learned that Bowie, when a law student, had worked as a doorkeeper at Fontaine's gambling place. When this statement was read to him by a reporter, Bowie said in amazement, "Did he say that?" After a pause he continued brusquely, "All right, go ahead and print it."

Later, Bowie explained he felt the charge so asinine it did not merit the dignity of a denial.

Contemptible Lie, He Says

Laughlin said that when he and Mrs. Keleher were in Bowie's office in Upper Marlboro on April 8, Bowie told him in the presence of Mrs. Keleher, "Your telegram to Governor Lane on January 9 caused all this trouble. The Governor referred your telegram to me and what could I do but begin an investigation. Before you wired the Governor everything was peaceful in our county and the gamblers weren't causing anyone any trouble. You people should know that Jimmy LaFontaine has done many things for me."

"Every word is a contemptible lie," said Bowie.

The State's attorney also branded as a "contemptible lie" Laughlin's claim that he (Bowie) had told them, "You two must know I'm in a hell of a fix out here. I've told all the church people that there is no gambling and now Mr. Fay must stick his nose in my business and make raids in this county."

A reporter went over the charges contained in Laughlin's suit with Bowie and the latter interposed repeatedly, "A deliberate falsehood."

"Why am I trying to get him out here if that i sthe case?" he asked finally.

In his suit, Laughlin said that on April 8 Bowie made three attempts to persuade him and Mrs. Keleher not to testify. Bowie denied this.

"In An Awful Spot"

In his suit, Laughlin said that very late on the day of April 8, Bowie telephoned him and said that certain members of the grand jury were critical of him because he had not called Laughlin and Mrs. Keleher to testify.

He quotes Bowie as saying: "I am in an awful spot here—you know what a mess it is, and Fay's office has me upset. Everybody seems to be on my neck. If you will agree to come out, I assure you that you will be permitted to testify as soon as you arrive."

As to whether the grand jury had been critical of him for not calling Laughlin and Mrs. Keleher on April 8, Bowie said he could not divulge anything that took place or was said before the grand jury. However, Bowie had this to say:

"The conversation was limited strictly to my inquiry as to why he and Mrs. Keleher left, and in trying to talk him into agreeing to come back again so I could get the answers I wanted from him."

While Laughlin and Bowie were exchanging shots yesterday, the county grand jury decided it might as well recess until 10 a. m., Monday, May 2. There were "good and sufficient" reasons for the recess, F. Bowie Addison, jury foreman, told Judge Marbury.

'Mock Trials' Are Admitted

bodily harm and even death threats."

Such methods, he said, "make a mockery of American justice."

But Colonel Ellis told the Senators that Nazis convicted of the infamous crimes exaggerated the alleged mistreatment. He said the purpose of their accusations against United States Army prosecutors was to "wiggle out" of death sentences imposed on them by an American military court.

The Senate group, headed by Senator Balwin (R., Conn.), is investigating protests that American officers, in their zeal to get confessions, were themselves guilty of improper conduct in the prosecution of 74 German S.S. troops brought to trial in the case.

In the massacre at Christmas time, 1944, during the Battle of the Bulge, a contingent of American troops, surrounded and hopelessly outnumbered, surrendered to the onrushing Germans. Instead of sending the captured men to prisoner-of-war camps in the rear, the Nazi Elite troops marched the Americans into a snow-sovered field and cut them down with machine-gun bullets.

Eighty American soldiers were slain there. Another 80, perhaps more, were shot down after surrendering elsewhere in the battle sector.

Ellis told the committee yesterday he knew of only two cases of mild mistreatment of the accused Germans. He said two prisoners named Dietrich and Pieper complained of being "kicked in the rear."

Altogether, 43 Germans were sentenced to death for complicity in the Malmedy atrocities. The Army later cut the number to 12. Then Gen. Lucius Clay, American military governor in Germany, commuted six of the death sentences to life imprisonment.

Ellis testified that the mock trials were nothing more than an "interrogation" of the Germans "to get them to talk."

He said the former Nazi Storm Troopers had a general agreement to hide the truth about the Malmedy episode from U. S. Army officers. This made it necessary, he said, to confine the Germans in solitary cells and put "black hoods" over their heads to prevent them from conspiring.

In his unsolicited letter to the Senate Committee, Bailey said a "team" of lawyers, interpreters and others collected evidence against the Germans.

Bailey gave this description:

"After these interpreters had 'worked out' on these prisoners—some of them were kids 16 or 17 years of age—and softened them up and scared them into a condition where they would confess anything, the prisoner then had a long multicolored robe thrown over him and black hood pulled down over his head, and rope knotted about his neck, and he was marched into a cell. . . .

"I have been present in cells where there was only a small table with a black cloth over the top, and containing a crucifix and two candles. And when the prisoner was marched in, and the black hood suddenly jerked from his head, he fainted dead away, his nose striking the concrete floor, flattening his nose and making his face a bloody mass.

"And I have seen the interpreter take his foot and push the prisoner over on his back, jerk him to his feet, and tell the American lawyer that the prisoner was faking.

"The lawyer would then proceed to interrogate him and obtain his confession, which I took down in shorthand . . . but I am definitely certain that the statement which the prisoner ultimately signed and which later used to help convict him at the Malmedy trial in no way remotely resembled the original 'confession' given in the cell."

Gilpin Opens New Branch Plant in D. C.

By S. Oliver Goodman

Opening of a new branch plant of the Henry B. Gilpin Co., wholesale drug firm at 411 South Capitol st., was announced yesterday by James E. Allen, Washington manager.

ALLEN

Previously located at 229 7th st. sw., the present three-story building containing more than 40,000 square feet was formerly used by the State Department. It was remodeled extensively and now contains much unique equipment, according to Allen.

Mechanical conveyors on which baskets move along a line of human "pickers" fill orders from literally acres of steel shelves stocked with 23,000 drug and sundry items. The Gilpin organization serves hundreds of drug retailers in the Washington area.

Gilpin's, a 104-year-old firm, has its home office in Baltimore and another branch in Norfolk. Allen, in the drug business since 1934, joined the Gilpin firm in 1940. He served in the Hospital Corps of the Navy during the war.

An auditorium and conference room have been set up in the new quarters and are being used by the D. C. Pharmaceutical Association for regular meetings. Allen said that local druggists soon will be invited to an open-house reception at the new plant.

SPURT IN SALES: Washington sales of ordinary life insurance leaped 23 per cent in March over the same month last year, more than wiping out a decline in the first two months. March sales aggregated $12,987,000, while sales for the first quarter rose 3 per cent to $33,024,000. Maryland's volume was 1 per cent improved for the month and Virginia showed a 2 per cent upturn. The figures were reported yesterday by the Life Insurance Agency Management Association of Hartford.

ODD LOTS: Miss Eleanor L. Dankmeyer, chairman of the Capital Group, Association of Bank Women, will head a local delegation which will attend a regional meeting in Philadelphia this weekend . . . Newspaper advertising lineage in 52 cities in March increased 6.6 per cent over same 1948 month, while lineage for first three months was up 3.2 per cent . . . Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food prices index this week declined to $5.68, which is 17 per cent less than the year-ago figure . . . Three more large companies yesterday cut prices on copper products, brass and other copper alloy items . . . William B. Boger and Francis W. Coughlan, both of Washington, have been elected directors of Coastal Aviation Corp. of Alexandria, Va. Coughlan also was elected a second vice president.

NEW REPRESENTATIVE: Donald H. Dunham has been appointed home office group representative of a new special service office in Washington, the United States Life Insurance Co. of New York announced yesterday. He formerly was associated with the Commerce Department, the Social Security Board, Group Hospitalization, Inc., and was field manager for another life insurance firm. He also was editor of the Bulletin semimonthly publication of the Washington Junior Chamber of Commerce.

ATTEND PARLEY: A large delegation of Washington insurance men is in Baltimore today to attend the annual joint Baltimore-Washington Sales Congress. Speakers will include J. Edwin Larson, president of National Association of Insurance Commissioners; Paul F. Clark, president of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.; Karl H. Kreder, assistant vice president of Metropolitan Life, and Richard E. Pille, agencies director of Mutual Benefit Life.

TARDY GROOM: Current state of affairs in Wall Street is well described in a market letter written by Norman Funk of E. F. Hutton & Co.: "The market continues to watch and hope like the intended bride awaiting the appearance of the tardy groom. In this case the groom is the seasonal spring business upturn, which is now somewhat overdue. Meanwhile the market is confined to one of the narrowest ranges of recent years."

EARNINGS: Gulf Oil Corp. reported net income of $153,539,299 or $13.53 a common share for 1948, compared with $95,540,059 or $10.53 a share in 1947. Other earnings reports:

Broadcasters Boss FCC, Johnson Says

By the United Press

Chairman Johnson (D., Colo.) of the Senate Commerce Committee said today the Federal Communications Commission is controlled by the broadcasting industry which it was created to regulate.

Johnson told the Senate in a long speech that it was a "shocking indictment" of a Federal agency but that he has "abundant evidence that it is true."

FCC Chairman Wayne Coy was out of town, but Paul A. Walker, acting chairman, had no comment on the Senator's remarks. He said commission members had been "meeting all day, working hard" and had not had an opportunity to look into them.

Johnson's committee is charged by law with supervising FCC's actions and conduct and is scheduled to undertake soon a sweeping investigation of its operations.

The Senator said he would be derelict in his duty if he did not "report candidly the deplorable conditions which I have found to prevail in this independent, quasi-judicial and quasi-legislative agency."

He said that FCC members, "bewildered and bogged down in the technicalities and red tape of their own creation, are the captives of their own staff of experts."

The staff, in turn, he said, is "the captive of the high and the mighty—the very industry the commission was created to regulate." He said "three or four persons," whom he did not name, hold key staff posts and thus control all of the commission's operations.

Citing "examples" of the broadcasters' domination, Johnson said the agency soon will announce a decision in the long-standing clear channel controversy in which larger stations over the objections of small broadcasters, are demanding a step up in power to as high as 750,000 kilowatts.

The ruling, he said, will be "favorable to the clear channel lobby spearheaded by the Chicago Tribune, which is demanding 750,000 watts for its WNG outlet in Chicago."

Johnson has introduced a bill which would limit all broadcasters to 50-kilowatt power and require high-powered stations to share their existing channels with smaller stations.

He said the "bewildered" commissioners have "failed utterly in protecting the people against monopolistic exploitation by not blocking the plans of the conniving clear channel lobby bent on radio domination."

They also have been negligent in their duty, he said, by failing to "formulate a television plan which would guarantee the widest and freest competition."

Among other charges Johnson made:

1. The commission is plagued by absenteeism among its top members which has "reached an alarming stage." For example, he said, when Chairman Coy "is not making a speech, he is busy preparing one."

2. Many of the FCC's huge backlog of cases have been "collecting dust for two or three years."

3. Staff members too often "play ball with the industry with one eye cocked on better-paying jobs in the radio or television fields."

Fund Chief To Tackle Gold Issue

By The Associated Press

The World Monetary Fund's chief officer will undertake personally to settle difficulties between the Fund and the Union of South Africa, mostly over the price of gold.

The Fund announced yesterday that Managing Director Camille Gutt will leave for South Africa early next week, at the invitation of the South African government, to "continue discussions which took place in Capetown last month."

Those discussions were handled by the Fund's operations director, M. H. Parsons.

While the gold question undoubtedly is the top item on Gutt's schedule, he is expected to use the opportunity to go over all of South Africa's international financial problems.

The country borrowed 10 million dollars from the Fund last December to tide it over a "temporary" difficulty in current international financial accounts. It is entitled as a Fund member to draw up to 15 million dollars additional this year.

The Fund showed plain concern in late February when South Africa's Minister of Finance, Nicholaas Havenga, declared that the $35 an ounce price for gold which the Fund supports is too low and "can't endure much longer."

The Fund also put up resistance to a South African sale of 100,000 ounces of gold at a price approximately $6.50 an ounce above the $35 official rate.

South Africa contended that sale was all right because the gold was to be used for industrial or artistic purposes, and would not go into hoarding for monetary purposes. The Fund objected that there were insufficient safeguards.

Basis for the Fund's concern over gold prices is that the exchange rates it fixes for international currencies are tied to the $35-an-ounce gold price, which is also the United States price. South Africa would benefit from a higher price because it is the world's biggest gold producer.

Gutt, who has headed the Fund since its creation about three years ago, is a Belgian and a former Finance Minister of that country.

Sun Helps to Dispel Smog Jitters

Donora, Pa., April 20 (AP). — Smog-jittery Donora and neighboring Webster were bathed in bright sunlight today on the third day of a Federal "test by smoke."

A steady breeze wafted the white billows from the American Steel & Wire Co.'s zinc plant away from the two communities.

Yesterday physicians reported receiving more than 90 complaints of illness as a result of the United States Public Health Service's efforts to duplicate smoke conditions which accompanied last October's fatal smog.

No new complaints were reported today. A sharp increase in school absenteeism in Webster was noted.

Officials of both the USPHS and the zinc works denied any "dangerous or unusual" toxic concentrations yesterday.

Speaking for the Public Health Service, George Clayton said: "We have received no 'official' complaints. It's not dangerous. If it becomes so, we'll halt the test immediately."

Reds' Enmity Told To Church Editors

Communism views religion as "something that is evil and must be stamped out," a national meeting of church editors was told here last night by Francis H. Russell, director of the State Department's Office of Public Affairs.

"The Communists will use churches as instruments of propaganda," Russell told the opening session of the Associated Church Press at the First Baptist Church, 1330 16th st. nw.

"But their ultimate objective," he declared, "is to dispense with religion entirely."

He said communism "attacks the western way of life across the board" and listed some of its methods as "promoting distrust and hopelessness, a program of planned chaos, making special appeals to different groups, armed threats, and aggression where there is any chance of success."

He asked his hearers "not to become defeatists" in regard to international institutions like the United Nations, "even though they may not have made the headway they were expected to make." He cited Palestine, Korea, Iran and Kashmir as four "problems" which, while not completely solved, were nearer to solution than they would have been without such agencies.

In answer to a question from his audience about friendship gestures to the Russian people, Russell said 34 proposals had been made by this country to Russia over a period of three years to send orchestras, exchange students and such groups to the Soviet Union and that in every instance the Soviet Union either gave no reply or turned the requests down.

The church editors will continue their meetings today at Baptist headquarters, 1628 16th st. nw. W. A. Visser Hooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, will address the evening session.

Showman Agrees To Keep Girl, 8, Off Tightwire

Larry H. Sunbrock, producer of the Texas Rodeo at the Armory, promised yesterday to keep his star 8-year-old aerialist off the tightwire and the United States Attorney's office withheld prosecuting him for cruelty to children.

Sunbrock of 8-year-old Shirley Gretona.

Sunbrock was arrested, police said, after he failed to heed a warning that he must not allow the performance

Sunbrock said that the 51 acts of the rodeo will all be shown and that Shirley's family will perform through all performances without her.

"I do not see how I will get anywhere by defying the law," Sunbrock told a reporter.

One Dead, 8 Ill After Naval Base Drinking

Portsmouth, N. H., April 20 (AP).—A naval steward recruit was dead and seven other sailors and a Marine were hospitalized today, the Navy said, after they drank fluid used in a duplicating machine.

Six of the men were reported in critical condition, while the names of two others were placed on the serious list. Capt. John B. Griggs, chief of staff at the Portsmouth Naval Base, said all nine were inmates of the disciplinary barracks.

Airlift for Refugees To America Planned

New York, April 20 (AP).—A Jewish immigrant official said today plans are being considered for an airlift operation to fly 2000 displaced persons a month to the United States.

Max Newman, arriving on the liner America, said the plan is being considered by the International Refugee Organization, a United Nations agency.

The airlift, if put into operation, would continue as long as DPs eligible for entry to the U. S. remained stranded in Europe.

U. S. Ship Officer Ends Moscow Jail Term

Moscow, April 20 (U.P.). — Alton Carlos Kennedy, American merchant marine officer of Port Arthur, Tex., was released from jail today after serving a three-year sentence on a charge of hooliganism.

Kennedy was handed over to the American Embassy, which expects to send him home soon.

American consular officials communicated with Kennedy regularly. They visited him several times and supplied him with books, cigarettes and clothing.

Evangelistic Drive Set by Protestants

New York, April 20 (AP).—The biggest evangelistic campaign ever undertaken by the Protestant churches of America will begin next October.

Plans for the campaign, to be known as the Nation-wide Christian Crusade, were announced today. Sponsors are the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and 15 non-member denominations with a total of 35 million members.

The plans, two years in the making, envisage participation of more than 150,000 local churches and more than 50 colleges. The crusade will continue for 15 months through 1950.

A Federal Council spokesman, Dr. Edwin T. Dahlberg, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Syracuse, N. Y., said this is one of the basic ideas behind the campaign:

"We will not have a better America until we have better Americans."

"Only a world movement toward Christ can offer any lasting hope for mankind, individually and socially.

"Our own country, thrust into a position of world leadership, must experience a new sense of justice and righteousness within our own borders lest she fail to provide the world with moral and spiritual leadership.

"The churches must evangelize or perish. Existence of the churches in America now is no guarantee that they will be here a century from now. If the churches are to become strong spiritually and numerically they must be about their primary business of evangelism."

Many Hurt in Italy Crash

Rome, April 20 (AP).—Two Rome suburban trains crashed early today near Ciampino Airport, injuring about 30 passengers seriously and another 150 to 200 lightly.

Bed Fire Death Held Accident

A District coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Mrs. Arleen Eads, who charged that two friends set her afire.

Relatives of Mrs. Eads, 51, of 61 Myrtle st. ne., who died April 6 at Casualty Hospital, yesterday testified that while she was hospitalized, Mrs. Eads had accused Frank J. Foster and his wife, Helen, both 33, of 32 I st. ne., of setting fire to her.

Three women, all sisters of the dead woman, said Mrs. Eads told them that Foster had sprinkled a fluid from a bottle on her bed and lit a match to it. She had been visiting the Fosters. The women said Mrs. Eads told them she had been drinking "Sneaky Pete," and that she had been unable to get up from the bed after the fire started. She said Foster had dragged her out into the hall after she began to scream.

Fire Department Inspector Earle A. Atzrott testified that the fire had been confined to the mattress, and was a slow, smoldering fire which probably was caused by a cigarette. He said there was no evidence of the mattress having been treated with any inflammable material.

Atzrott said that an inflammable solution would have produced a quick, flash-type fire on the mattress.

NCHA Pleads Need to Control Own Housing Rents

To put Federal Government housing units in the District under ent control would "defeat the purpose" of low-cost housing, the Supreme Court was told yesterday.

The court heard arguments by Assistant Attorney General A. Devitt Vanech on behalf of the National Capital Housing Authority. NCHA is seeking reversal of a lower court ruling that subjects some 8000 wartime-built housing urits to the District rent control law.

Vanech said the Government is not to be compared to "gouging and profiteering" landlords and that it is "impossible" for NCHA to fix "excessive rentals." He said rentals do not produce a profit for the Government.

He argued that low-rent units must be occupied only by low-income groups and that NCHA must continue to control rents if that purpose is to be carried out.

Chief Justice Fred Vinson inquired if Vanech was saying "the United States doesn't want to be bothered or controlled by a District bureaucrat." The attorney replied that wasn't quite the point at issue.

The case against the Government was brought by Reginald P. Wittek, a Navy machinist living at 5 Quadrant Green sw., originally a defense housing unit and now under NCHA control. NCHA had sought to raise his rent from $38.50 a month to $43.

Attorney Ward B. McCarthy today will present Wittek's side of the case.

Editors Open Convention Here Today

More than 500 members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors will open their three-day annual convention at the Hotel Statler today.

During the gathering the Nation's top news executives will have an off-the-record talk with President Truman at the White House and hear similar talks from Secretary of State Dean Acheson and Secretary of Defense Louis B. Johnson.

Today's opening session at 10 a. m. will include an address by the group's president, Erwin D. Canham of the Christian Science Monitor.

Other reports today include one on the Voice of America and other Government overseas information programs, by J. Russell Wiggins, managing editor of The Washington Post, and on world freedom of information, by Basil L. Walter of the Knight Newspapers.

A luncheon gathering will be addressed by Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman. In the afternoon five managing editors will take part in a panel discussion: William P. Steven of the Minneapolis Tribune, Norman Shaw of the Cleveland Press, George W. Healy, jr., of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, George Cornish of the New York Herald-Tribune and Wiggins.

An evening meeting will hear Senators Flanders (R., Vt.), Long (D., La.), Byrd (D., Va.), and Representative Herter (R., Mass.).

Friday's activities will include the talks by President Truman and Secretaries Acheson and Johnson, and a discusion by a group of editors of "The Press and the People." The discusison is expected to center on the last election and the failure of the various polls to predict the outcome.

The closing day, Saturday, will include adoption of resolutions, a talk by Senator Taft (R., Ohio) on the future of the Republican Party and a final banquet at which Sir Oliver Franks, the British Ambassador, will speak.

The dinner also will see the presentation of prizes to five Washington reporters by PeterEdson, winner of the 1949 Raymond Clapper Memorial Award. Edson gave the $500 prize to be divided into five $100 awards.

The board of directors of the society elected seven newspaper executives to membership last night.

Sermon Led Woman to Aid DPs' Trip Here

The Christian preaching of the late Senate chaplain, Dr. Peter Marshall, is still being practiced and Washington has three new residents today to prove it.

Neither Jekabs Ozolins, his wife, Vilma, nor their 9-year-old son, Bernards, ever heard of Dr. Marshall in their displaced persons camp in Europe, but he had more to do with getting them here than anyone else.

He was the "pipeline to God" through which Mrs. Bertha Brigader, 4619 47th st. nw., drew Christian inspiration and the impulse to sponsor the homeless Latvians' entry into this country.

It has been 2½ years now that Mrs. Brigader, disturbed about the fate of her Latvian relatives, first went to Dr. Marshall's New York Avenue Presbyterian Church on a friend's suggestion. She never forgot that first sermon, she says.

Mrs. Brigader embarked on the latest project after Dr. Marshall's death in January because "I felt I had to do something of which he would approve." The Ozolins are Catholic, because Mrs. Brigader wanted to repay the help she received from Catholic organizations in securing passage for her kin.

The Ozolins arrived at Union Station yesterday from Boston where they and 881 other displaced persons landed on Tuesday. Six others are being sponsored by District residents. They are:

Erwin and Hildegard Thieberger and their children, Renate and Hanne, being sponsored by Fred S. Gichner, 3220 Highland pl. nw.; Elizabeth Sirkenhefers, sponsored by M. Olkowska, 1409 15th st. nw.; Milda Abolins, sponsored by C. E. Boles, 3024 Q st. nw.

Alexandria Charter Revision Committee Announced at Special Council Meeting

A seven-man charter commission to bring up to date Alexandria's 17-year-old city charter was announced yesterday at a special meeting of the Alexandria City Council.

Named to the commission by Mayor William T. Wilkins, with the advice of the council, were:

Stanley King, a lawyer and United States Commissioner in Alexandria; W. Bruce Silcox, a business specialist in the Department of Commerce; Edmund F. Ticer, railroad officials, and former Mayor of Alexandria; Charles M. Jones, Alexandria manager for Virginia Electric & Power Co.; Don K. Price, public administration specialist; Edward S. Holland, jr., surveyor, and Thomas Moncure, lawyer.

Wilkins was absent from the special meeting, but his appointments were read by Vice Mayor John W Tulloch. Tulloch urged the commission to begin work immediately.

Charter revision has been urged frequently during the past year.

Changes recommended by the commission must be approved by the city council, then by the Virginia Assembly, to meet next winter.

The present charter was granted by the General Assembly in 1932, when the city had one third its present estimated population of 75,000.

Councilmen Leroy S. Bendheim yesterday attacked the method of appointment as political, but his motion to ask the mayor to reveal the lists of suggested appointees submitted by the seven council members died for lack of a second.

In other actions yesterday, the council:

Passed on first of two readings an $8738 appropriation from the city's bond account for flood lights at the Municipal Stadium.

2. Passed on the first of two readings a $15,700 appropriation to add a ninth classroom to the addition now under construction at Maury School. The appropriation was possible, it was said, because other contracts in the city's $2,837,000 school program have been lower than expected.

3. Authorized the city engineer to cut across a corner of the MacArthur School property to straighten out two closely spaced 90-degree angle turns in Janneys lane, which is being repaved.

Fairfax Seeks Road Survey

The Fairfax County supervisors will ask the Virginia State Highway Department to survey two possible routes for a proposed road from Manassas to Edsall on the new Shirley hwy.

The board acted yesterday after learning that a committee of citizens advocating the road has raised $2500 for the survey.

If it is built, the road would provide the only first-class east-west link between Clifton, Fairfax Station and Springfield in the southern part of Fairfax County. It would be more than 15 miles long.

Maryland Marks 300th Year of Toleration Today

Annapolis, Md., April 20 (AP).—Maryland tomorrow will observe the 300th anniversary of the passage of its act of religious tolerance.

Governor Lane, proclaiming "Toleration Day," called upon Marylanders to preserve "the fruits of freedom of worship." Now known as the "Act of Toleration," the law was passed by Maryland's Provincial General Assembly to guarantee freedom of religious conscience.

Falls Church City Hall Grounds Are Cluttered With Building Tools

The Falls Church city hall grounds are being invaded by water valves, graders, spreaders and pumps.

Such items, for want of a city property yard, are being stacked parked, and stored around the gingerbread-styled city hall and behind the city police station.

The resultant pileup has City Manager Roy F. Dunn in a quandary.

Already, pipe-fitting tools and other equipment are spilling over into the city hall itself, Dunn said.

Since he took over the city manager's job in September, 1947, Dunn said he had been trying to get a property yard for Falls Church.

The City Council, on his urging, last took up the property yard problem in its February 7 meeting and referred it to its buildings and grounds committee for study.

Mayor Albert M. Orme said the council may get around to the "sorely needed" property yard at its meeting Monday.

'Hill' Quorum Issue Aired in Supreme Court

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

The coming and goings of Congressmen during committee hearings came in for inquiry by the Supreme Court yesterday in a case involving the question of when a quorum is a quorum.

The court was hearing oral arguments in reviewing the perjury conviction of Labor Leader Harold R. Christoffel, under sentence of from two to six years in jail on a charge of lying before the House Labor Committee that he was not a Communist. He was convicted in District Court here.

Attorney O. John Rogge, former Assistant Attorney General who leaves today to attend the World Peace Conference in Paris, argued the conviction was not valid because a quorum of the House committee was not present when Christoffel told the alleged lie and when the committee charged him with perjury.

14 of 25 Present at Start

It was brought out that the committee clerk's tally, when the afternoon session began around 2:15 p.m. on March 1, 1947, showed 14 of the 25 members present. A quorum was 13. Rogge contended the Government should have proved at the trial they still were on hand when the offense took place around 5 p.m. that Saturday afternoon.

But Alexander M. Campbell, head of the Justice Department's criminal division contended it was necessary only to show that a quorum was present when the session began.

The justices manifest unusual interest in the quorum question, especially the three who once were members of Congress: Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, former House member, and Justices Hugo L. Black and Harold H. Burton, former Senators.

Vinson and Burton pointed out the common congressional practice of members leaving the House and Senate floors after quorum calls.

Are Called Clubs

But Justice Felix Frankfurter said that was a "family affair" among members of Congress, whereas the Christoffel case involves a citizen. Beside, he added with a smile, "the House is a club and the Senate is a club, a more exclusive one, I understand."

Rogge pointed out the Legislative Reorganization Act requires a quorum "actually" to be present when action is taken. He said the frequent lack of such a quorum leads to such practices as "browbeating of witnesses" by the few members remaining.

Black pointed to this quorum requirement in asking Campbell if a committee could act, as in this perjury case, with less than a quorum.

Campbell replied that "acting" meant passing on legislation and that in such a case as this the only thing required was a quorum when the session began. There was no evidence whether or not the House committee took a vote on Christoffel.

Could Walk Out

Vinson asked if the witness could not object that a quorum was not present and also refuse to testify or take an oath. Campbell said he could 'get' up and walk out" but that only committee members could demand a quorum call.

Frankfurter wanted to know what "great interference" or "burden" would be placed on a committee by requiring a quorum actually to be present when taking action on a perjury charge.

Campbell, however, stuck to his contention that if a quorum was present when the session began it must be presumed the quorum still was on hand when action was taken on the perjury charge against Christoffel.

The labor leder at that time was head of the Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co. local of the United Auto Workers Union (CIO). The local then was on strike but the walkout later collapsed and Christoffel was ousted from his post by right-wing union elements.

Former U.S. Major Held In Panama Gun Plot

A former American Air Force major has been seized in Panama on suspicion of helping smuggle arms into the country.

The State Department, making this report yesterday, said the man was identified variously as Walter Wilson Brown and J. Wilson Brown. It said Brown was being removed to Panama City for questioning by Panama government authorities.

Department officials said they understand Brown is an officer in the Air Force Reserve and that he served in the last war.

—With Shirley Povich

NEW YORK, APRIL 20 — The other day when the Associated Press reported from Moscow that Russia was pooh-poohing Sweden's claim as the birthplace of ice hockey, it sounded real amusing-like.

Russians were playing hockey before 10,000 Swedes jumped out of the weeds in the dim Battle of Copenhagen, Uncle Joe Stalin's propagandists inferred. I assumed it was just another of Moscow's fantastic claims of having originated everything in addition to the atom bomb, the steam locomotive and the Model T.

POVICH

Imagine my consternation when I was reliably informed today by Mr. Al Schact, whose forebears were devoted subjects of the late czars, that it was entirely possible that Russia invented the game of hockey.

"It is entirely possible that Russia invented the game of hockey," said Mr. Al Schacht, just like that. "All my life, I have put nothing beyond the Russians, except myself at an early age."

He told me that I would be interested to know—and I was—that what we call our great American game, baseball, was a dead steal from Russia. "What we call our great American game, baseball, was a dead steal from Russia," said Schacht.

NOW THAT WAS downright surprising, and certainly a statement to be challenged, but Schacht produced yellowed clippings of baseball in Russia and how it grew. And he related the story handed down through twelve generations of Schachts, about the big game in Moscow.

"Did you never hear of Ivan, Moscow's mighty hurler? In four years of pitching for the Moscow Tigers, he never allowed a hit or a run. He had one more year to go—he was on the five-year plan.

"And Ivan's twin brother, Peter, showed great promise, too. As an outfielder for the Siberian Butchers, he became known as the Siberian Bullet, the greatest throwing arm in all Russia. He had one more year to go. He, too, was on the five-year plan.

"One day, the Moscow Tigers were playing the St. Petersburg Tailors in Moscow and the Siberian Butchers were up against the Minsk Midgets in Siberia. The winners would meet in the Russian world series. Of course Moscow's mighty hurler was on the mound for the Tigers, and the Bullet was roaming the outfield for the Butchers.

"THERE WERE only 28 million paid admissions at the Moscow park for this game. It rained that morning, accounting for the poor attendance. And I might say there are no fences in the Russian parks, which are 10 miles square.

"The St. Petersburg Tailors boasted in their lineup Slobodka Sam, the strongest hitter in Russia, who in four years never failed to hit a home run on every trip to the plate. He, too, had one more year to go. He had one weakness. His legs were bad. As evidence of his slowness, there's the story told of the time he hit a ball in Smolensk at 5 o'clock, and the people knowing how long it took Slobodka to round the bases, had their dinner and returned an hour and a half later, by which time Slobby was just rounding second.

"The mighty hurler faced Slobodka Sam, wound up and threw his triple-threat pitch—a combination fast ball, out curve and drop that no one had ever even fouled before. But Sam hit it, and from the way it went, it was obviously a home run.

"THE HIT MUST have traveled miles. In fact, it did. But an hour and fifty minutes later as Slobodka Sam was completing his trip around the bases, a ball came whizzing into the plate and Sam was out by a quarter of an inch. What the crowd didn't know was that Moscow's mighty hurler meanwhile had sent a rush telegram to his brother in Siberia which read:

"'Slobodka Sam just hit a ball in your direction. It must be nearing Siberia. Here's your chance to prove our bond of kinship. Please save my pitching record.'

"The message was delivered to the Bullet just in time—they allow rush messages to be delivered while a game is in action—and he had barely time to read the wire and make a one-handed catch of Slobodka's swat on the first bounce. The Bullet took two steps toward Moscow and let fly.

"'If he hadn't been throwing against the wind,' said the mighty hurler proudly, 'he'd have caught Slobodka Sam by at least a full inch, instead of a quarter inch.'"

So related Schacht, adding "and to this day, nobody has gotten a hit or a run off Moscow's mighty hurler, but the funniest thing about this story is that nobody believes it."

Releases 'Secret' Report

Recreation Board Says Interior Neglects Golf Responsibility

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

The D. C. Board of Recreation flatly charged Interior's National Capital Parks Office with neglecting its responsibility of operating the local public golf courses in a study finally released yesterday.

The voluminous 21-page report, completed March 10, was made public over the strenuous objection of Irving C. Root, superintendent of National Capital Parks and a member of the Recreation Board.

Hearings Will Be Resumed May 2

The congressional investigation of the local publinx situation will be resumed May 2 and 3. A dozen witnesses, representing all sides in the dispute, have been asked to appear by Representative Monroe M. Redden (D., N. C.), chairman of the special Public Lands Subcommittee conducting the probe.

S. G. Leoffler, who has been operating the local courses since 1921, currently is negotiating with the Interior Department for a five-year renewal of his contract that expired December 31.

Highly controversial, the report stated, "through long association with the concessioner, the Parks office gradually has left the operation of the golf courses almost entirely to his discretion."

A study of the last contract, it added, leaves the impression that the Government is so obligated to renew and continue the existing operation that it is a junior partner.

In 1943, when it appeared that the golf courses would be turned over to the Recreation Board, Leoffler submitted a proposed lease providing for a guaranteed rental of $10,000 a year plus a graduated percentage of gross receipts.

However, when National Capital Parks retained the courses, Leoffler's contract provided for an $8500 salary for him as general manager plus $3500 priority profits annually. There was no guarantee to the Government.

In detail, the report dwells on the rehabilitation fund derived from 5 per cent of the gross receipts. It pointed out that only $13,311.90 was spent the first four years of Leoffler's last contract. As of December 31, 1947, the amount unspent was $54,359.89.

Scarcity of wartime labor may have accounted for the fact that only $4300 was spent in 1944 and 1945, the report conceded. However, it felt the principal reason

Tigers Win On 4-Run Homer by Groth, 5-2

Detroit, April 20 (AP).—Rookie Outfielder Johnny Groth continued his terrific hitting today as he walloped a grand slam homer, a double and a single to drive in all five runs as the Detroit Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox, 5-2.

It was Groth's third homer in the Tigers' first two games o. the American League campaign and ran his runs-batted-in total to seven.

For the second day in a row, Groth's hitting overshadowed a nifty Tiger pitching performance, this one a four-hitter by Virgil Trucks. Yesterday it was Hal Newhouser's three-hitter against the White Sox that was forced into the background by Groth's hitting.

Up Steps Mr. Groth

The White Sox grabbed a 2-0 lead in the second inning as they put two of their four hits together with a pair of walks.

Then Mr. Groth took charge of things.

He came up in the sixth with Vic Wertz on second. Catcher Aaron Robinson on first and one out. Groth rattled a two-base hit off the left center field stands, scoring Wertz, but Robinson was cut down at the plate trying to come in.

The Tigers' big rally came in the eighth as Gumpert weakened after getting one out. He walked Wertz and Eddie Lake ran for Wertz. Hoot Evers singled to left field, sending Lake to second. Both men moved up on a wild pitch. Robinson got a walk to load the bases.

After a huddle among White Sox Manager Jack Onslow, Gumpert and the infielders, they decided to let Gumpert face Groth.

The first two pitches to Groth were wide. He teed off on the third and drove it 380 feet into the left centerfield stands to clean the bases, run the score to 5-2 and give 11,671 jubilant fans something to cheer about.

Indians Beat Browns, 7-3; Lemon Winner

St. Louis, April 20 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians knocked out three pitchers and downed the St. Louis Browns 7-3 today, with Pitcher Bob Lemon going the full distance before 2919 fans at Sportsman's Park.

The seven hits permitted by Lemon included home runs by Dick Kokos and Rookie Jack Graham, the latter's coming with a man on base in the eighth. Lemon had six strikeouts.

The world champions had two big innings. They scored three runs with a fifth-inning uprising that included a double by Larry Doby, singles by Joe Gordon and Bob Kennedy and a wild pitch by Karl Drews, the loser.

ROOKIE GROTH AND FIANCEE—Johnny Groth, Detroit's slugging rookie outfielder, took his girl friend to the ball game yesterday and couldn't have chosen a better day. He slammed out a grand slam homer to beat the White Sox, 5-2, with Elizabeth Ann Stoll, shown walking to the park with him, in the stands. It was Groth's third homer in two days. Stallcup's Jaw Not Fractured

Cincinnati, April 20 (AP).—Virgil Stallcup, Cincinnati's shortstop, was released from a hospital this afternoon after physicians found that he suffered no broken bone when hit on the left cheek, just under the eye, when Tommy Glaviano, third sacker, threw wild to first trying to get him on a sharp grounder. It was believed at first the bone might have been fractured.

Chapman Singles Valo Home To End Pitchers' Duel, 3-2

Philadelphia, April 20 (AP).—Sam Chapman's tenth-inning single sent Elmer Valo home today with the run that gave the Philadelphia Athletics their second straight 3-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Chapman and Valo each connected with four singles for eight of the 11 blows the A's got off Ellis Kinder. Valo also scored the other two Philadelphia runs.

Valo's fourth hit and errors by Johnny Pesky and Kinder on attempted sacrifice bunts filled the bases for Philadelphia in the tenth.

Kinder retired Hank Majeski on a pop foul fly and had two strikes on Chapman when the Athletics' centerfielder lined a single to left.

Joe Coleman hurled a spotty game for Philadelphia as he was touched for 10 hits and issued nine bases on balls. But three double plays helped him out of trouble.

Boston scored first in the opening frame on singles by Dom DiMaggio and Pesky and Ted Williams' long fly. They picked up the other in the fifth on DiMaggio's single, a walk to Pesky and Vern Stephens' hit.

The Athletics tied the count in their half of the first as Valo singled, stole second and scampered home on Taft Wright's bingle. Their second tally came in the third with Valo again crossing the plate on Majeski's single.

Cubs Defeat Pirates, 4-0

Chicago, April 20 (AP). — Bob Rush, 23-year-old sophomore, hurled the Chicago Cubs to a 4-0 triumph over the Pittsburgh Pirates today before 11,218.

Young Rush scattered three hits, fanned seven and walked six to outduel Murry Dickson. The Cubs rapped the ex-Cardinal for eight hits in his six-innings and bunched four for all their runs in the fifth.

Harry Walker opened with a double, Phil Cavarretta walked and Andy Pafko singled for one run. Bob Scheffing doubled off the center field wall to chase in two more. Then Hal Jeffcoat singled Scheffing across.

Hawaiian Boxer Dies After Kayo

Honolulu, April 20 (AP).—Head injuries incurred when he was knocked cold in a prize fight here last night caused the death of Frederick Bungat.

Bungat, a 32-year-old lightweight, has been fighting under the ring name of Freddie Sylvano.

Braves Beat PhilsAgain,6-5

Boston, April 20 (AP).—Boston's Braves made it three victories in four games against the Phillies today, edging the Philadelphians 6-5 before 6095 fans who saw the losers' Willie (Puddin'Head) Jones equal a modern baseball record by hitting four doubles in a single contest.

The record is shared by several others.

Jones walked his first time up today then clouted his four two base hits in consecutive trips to the plate.

His feat overshadowed two lusty home runs, both long drives into the right field bleachers beyond the bull pen, one was made by Boston's Earl Torgeson and the other by the Quakers' Bill Nicholson.

Neither starting pitcher went the distance. The loss was charged to Righthander Jim Konstaty who replaced Lefthander Jocko Thompson at the start of the seventh inning.

Nelson Potter, who took over for Bill Voiselle with one out in the seventh, was credited with the victory. It was his second in two days, both in relief.

Feller Ordered To Rest Shoulder Injury for Week

St. Louis, April 20 (AP).—Bob Feller, the Cleveland Indians' high-salaried pitcher, has a pulled muscle in his right shoulder, but only time will tell how serious the injury really is.

The veteran righthander was ordered to give the arm "a week of absolute rest." Dr. Robert F. Hyland, noted athletic surgeon who examined Feller's arm today, said he would be out of action for at least a week.

"At this time, I cannot say if the injury is of a permanent nature," Dr. Hyland said. "Bob must remain under observation for some time to determine how serious his ailment really is."

Feller started the opening game of the season here yesterday and was taken out at the end of the second inning because the arm was paining him. He had walked three men.

Doctor Hyland, club surgeon for the two St. Louis teams, told the $75,000 pitcher he may take light workouts for the next week as long as he doesn't use the arm.

Feller suited up before today's contest and ran around the outfield, trying to keep in shape. A spokesman for the Cleveland club said Feller will remain with the team.

Raschi Holds Griffs to 3; Henrich Hits Homer Again

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Yankee Stadium, New York, April 20.—Vic (for Victor) Raschi and thumping Tommy Henrich teamed up as an effective two-man gang for the Yankees today and disposed of the Nats, 3-0, before 12,551 contented customers in Yankee Stadium.

The Messrs. Raschi and Henrich dispatched the Nats virtually by themselves. Raschi held 'em tight in the grip of his three-hit shutout pitching and Henrich bobbed up as a home run hitter for the second day in a row.

Today's swat by Henrich lacked the tremendous length of his opening-game homer and barely cleared the fence in right center, but it was just as decisive. It came about in the fourth inning and provided the Yankees with their first and the only run that was necessary in the light of Raschi's elegance.

Yanks Pull Triple Steal

The chief victim of the Yankee victory, and quite unfortunate he was, was bespectacled Paul Calvert, who might have deserved a better fate. The Nats' fugitive from the Mexican League, ambitious to stay in the majors, tossed a thoroughly respectable five-hitter at the Yankees, himself.

The other two runs the Yankees collected off Calvert were not quite his fault, but smartly earned nevertheless. The Yanks didn't hit a ball out of the infield in a two-run sixth inning, but they did execute a sensational triple steal to get one man home.

Calvert got precious little batting support against the husky, fast-balling Raschi who walked only two men and was bamboozling the Nats most of the day with his live stuff. Al Kozar hit a dumpy single to right in the third. Eddie Yost beat out an infield hit in the seventh, Sam Dente doubled to right in the ninth, and that's all the hits there were.

Calvert was slightly sensational himself. Definitely on trial at making good at least temporarily, he permitted the Yanks only one hit in the first three innings. He had control and his sinker was discomboberating the Yanks.

Calvert Makes Mistake

And then, with one out in the fourth, he made his first mistake, a high fast ball to Henrich, almost the same kind of a lamented pitch Sid Hudson threw Tommy the day before. It came to rest 400 feet away in homerun territory.

In the sixth, Woodling drew a walk from Calvert and scrambled all the way to third when the perky Henrich rapped a hit off Kozar's glove. Bauer fouled out to Evans, but Calvert's good fortun came to a sudden end.

Kozar grabbed a grounder off Brown's bat, and after too long an indecision, tried for a play on Woodling at the plate. He was late and everybody was safe. Calvert filled the bases by hitting Berra on the flank, but eased the pressure for himself by grabbing Krysoski's tap for a force play at the plate, for the second out.

And then they caught him flat-footed, with Brown on the head-end of a triple steal. Calvert couldn't uncoil himself from his pitching wind-up in time to hustle the ball to Evans, and Brown was home safe.

In contrast, the Nats couldn't get a man past second base. Coan was safe on Coleman's fumble to open the game, but was wiped out on a double play. Kozar singled to open the third, and was left stranded on second. Vollmer walked and Yost singled in the seventh with one out, but Robin-

Bums Beat Giants,6-2,on Walks,Errors

Brooklyn, April 20 (AP).—Taking advantage of four New York errors and a streak of wildness on the part of pitcher Sheldon Jones, the Brooklyn Dodgers scored four unearned runs to defeat the Giants today, 6-2.

A crowd of 21,864 saw the Dodgers collect only four hits off three Giants pitchers. But the Dodgers were presented with seven bases on balls to register their second straight triumph over their interborough rivals.

Ralph Branca, going the route for the Dodgers, also gave up four hits including a home run to Sid Gordon in the sixth inning. The other marker off Branca came in the first on two walks and Johnny Mize's long single off the right field wall.

Pep Well Wins Philadelphia 'Cap; Royal Governor Second

AT HAVRE DE GRACE

DEAR FOLKS:

After the finish of a close race, don't be fooled if the photographer on the track takes a picture of one horse and not the other. He makes his living selling these pictures to jockeys, owners and trainers. When he knows from experience that he cannot make a sale he naturally passes up wasting a negative. Some sharpsters know this and win bets this way on photo finishes. A little boy and his father were at the track the other day. After seeing his sire lose every bet the youngster looked up and said, 'Say pop, how much does it cost to get out of this place?' Trainer W. O. Siegert tells me that Taylor Leatherbury's Eastern Flyway, winner of the Bowie Kindergarten, is liberally named for the 2-year-old stakes at Delaware and Garden State.—BILL

Faultless Is Third in Close Race

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Havre de Grace, Md., April 20.—In a stampede to the wire involving five horses, Calumet Farm's Pep Well was a neck winner in today's thrilling $10,000 Added Philadelphia Handicap. Mrs. E. duPont Weir's Royal Governor, the favorite, was second with Faultless, stablemate of the winner, third.

Blue Border and Tight Squeeze were also prominent in the jam as the horses went over the line in the event first contested here in 1913.

So close was the finish of the sprint that not more than five lengths separated the first horse from the last in the field of ten.

This was the second Philadelphia won by Pep Well who took the 1947 renewal and set a track record of 1:10 1/5 in doing so. Today the son of Boswell and Some Pep was clocked in 1:11 3/5 for the six furlongs over a fast track and under clear skies.

The crowd of 10,536 was only lukewarm toward the Calumet pair in the betting and for reason. Pep Well, at 90 cents on the dollar, couldn't run himself out of a paper bag in his first outing here while Faultless was making his first start since distance racing in Florida last winter.

With Royal Governor, winner of his previous race in New York, installed the favorite, the Calumet entry paid across-the-board mutuel of $13.20, $5.40 and $6.40. Royal Governor returned $5.80 and $4.40.

The victory was the second of the year for Pep Well in four tries and brought his earnings to $11,595 for 1949. Jockey Steve Brooks, contract rider for Calumet, was aboard Faultless and R. J. Martin was given the assignment on the winner. Faultless' closing drive proved that he's ready for distance events in the offing.

The race had a tight first flight from start to finish. Mr. Ace, winner of the Harford Handicap, went to the front early but was soon joined by Seven League, Tight Squeeze, Blue Border and Oriole. Mr. Ace held some kind of an advantage to the stretch.

In the final straightaway, the front running horses began to tire and the others came on with a rush. Both Pep Well and Faultless were wide of the others with Royal Governor in between horses.

In the final drive it was anybody's race. The camera separated them.

Evidence that this was a Calumet day came in the fifth race when the farm's 3-year-old filly, Two Lea, got up in the last jump to win the Sassafras. The daughter of Bull Lea, with Jockey Brooks aboard, hung the photo defeat on Mrs. Walter M. Jefford's Gambler. The majority of the fans thought Gambler had won but the camera gave Two Lea the decision. Beverley Broun's Magna Charta was third. The winner was a $4.80 favorite.

Stranahan, Ward Win in North-South

Pinehurst, N. C., April 20 (U.P.)—Defending Champion Harve Ward, jr., his usually accurate putting not as sharp as it should be, nevertheless shot his way into the quarter-finals of the forty-ninth annual North and South amateur golf championship today by disposing of two more match play opponents.

Ward came from behind to beat New England Amateur Champion Robert J. Walsh of Bridgeport, Conn., in the second round this morning, and dumped Harold D. Paddock of Chagrin Falls, Ohio, 4 and 2 this afternoon. He threeputted four greens, but lost only the ninth hole against Paddock.

Frank Stranahan, the muscular millionaire from Toledo, Ohio, who lost to Ward in the finals last year, overwhelmed H. W. Whiteside of Roanoke, Va., 7 and 6, for the day's most lopsided score, then whipped C. W. Mulcahy of New York, 4 and 2.

Stranahan was 1 up at the turn and stayed in the neighborhood of par to take the twelfth, thirteenth and sixteenth holes in the third round over the 6952-yard, par 72 Pinehurst course.

Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, former national amateur champion who is having a hot season, whipped Robert Zbikowski, 18-year-old Bloomfield, N. J. star, 4 and 3, in the second round. Then Chapman polished off Charles B. Dudley of Gre

GW President Tells of Plans For Stadium

President Cloyd Heck Marvin of George Washington University last night announced plans for a $1,200,000 gymnasium and an adjoining stadium.

The GW president said he had drawn up most of the plans himself, and would present them shortly to Director of Athletics Max Farrington. Dr. Marvin was speaking at last night's athletic award banquet before nearly 1000 guests of the Colonials Alumni Club at the Shoreham Hotel.

Dr. Marvin stated that the stadium and gymnasium would be built on a triangular strip of land, owned by the university near the gas storage tanks to the west of the main campus, or on a 30-acre tract of land just across the Potomac, presumably Frog Island, the present G. W. football practice field.

Special awards were presented to Hank Bartelloni, the outstanding senior football player, Andy Davis, most valuable gridder, and Maynard Haithcock, outstanding basketball player. Main speakers were columnist Bob Considine and Rip Miller, assistant athletic director of the Naval Academy.

Junior Board Assigns Drivers To Johnson Classes

The Junior Board of Commerce yesterday assigned drivers to the Nat instructors, completing plans for the grand opening of the Walter Johnson Baseball School Saturday at 22 playgrounds.

Registration for the third annual school begins Friday on the playgrounds and continues until class begins at 10 a. m. Saturday. The Nats will teach at Saturday's sessions and at the final sessions on May 14. Other classes take place April 30 and May 7. Youngsters 14 years and under are eligible to attend and receive diplomas.

Victory 4th In 6 Games For Terps

A four-run outburst in the seventh inning gave the University of Maryland its second victory in a week over Richmond yesterday at College Park. Yesterday's score was, 8-5. Last Thursday, it was, 3-0.

With his team trailing, 5-4, the Terps' Bobby Brewer led off in the decisive seventh with a walk. Scotty Silvers then singled, and Al Cesky followed with a two-run double. Hank Miles walked. After advancing on a double steal, Cesky and Miles scored on Tony Sileo's single.

The victory was the fourth in six games for Maryland this season.

The Fisherman's Angle

14-Year-Old Champ Caster Lures Shad With Nail Polish

By Ralph Murdock

ON TUESDAY, Col. Joseph R. Gray and Maj. Vergil Johnson put in a wet but successful morning at Allens Fresh.

They were greeted on their arrival with a rain that was coming down in torrents. Sitting on the sidelines in their car and watching the downpour was not what the doctor ordered.

So they started casting for shad. Five were taken in rapid succession. A continuous downpour topped the proceedings.

The writer asked the major what was his choice bait for shad. His reply was, "I met a youngster who was nosing around in a sports goods store in my neighborhood. I saw he was interested in fishing and I asked him to meet me at 4:30 the next morning if he wanted to try shad fishing.

The young angler arrived on schedule with his fishing tackle. Settling down to the serious business of fishing my young friend was leading by a score of six to nothing in a short while."

Said the major, "I took a look at his fishing lure and discovered that we were both using a Nungesser "OO" spoon but that my young companion had painted his spoon with red finger nail polish. He loaned me the bottle of nail polish (he had borrowed from his sister) and I gave my lure a fast paint job.

The fish started biting and now I always carry a bottle with me (nail polish, that is.)"

The youngster's name is Gregory Sexton. He lives in Anacostia and is a champion caster at the age of 14. Unheralded as an expert fly caster, Gregory gave an exhibition all by himself at the recent Sportsman Show at National Guard Armory several weeks ago.

YESTERDAY he had several calls from anglers who were anxious to know where to fish for blue gills and crappie. In the excitement to get you the lowdown on the landing of the first hardhead and the magnificent run of shad we almost overlooked these two species of fish.

The blue gill, commonly called the sunfish or tobacco box, is not too plentiful in this area but a few can be found in almost any body of fresh water nearby. The writer has seen several excellent catches of crappie brought in at Ralph Sunderland's landing and at Pig Point on the Patuxent River.

Three fishermen landed 70 by fishing in close to the piles of an old deserted wharf on the west side of this picturesque river. Another boat with two anglers aboard produced 45 of these game fish. The latter pair made their catch by anchoring near two large trees that had fallen into the water.

By drifting bull minnows in close to the hiding place of these hearty fish with the use of cork floats some fast action was encountered.

Boats can be had at either of these fishing spots for $3 a day. Minnows are included in the above price.

If you happen to own an outboard motor we suggest that you carry it with you. It saves a lot of rowing unless you are overweight and are trying to reduce.

Take bloodworms with you if you want to try the white perch as worms are not sold at either of these locations.

A NEW clipping has just been received from Corpus Christi, Tex. It outlines a similar situation which appeared in Chesapeake Bay last year when large rockfish were seen floating on the surface or were found on the shores.

The sender of this report is our godd friend George Hamp, formerly a resident of the Lone Star State but now a resident of Arlington, Va.

This mystery tide was first noticed when fishermen found dead or dying fish piled up on the banks. A strong odor comparing to the smell of iodine and sulphur reportedly accompanied the tide and debris littered the beaches.

A reddish film was also noticed. Fishermen agreed that the "red tide" has hit the surface fish hardest, indicating that the film is only on the top of the water.

The cause of this tide still remains a mystery. Capt. E. W. Sullivan who operates a boat service on Padre Island said his crews found large sea beans that had washed ashore.

Practically all of the dead fish seen in the Chesapeake last year were rock fish. They were of the large variety that weigh from 5 to 25 pounds.

Recreation Board Says Interior Neglects Golf Responsibility

for the later "hoarding" was that the unspent balance was to have been split 50-50 by the Government and the concessionaire.

After golfers complained of the condition of the courses in 1948, $17,000 was spent from the fund—more than the total amount in the four preceding years.

A letter from Superintendent Root, dated February 8, 1949, to the Recreation Board stated that with the expenditure of $17,000 a balance of $37,359.99 remained in the fund. Mr. Root's letter added that $21,693.60 had been obligated to be expended at a later date.

The report was critical of the parks office for having no breakdown of labor costs shown in a lump sum on the concessioner's operating statements.

Upon inquiry, the report continued, the parks office of the Interior Department, had no figures showing how, when and where the concessioner spent over $30,000 of the 5 per cent rehabilitation fund.

Calling it a weakness of the present setup, the report said that without protest meetings of the golfers and newspaper publicity less money would have been spent from the 5 per cent fund.

Statement by the parks office that the Government has received 62 per cent and the concessioner 38 per cent of the profits was termed "clearly in error." From its breakdown, the report totaled $74,880.66 for Leoffler's share of the profits and $80,881.67 for the Government from 1944 to 1947.

The Recreation Board contended that it could operate the courses at a considerable saving and that the money would be put back in them for the benefit of the golfers.

Members of the special concessions committee who worked on the Recreation Board's report were Harry S. Wender, chairman of the board; James E. Schwab, sr., and Mrs. Alice Hunter.

May 1 Threatening To Be Payless for U. S. Job Pensioners

The people who need it most won't be paid on May 1 unless Congress approves the deadlocked deficiency bill in the meantime.

They are the 9000 persons who were disabled on Government jobs, and the dependents of employes who were killed in line of duty. These people get pitifully small benefits as it is, and to delay their payments would mean a real hardship for many of them.

The employes' compensation fund is "broke." The agency doesn't even have enough money to make payments to doctors, nurses, and hospitals for the treatment of employes who are temporarily disabled.

PAY POLICY: The Administration is ready publicly to reveal its views on the many bills in Congress to raise the salaries of Federal workers.

As expected, it will oppose the bills which would give postal and classified employes flat increases of $650 each. It again will indorse revision of the Classification Act. Also, it will suggest indirectly that any pay raises the Congress feels are needed after a thorough study of the present pay rates be made in the classification bill.

G-GIRLS: Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.) indicated his support for the 3700 G-Girls who are about to be evicted by Uncle Sam from his wartime dormitories at Arlington Farms and Langston. The girls are fighting the proposed closing of the dorms.

The legislator, a member of the Senate Civil Service Committee, called attention to the proposed mass evictions during Senate debate on the public housing bill. He said that if ample private housing was available here for the girls that it was probably in facilities which had improper surroundings.

PLUG: Attorney General Clark gave District Attorney George Morris Fay a nice buildup in his testimony before the House Appropriations Committee. He said "the D. A. we have here is one of the finest we have in the United States."

Clark asked the committee for funds to increase the D. A. staff here. He revealed that Chief Justice Bolitha Laws of the District Court had urged him to appoint at least five more assistant United States attorneys here.

RETIREMENT: The Civil Service retirement division has issued a ruling which is of great importance to former employes of the old Federal relief organizations like WPA, CWA, and FERA.

Credit toward retirement for work in any of the relief agencies won't be given any employe whose salary was under $100 a month, as it will be assumed such an employe had been a relief worker. If an employe was paid more than $100 a month, he will be given credit toward retirement for the time he spent in the relief agencies—IF he can prove he was paid from administrative funds. The retirement division will help him get the facts on his case.

If the records show that the employe was paid from administrative funds at one time, it will be assumed that he had received a regular appointment and that all of his relief service can be credited toward his retirement. The decision is a break for the former relief agency employes.

BUDGET BUREAU shifts. G. E. Ramsey is the new chief of the national security branch of the Division of Estimates. P. C. Holt is assistant chief. E. H. Veatch will be in charge of Navy budgets; C. W. Per-Lee in charge of Army budgets, and H. T. Heun in charge of Air Force budgets. Don MacPhail, the information director, has transferred to the legislative devision.

COMMERCE: A substantial reduction in force will be ordered soon for its voluntary agreements division. The division has about 100 employes . . . NOL: "Operations Asparagus" is to get under way soon at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at nearby White Oak, Md. NOL employes are being assigned garden plots on the Navy's 938-acre layout. They will raise vegetables on their own time.

NOTES: Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) is urging restoration of cuts made in the budget of the Forest Service. More than 500 Forest Service workers would have to be fired if the reductions are approved . . . A Hillbilly Americana revue will be given tomorrow night in the Arlington Farms recreation hall. Tickets are 60 cents for Farm residents; $1.20 for others . . . Civil Service has exams open for physical therapist, $2974 a year, and immigration inspectors, from $3100 to $4328 a year.

Deaths this day last year 24
Total traffic deaths, 1948 67

Three persons died of traffic injuries in area hospitals yesterday, and one of them, a 67-year-old woman, was the District's twentieth pedestrian fatality of the year. The others were county deaths.

She was Mrs. Ethel M. Cutch, of 1545 Columbia st. nw., who died at 1:30 p. m. at Freedmen's Hospital of a cerebral concussion suffered when she was struck Tuesday night by a Capital Transit bus as she was crossing the street at 9th and P sts. nw.

The bus was driven by Royal A. Spellmeyer, 38, of 204 Bates st. nw. Accident Investigation Unit officials said Spellmeyer would appear at a coroner's inquest, the date for which had not been set yesterday.

The pedestrian deaths this year equal the number for the same period of 1948, police said.

Elwood C. Kidwell, 42, of 2618 13th st. nw., died at Prince Georges General Hospital, Cheverly, Md., of injuries suffered Monday on Route 202 near Largo, Md. He was a passenger in a car driven by Eugene J. Coughlin, of 4601 37th st., Brentwood, Md.

Coughlin told Maryland State police he was forced off the road by an oncoming car, hit a soft shoulder, struck a light pole and overturned.

Clyde Julius Nesser, jr., 15, Gonzaga High School second-year student, died at Suburban Hospital as the result of injuries sustained Saturday night.

Clyde

The youth, who lived with his parents at 11405 Luxmanor rd., smashed into a Capital Transit bus while riding a motor scooter. His father is local manager for Cutler - Hammer, Inc.

Clyde was a member of the student council at Gonzaga and played on the J. V. football team. A graduate from Our Lady of Lourdes School, Bethesda, before going to Gonzaga, he had maintained high scholastic records in both. He is survived by his parents and a 14-year-old brother, George.

Requiem mass will be said at Our Lady of Lourdes Church Saturday at 9:30 a. m.

Driver Is Exonerated In Death of Boy, 9

A District coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Mississippi Jackson, 26, of 1409 H st. ne., in the traffic death of Harry Bryan Jordan of 1112 C st. se.

The jury said the 9-year-old boy had met his death accidentally, and as a result of his own carelessness.

The accident occurred on April 9 in the 200 block of 14th st. se. and young Jordan died that evening in Gallinger Hospital.

Witnesses testified that the boy rode his bicycle out of an alley into the path of a car driven by Jackson.

AIU Sergt. Frederick G. Williams testified that because of cars parked along the edge of 14th st. it would have been impossible for Jackson to see the youth on his bicycle until at or near the moment of impact. The bicycle hit the right front fender of Jackson's car and the youth and the bicycle were thrown more than 50 feet down 14th st.

Adams School Parents Prefer 3 Rs to Foreign Entanglements

Parents are more interested in having their children taught "reading, writing and arithmetic than to eat caviar, beef stroganoff or crepe suzettes."

Donald B. MacPhail, whose children attend the Adams School, yesterday gave this answer to a suggestion by School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning that elementary school children at the Adams would benefit from an association with foreign students now attending the Webster Americanization School.

Dr. Corning has proposed moving the Americanization program from Webster, which he describes as an "inadequate" building, to Adams, which is used below capacity.

"Both Dr. Corning and Dr. Hansen (Associate Superintendent Carl Hansen) have spoken of advantages for our children of foreign languages and foreign cuisines," MacPhail said in indicating that parents want the three Rs instead.

The parents, he said, oppose placing adults and children in the same building.

The board, which heard Dr. Corning read a 10-page report on advantages of the move, postponed consideration to give more thought to the views of parents.

In other actions, the Board:

Ended the program providing science instruction for student nurses at Wilson Teachers College after Dr. Corning reported that the facilities are needed for regular college students.

Asked the Commissioners to move the dog pound from its present site adjacent to Randall Junior High School.

School Board Election Plan Is Attacked By Corning

Proposal in Home Rule Bill Would Deter Outstanding Citizens, He Says

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Election of Board of Education members as proposed in the Washington home rule bill would deter outstanding citizens from serving, School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning said yesterday.

He told members of the School Board that the present method of selection by appointment of District Court judges has assured a board free from political considerations.

Reporting on home rule proposals as they affect the schools, he listed election of board members as one of seven major objections he has to the bill. The school head submitted his views in an 11-page report at yesterday's board meeting.

Explains Objection

He declared that the present appointed board has shown it is responsible to the wishes of the residents of the city by encouraging citizens to participate in the formulation of policies and preparation of budget requests.

The District does not need an elected school board, Dr. Corning said, because the board has no power to levy and raise taxes for schools or to authorize expenditures. Most communities with elected boards give these powers to members. In the District they are exercised by Congress.

The school head also said he opposed the plan to pay school board members $20 for each meeting attended.

Would Curtail Authority

Home rule proposals would curtail authority of the board, Dr. Corning said, by giving the District Council power over school legislation.

The school superintendent said he also was against proposals to transfer administration of laws regulating child labor from the board to a director of a department of labor.

Other objections to the bill listed by Dr. Corning in his report to the board were:

Transfer of school classified employes to Civil Service, which would result in "fewer promotional opportunities for school personnel."

Appointment of a superintendent of schools for terms less than the three years now required by law.

A vocational rehabilitation program under the Board of Education yet separate from the educational program of the public schools and administered by a commission having no responsibility to the board or to the superintendent.

Referred to Committee

The board referred the Corning report to its committee on legislation for study. That it was in for heavy going, particularly the sections dealing with an elected school board, was indicated when Board President C. Melvin Sharpe named Mrs. Edward C. Magdeburger chairman of the legislation committee.

Mrs. Magdeburger, who was sworn in as a board member at yesterday's meeting, already has expressed herself in favor of an elected school board. Mrs. Magdeburger was appointed to the board to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle.

In other committee appointments, Sharpe named Adelbert W. Lee to head the committee on personnel and named Dr. James A. Gannon, Albert E. Steinem and George E. C. Hayes to a special committee on athletics.

The board, acting on a recommendation of Dr. Corning, raised its summer school rates for nonresident students to $37, an increase of $3.25 for regular students and $18 for veterans. Rates are determined by actual costs, Dr. Corning said.

Man Struck By Officer at Poolroom Dies

Struck by an off-duty policeman, a man fell in an altercation at a poolroom door last night and died, police reported.

Inspector Clarence H. Lutz identified the dead man as William McDaniel, of 1820 Capitol ave. ne.

Lutz said the policeman, Pvt. Charles D. Hill, 28, on the force two years, was placed in technical custody of Lieut. Thomas C. Kelleher of the 7th Precinct, pending an inquest.

Lutz gave the following account:

Private Hill, off duty and in plain clothes, was in the Twentieth Century billiard parlor, 1929 9th st. nw., about 6:05 p. m. while the manager, Vester Chambers, twice ejected McDaniel because he was acting in a disorderly manner. When McDaniel tried to enter a third time, Chambers vainly tried to lock the door.

Hill walked to the door, and told McDaniel to stay out, whereupon McDaniel grabbed Hill by the collar of his sport shirt. Hill said he was a policeman, and McDaniel replied with threats and profanity.

Hill then struck McDaniel in the face. The man fell. He was taken to Freedmen's Hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 6:25 p. m.

Police said McDaniel had a record of drunk and assault arrests dating back to 1944.

Citizens Group Asks Increased Bus Service

The Bradbury Heights Citizens Association last night adopted a resolution asking for increases in service on the W. M. & A. bus lines. The group also asked the company to collect fares as passengers board outbound buses instead of when they alight, as is now the case.

Meeting at the Fourteenth Precinct Station, the 20 members present voted to add the association's indorsement to the Connecticut Avenue Citizens Association resolution calling for the easing of tension between the races.

Mustn't 'Pull In'

Merchants Warned Off Sidewalks

Ten merchants appeared by "invitation" yesterday in the corporation counsel's office in Municipal Court and were read the law against pulling in customers off the sidewalk.

Prosecutor Clark F. King warned them that the practice is illegal, and Police Capt. Howard V. Covell declared:

"If there is any recurrence of this procedure, I am going to make cases."

Just who the guilty merchants were was not revealed, but King declared they were mainly "7th st. businessmen." Covell referred to them only as "downtown merchants."

Covell said four complaints have been received of merchants soliciting business in front of their establishments by waylaying passers-by with a sales talk or come-hither motions. Two of the complainants identified themselves as rival businessmen, and the other two only as citizens, he stated.

King explained that under the law a merchant must not stand in his doorway or go beyond the building line to give a spiel to a prospective customer. To begin an uninvited conversation with any female, he said, is disorderly conduct; to lay hands on any person can be assault, he explained.

Hospital Manual On Food Buying Explained Here

A new manual designed to help hospitals buy top quality canned goods at lowest cost was explained to the 63 students attending the third day's session of the American Hospital Association's Institute on Hospital Purchasing at the Wardman Park Hotel yesterday.

Compiled by the association, the manual provides purchasing agents with a complete range of standards and specifications of canned foods available on the market. It was described by Leonard P. Goudy, purchasing specialist of the association.

In the afternoon the group inspected the purchasing department of Georgetown University Hospital and the model perpetual inventory set up there by Sister Mary Antonella, administrator of the hospital.

ABC Weighs Indecent Show Allegations

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board yesterday took under advisement charges that the Merry-Land Club, 1405 L st. nw., permitted an indecent performance by an entertainer.

The club is charged with violating the code against using licensed premises for an unlawful purpose.

Last January 29, Hal Thornton, an entertainer at the club, was arrested and charged with giving an indecent performance. Later, Thornton, who is 41 and lives at 2014 R st. nw., was allowed to forfeit $50 collateral on the charge.

Thornton testified yesterday before the ABC Board that he forfeited his collateral after he was told by somebody conncted with the United States Attorney's office that if he did not do so a similar charge would be pressed against his employer, Olivia Davis, who operates the Merry-Land Club.

The entertainer denied telling the off-color stories attributed to him by the two officers who arrested him.

"I wouldn't have had time to tell all those stories," he said. "I was only on for 15 minutes."

Miss Davis also testified and seconded Thornton's statement that he had forfeited his collatral because he didn't want to get her into trouble.

She said that Thornton had played at her club for 32 weeks before his arrest and that after his arrest she had to cancel his contract. His absence, she said, has cost her several thousand dollars' worth of business.

Miss Davis said that two policewomen visited the club in October and told her she would have to change the show because some of it was objectionable. She said she asked what changes should be made but they did not say.

She testified that Capt. Rhoda Milliken, head of the women's bureau, came to see the show and approved the one she saw.

Sigma Delta Chi Initiates Seven Newsmen Here

Seven Washington news correspondents were initiated last night into membership in Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity, at an annual founders' day dinner in the National Press Club.

The initiates are: Ernest B. Vaccaro, The Associated Press; John W. Jarrell, Omaha World-Herald; Arthur Sylvester, Newark (N. J.) News; Nicholas P. Gregory, Philadelphia Inquirer; Lucian C. Warren, Buffalo Courier-Express; Blair Moody, Detroit News, and Jerry Greene, New York Daily News.

Marion Hedges, a labor adviser to ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman, was a principal speaker. Hedges was one of the founders of the fraternity in 1909 at DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind. The present national president, Neal Van Sooy, publisher of the Santa Paula (Calif.) Chronicle, was present. The Washington chapter president is Edward Jamieson, correspondent for the Houston Chronicle.

Hildreth to Call On Truman With Mrs. Harriman

The District's Democratic National Committeeman and Committeewoman, Melvin D. Hildreth and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, will call on President Truman Friday to discuss what Mrs. Harriman last night called "several District matters."

She would not say whether or not these "matters" include the question of who will be named District Commissioner when the term of John Russell Young expires May 17.

Both Mrs. Harriman and Hildreth, like the local Democratic Central Committee, have sent the Democratic National Committee formal indorsements of the candidacy of Thomas P. Morgan, jr., and Democrats have been hoping for some time for an opportunity to present their case personally to the President.

Mrs. Harriman said she had asked the White House for the appointment.

Rev. Gilmore Accepts Post in Wisconsin

The Rev. Gerald F. Gilmore, assistant minister at St. John's Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square, has accepted a call to become rector of All Saints Church, Appleton, Wis.

He will begin his work there May 1. Mr. Gilmore was graduated from the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, in June, 1948. He is a veteran of four years' service in the Navy and holds the rank of lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserve.

Bill Would Make D. C. Park Of Roosevelt's 'Shangri La'

"Shangri-La" and its surroundings would become part of Washington's park system under a bill presented to Congress yesterday.

Shangri-La was the wartime rural retreat of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It has also been used by President Truman and his family. The bill would reserve the Shangri-La portions of the area for use of the President and White House guests.

But the surrounding land, the Catoctin recreational demonstration area, would be made a playground for the public, particularly underprivileged children, according to the proposed plan. The area is near Thurmont, Md., about 60 miles from Washington.

The bill was submitted by the Interior Department. Interior Undersecretary Oscar Chapman, in a letter, explained the bill would authorize the department, through the National Park Service to operate the recreational facilities of the Catoctin area for the public.

He said it "constitutes an ideal recreational and camp area needed for organized camping facilities for various social, civic and religious organizations such as the Associated Charities of Washington and the Maryland League for Crippled Children.

"Because of the inadequacy of recreational facilities in the National Capital, the development of the Catoctin area is indorsed by all of the social service agencies in Washington and the adjoining States of Maryland and Virginia, as well as various organizations that deal with the youth movement."

Chapman said the Catoctin area has facilities to serve about 232 campers annually. During the last war it was closed to the public, and the Army used it, plus some 280 additional acres acquired by the War Department. The bill would add the 280 acres to the park area.

Chapman said present camping accommodations would be expanded as funds become available. He said the bill would permit the camping facilities to be operated under contract with such groups as the Washington Community Chest, Boys Clubs, Community Center, the Maryland League for Crippled Children and other qualified groups or individuals.

A similar bill was cleared by the House in the last Congress, but failed to clear the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs.

Judge Rules Roller Skater A 'Self-Propelled Vehicle'

Is a roller skater a "self-propelled vehicle" or a pedestrian?

That was the question yesterday before Judge George D. Neilson in Traffic Court.

The judge leaned toward the "vehicle" interpretation, freed Herbert Montgomery, 18, of 225 Virginia ave. se., who was charged with violating pedestrian control regulations, but urged the regulations be clarified.

Young Montgomery was arrested by Police Pvt. A. R. Walzel who said the youth was zigzagging down the 600 block of G st. se. and almost caused two automobiles to run together.

Assistant Corp. Counsel Joseph Lowther said in New Jersey roller skaters are regarded as pedestrians.

Montgomery's attorney, E. Roosevelt Page, however, maintained the skates automatically took Montgomery out of the pedestrian category.

Marcy Sperry, Gas Firm Head, Leaves Estate of $235,000

Marcy L. Sperry, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., left an estate of $235,000, it was learned yesterday when a petition for probate of his will was filed.

The 71-year-old Sperry ended his life by leaping from the Massachusetts ave. bridge March 30, on what would have been his last day as active head of the utility company.

The petition listed no real estate in the District, but enumerated personal property, consisting principally of stocks and bonds.

The petition stated that nine boxes containing material gathered as a result of a world cruise of the Atlantic Fleet by his father, Admiral Charles S. Sperry, were deposited with the gas company. Their contents were bequeathed, if wanted, to the Naval Academy Museum in Annapolis.

Bigelow Boysen, a 34-year-old lawyer, was convicted yesterday of violating one of the oldest traffic regulations in Washington—parking in front of a horse water trough.

Boysen, who lives in Falls Church, Va., was freed on his promise not to repeat the offense, which occurred in the 1300 block of New York ave. nw. Judge Armond W. Scott had the case in Municipal Court.

The defendant said he was probably doing horses a favor by blocking the trough which he said contained a quantity of printers' ink.

But Assistant Corporation Counsel Clark King said the trough was strategically located for horses here and described as "very disappointing" the feeling of a thirsty animal frustrated by a parked car.

Woman Hit Him, Cop Says

A 42-year-old woman socked a traffic officer with her pocketbook when he tried to arrest her for crossing the street on a red light, police reported yesterday.

Miss Helen Zeliff, a secretary who gave her address as 15th and L sts. nw., was booked at Women's Bureau on a charge of assaulting an officer.

Pvt. Ralph Ogle, of the Traffic Division, was the officer making the arrest at about 5:30 p. m. at 14th st. and New York ave. nw.

Prosecution Declined

The United States attorney yesterday declined to prosecute a charge of assault that had been placed by Mrs. Eleanor Jacobs, 25, against her husband, Howard W. Jacobs, 31. She had declared earlier that her husband, a hillbilly band guitarist, beat her with his cowboy boots.

Triple Funeral To Be Held Today For Crash Victims

Funeral services for three members of the Lewis E. O'Hara family of 10116 Brunett ave., Silver Spring, Md., killed in a traffic accident at Clarksburg, Md., Monday, will be held at 11 a. m. today at Trinity Methodist Church, Frederick, Md. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Frederick.

O'Hara, a telephone repairman; his wife, Katharine Louise, 29, and 5-year-old daughter, Sandra, were killed when an Army trailer "jackknifed" and swung across the road into their car as they were returning from an Easter outing with relatives at Frederick.

A 7-year-old son, Lewis E. O'Hara, jr., critically injured in the accident, was reported in good condition yesterday at Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, where he was taken after the accident.

Judge Scott Sidesteps Police Critics

Judge Armond W. Scott of Municipal Court said yesterday he did not wish to engage in any "controversy" with policemen and declined otherwise to reply to criticism of him voiced at a District Policemen's Association meeting.

He was criticized at the meeting Tuesday night for declaring two Policemen, Pvts. Benjamin F. Howze and John C. Ostrom, a "disgrace to the Police Department." Judge Scott had reprimanded the officers in what he termed a "brutal" beating of a "helpless" drunk they sought to arrest.

Judge Scott told a reporter yesterday in regard to the police group's criticism:

"I see no reason to reply. I have always considered this city's police force to be a very fine one and its members to be my friends.

"That is the truth and I have said it many times.

"But I have duties to the public and one of those is to make known any brutality I know of. I consider the case which brought on this matter clearly to be one of that kind."

35,600 Man-Days Lost Here in 1948 Through Disputes

District labor-management disputes caused 35,600 idle man-days during 1948, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Only one tenth of 1 per cent of United States workers were involved in District disputes, and only one tenth of 1 per cent of the man-days worked were lost.

Ten disputes were listed in the District involving 1930 workers.

The District labor-management record was bettered only by Idaho, South Dakota and Vermont.

More than one third of all the workers involved in United States labor-management disputes were in Michigan, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Md. Grand Jury to Hear Pyramid Club Case

Cambridge, Md., April 20 (AP).—The grand jury which meets here Monday will consider the case of four Delaware residents charged with violating the lottery laws by soliciting members for a pyramid club.

The four posted bonds of $250 each at a hearing today, pending action by the grand jury. They are Robert Hayes, Mildred Hall, George M. Watson and John Martin.

Their attorney contended at the hearing today that pyramid clubs do not constitute a lottery. The four were arrested last April 6. Police Chief Grayson W. Price said.

Tulip Show Saturday

The thirtieth annual tulip show of the Takoma Horticultural Club will be held Saturday from 4 until 9 p. m. in the Takoma Branch Library, Fifth and Cedar sts. nw. The show is open to all amateur growers who may bring exhibits for placement from 11 a. m. until 3 p. m.

AVC Levels Racial Pathway In Capital for 65 N. Y. Students

The Washington Post

Because its 103 members included one Negro, the senior class of Spring Valley, N. Y., high school had not expected to visit Washington this spring.

Reports of racial discrimination in the Nation's Capital had reached north to the village near the Hudson. Unanimously the class decided to cancel its planned trip here.

The fact that the class was in town yesterday touring the sights did not mean there had been any sharp change in segregation policies here since that vote was taken last December but only that a carefully planned trip which would avoid "embarrassment" had been assured the students."

Is Class Officer

The one Negro class member was along. She is a personable, 17-year-old girl popular enough with her classmates to be elected to one of six class offices. Also along were three Negro graduates of the 1948 class who were denied a visit here when last year's trip was foregone because of them.

The same fate for this year's trip was avoided because members of the Greater Washington Area Council of the American Veterans Committee read in the newspapers of the Spring Valley class' decision.

"We thought it was a flagrant example of the thing segregation can do," said George Brickelmaier, a Government employe here. "Without being flaming zealots about the matter, we thought it was terrible that high school children could not visit the Nation's Capital because of it."

Offer Eagerly Accepted

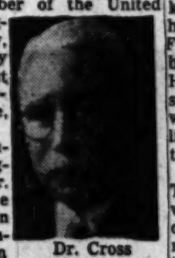
The AVC wrote Spring Valley offering to house some of the students and arrange the whole trip. The class eagerly accepted. Brickelmaier, who had a special interest because he spent his boyhood in Spring Valley and knows many of the families there, was put in charge. He made a special trip to the town to work out details.

Yesterday 65 happy students were down from the Hudson seeing the sights. They visited the Pan American Union, the Washington Monument, the Smithsonian, and saw how money is made at the Bureau of Engraving. They watched the Senate debate the housing bill, and their own Senator—Irving Ives—came off the floor to shake hands with them on the Capitol steps.

Last night the AVC was their host at its clubhouse; a dinner, a showing of Valentino's "The Shiek" and a dance. National AVC officials greeted them.

"Our purpose is to give them the best time they can possibly have in three days," Brickelmaier said—"not to use them as tools for a crusade. We've planned it so they will enjoy themselves and not run into 'situations.'"

Dr. C. W. Cross, Geologist, Dies In Rockville



Dr. Cross

Dr. C. Whitman Cross, 94, the oldest member of the National Academy of Science and for 45 years a member of the United States Geological Survey, died yesterday in the Chestnut Lodge Sanitarium, Rockville, Md.

Author of numerous geological studies, Dr. Cross wrote the NAS report on the Panama Canal Slides in 1905-1916. Recommendations in this report were carried out and the disastrous slides in Culebra Cut did not recur.

On his retirement from the Geological Survey in 1925, Dr. Cross changed professions, and became a nationally recognized authority on the culture of roses. His garden at 101 E. Kirke st., Chevy Chase, was a showplace of more than 2000 rose bushes. He himself developed many new rose types, for which he received national awards.

Born In Amherst, Mass.

It was as a geologist, however, that Dr. Cross gained greatest distinction. Born in 1854 in Amherst, Mass., and graduated from Amherst College, he received his doctorate of philosophy in 1880 from the University of Leipzig, Germany.

In the same year he started his career with the Geological Survey and served there continuously until his retirement. His field work was chiefly in the mountains of Colorado, particularly in the San Juan region. He surveyed and published folios of nine different areas there, including important mining districts.

In 1931 Dr. Cross founded the Potomac Rose Society, only six years after he took up rose culture. His most successful rose developments are now being grown commercially by several horticulturists, including one he named for his wife, the former Virginia Stevens.

Scientific Affiliations

A member of numerous scientific societies, Dr. Cross was a former president of the Geological Society of America, treasurer of the National Academy of Science, and president of the Geological Society of Washington. He was a member of the Academy of Natural Sciences, the London Geological Society, the American Philosophical Society, the Washington Academy of Sciences, the Literary Society of Washington, the Cosmos Club and the Chevy Chase Club.

Dr. Cross is survived by his widow of 3901 Connecticut ave., a son, Richard Stevens Cross of Philadelphia, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 12 a. m. Friday from the Hines Funeral Home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be in North Andover, Mass.

Funeral Rites Set Friday for Sgt. Thompson

Sergt. Thompson

Funeral services for Sergt. Elwood L. Thompson, jr., Prince Georges County resident who was killed in World War II, will be held at 1 p. m. Friday at Chambers Funeral Home, 517 11th st. se. Burial will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Sergeant Thompson was 20 years old when he met his death in combat near Fraudenberg, Germany, on February 22, 1945. He was attached to the Ninety-fourth Infantry Division.

A graduate of Maryland Park High School, Sergeant Thompson worked at the Interior Department as a tabulating machine operator before joining the Army early in 1943.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood L. Thompson of Brooks rd., Capitol Heights, Md., and six brothers, W. Giles Thompson, Wendell W. Thompson, Benjamin L. Thompson, Corben M. Thompson, Warren E. Thompson and Glenn R. Thompson.

George W. Davis

Funeral services for George W. Davis, custodian at the National City Christian Church for 52 years who died Monday, will be held at 2 p. m. today at Horton's Funeral Home, 1322 U st. nw.

Dr. J. Warren Hastings, pastor of National City Church, will conduct the services assisted by the Rev. Myron W. Chrisman, associate minister.

Mr. Davis died Monday at St. Elizabeths Hospital after an illness of several weeks. He reported for work as custodian of the Vermont Avenue Christian Church, which later became National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle, at the age of 22 and had worked there ever since. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Davis, 23 9th st. ne., and a brother, Frank Smith.

Wirt G. Bowman

Tucson, Ariz., April 20 (AP).—Wirt G. Bowman, 75, founder of the Agua Caliente resort, died here today.

Democratic National Committeeman for Arizona from 1932 to 1940, Bowman also served as an Arizona legislator, delegate to Democratic National Conventions, and from 1943 to 1946 was United States collector of customs for Arizona.

Donald Stillman

White Plains, N. Y., April 20 (AP). Donald Stillman, 56, Rod and Gun columnist for the New York Herald Tribune for the past 20 years, died today.

Stillman was managing editor of the magazine Forest and Stream for several years prior to its merger with Field and Stream in 1930.

Ferdinand W. Burton

Grundy, Va., April 20 (AP). — Ferdinand W. Burton, 56, superintendent of the Appalachian Electric Power Co.'s Welch, W. Va., district, died in a hospital here today.

Coronary thrombosis was listed as the cause of death. Burton was stricken shortly after he arrived here on business eight days ago and had been in the hospital since then.

Nestor Johnson

Phelps, Wis., April 20 (AP).—Nestor Johnson, 82, inventor of the tubular ice skate, died yesterday.

Johnson, once known as the "king of the blades," retired in 1917 to a farm on Big Twin Lake near Phelps. He was a tool and die maker in Chicago when he discovered his idea for the skate which became famous under the name "Johnson racer."

Born in Oslo, Norway, in 1867, Johnson came to the United States in 1887 and established his skate-making company in 1894.

Builder Due to Answer Public Nuisance Charge

Peter Crosby, of the Camalier & Crosby Corp., developers of Chevy Chase Manor, is scheduled to appear in court at Rockville today to answer charges of maintaining a public nuisance.

A warrant sworn out by Mrs. James A. Thurman, 412 Cummings lane, Chevy Chase, Md., charges that Crosby's trucks and other building paraphernalia are making Cummings lane an "unbearable" place to live on because of mud and litter.

Funeral Rites Here Today for Gwynn Boy

Funeral services will be held at 12:30 p. m. today for McHenry Gwynn, ten-year-old son of a Washington tax collector, who died Easter after a brief illness with leukemia.

Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery following services at the Washington Chapel of the Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, 2810 16th st. nw.

The boy was stricken on February 20 when he awoke suffering what his parents first believed was "just a nose-bleed." It was later diagnosed as the so-called blood cancer, and the lad was hospitalized progressively in Episcopal, Children's and Doctors Hospitals. He was sustained by a total of 40 blood transfusions and received the latest drugs in the fight to save his life.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Riley A. Gwynn, of 4100 Leland st., Chevy Chase, Md., two sisters, two brothers and three grandparents.

Mrs. Etta W. Davis

Funeral services for Etta Wilson Davis, 63, lifelong District resident who died of a heart attack Monday, will be held at 2 p. m. today at the S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 14th st. nw. Burial will be in Rock Creek cemetery.

Mrs. Davis

Mrs. Davis was the widow of George Roscoe Davis, lawyer and former chairman of the Bureau of Internal Revenue's Board of Tax Appeals, who died in 1930.

A member of Esther Chapter No. 5, Order of the Eastern Star, since 1913, Mrs. Davis served as Worthy Matron of the chapter in 1925. She also was a member of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association.

She is survived by two sons, Lachlan R. Davis, with whom she lived at 1834 Lamont st. nw., and Dr. Selby B. Davis, Greenwich, Conn.; a stepson, Donald M. Davis, Houston, Tex., and a sister, Miss Roberta E. Wilson, Miami, Fla.

Beery Cut Off Child in Will

The veteran actor distributed his $500,000-plus fortune equally among his adopted 19-year-old daughter, Carol Ann, his brother, Will, and a nephew, Noah Beery, jr.

Under no circumstances, he said, is Johann Schann Schumm, son of movie extra Gloria Whitney Schumm, "to inherit any portion or receive any gift."

"I expressly state that irrespective of results of paternity proceedings, said Johann is not my issue," he said in the will. "I have no children."

A half hour after the will was filed, Mrs. Schumm, who claims the grizzled 65-year-old star fathered Johann during a more than casual friendship, filed a petition asking to be appointed guardian of any estate the baby may receive. The petition was granted.

Meter Developed To Gauge Smog And Turn on Air

Development of a "smoke meter" to aid industrial areas in their battle against smog was announced today by General Electric Co. engineers.

The new G-E device not only indicates density of smoke issuing from stacks but makes a continuous record of that density, they said. Moreover, it can be tied in to other equipment to automatically turn on forced air in the firebox whenever smoke density rises above a pre-set percentage.

Smog is the unwanted, sometimes dangerous, mixture of smoke and fog which envelops industrial areas.

DeForest Richards of Chicago, former State Regent of Illinois.

Federal Education Aid, World Government Opposed

urged the teaching of United States history, geography and civics "according to the ideals of the American Free Enterprise economy and the Constitution of the United States."

The DAR's $900,000 administration building fund was upped to within $50,000 of the $500,000 goal, according to a report given by Mrs. V. Eugene Holcombe, chairman, building promotion committee, at the end of the daily fund-raising ceremony yesterday. Delegates answered the "greenback and pledge" call with more than $53,000. Both Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, president general, and Mrs. Holcombe urged delegates to complete a $500,000 quota before the congress adjourns Friday.

Prior to the collection of cash and pledges, Mrs. Rex Hays Rhoades, treasurer general and chairman of the building finance committee, reported that a unit of the North Carolina DAR had paid $6000 for powder room annexes in Constitution Hall.

Other building fund contributions, according to the treasurer general, include $5 from the DAR chapter in Italy, $500 from the Hawaii DAR. "The $5 from Italy represents many hundred lira," said Mrs. Rhoades.

Committee Reports

In her report to the Congress, Mrs. David D. Caldwell of Washington, chairman of the buildings and grounds committee, revealed that Constitution Hall will be available for more radio shows and conventions in the future.

Mrs. Robert R. Hill of Indianapolis, Ind., national chairman, press relations committee, reported that the national society exceeded its goal of a half million inches of publicity during the past year. She cited a net increase over previous years of 89,043 inches in printed matter plus an increase of 822 pictures published.

Mrs. Charles R. Curtiss, chairman of the Americanism committee reported at the afternoon session that 100 per cent of the States, as well as Hawaii and the District of Columbia, answered the call for complete reports on Americanism in their territory. She particularly stressed the good work of the Pacific division, especially California, in promoting "I Am an American Day."

DAR has oversubscribed its quota in its fund to save the redwood trees of California, according to Mrs. Charles A. Christen of the conservation committee. She said the tentative date for the dedication of the DAR area has been set for September.

Mrs. Maurice Clark Turner, chairman of the correct use of the flag committee, asked for legislation which would "put teeth in our Flag code," since there is no national law protecting the flag.

Historic Tower

Mrs. William C. Langston, chairman of the Memorial Bell Tower at Valley Forge, termed Valley Forge "historically perfect" for the site of the DAR Memorial Bell Tower, now being built there.

Mrs. LaFayette LeVan Porter chairman of the Daughters of the American Revolution magazine committee, told members that subscriptions to the magazine were increasing, while the editor of the magazine, Mrs. Grace L. H. Brosseau, gave the "do's and dont's" in sending stories from the chapters.

Senator George Malone (R., Nev.) in an unscheduled afternoon speech, opposed reciprocal trade agreements and free world trade. There is "no difference," he said, between importing "products of low cost labor" and importing "low cost labor itself."

He told the some 5000 delegates and members that there are four million unemployed and 9½ million partially unemployed in America today.

Mrs. J. DeForest Richards of Chicago, former Illinois State regent, drew first place on the ballot sheet being prepared for election of nine vice presidents general. Candidates were formally placed in nomination at last night's session and voting begins at 8 a. m. today. The seven candidates receiving the highest number of votes will be elected for a three-year term. The eighth will serve two years, and the ninth one year.

Positions of other candidates, drawn out of a box yesterday, are: Mrs. Furel Robert Burns, State regent of Indiana, No. 2; Mrs. Chester F. Miller, Michigan State regent, No. 3; Miss Gertrude S. Carraway, North Carolina State regent, No. 4; Mrs. Mark A. Smith, former Georgia State regent, No. 5; Miss Edla S. Gibson of New York, No. 6; Mrs. Henry Grady Jacobs, Alabama State regent, No. 7; Mrs. Edward R. Barrow, Texas State regent, No. 8, and Miss Mabel Cooper Gupton, former Idaho State regent, No. 9.

Regents' Reports

Approximately 40 DAR State regents reported on the achievements of their respective home States at last night's session.

Speaking for the District of Columbia, Mrs. David L. Wells, State regent, reported that the 60 local chapters now boast a 3,775 membership; that the local society has now paid or pledged $10,988.80 toward its $22,000 quota of the DAR administration building fund.

Further accomplishments, according to Mrs. Wells, include $600 or 100 per cent participation paid by chapters to the Tribute Grove of Redwoods in California, plus $247 paid in on the Valley Forge Bell Tower Project. In addition the DAR Chapter House at 1732 Massachusetts ave, nw. has been redecorated and $3369.21 raised for the headquarter's annex.

Mrs. A. P. Roberts of Baltimore, vice regent of Maryland, announced that Maryland has 1779 members in its 33 chapters . . . that the State Chapter House fund now has reached $29,502.62 . . . that the Chevy Chase Chapter has contributed $6 per quota member to the building fund and has given a museum case in honor of the late Mrs. William B. Ingersoll.

Money Is Legal Carried or Worn. DAR Reassured

"Greenback" corsages are OK, according to Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mrs. O'Byrne asked that DAR members in congress at Constitution Hall this week wear "orchid greenback" corsages, to be donated later to the DAR building fund.

But one Washington cab driver told several delegates that "currency could not be 'worn' in a public conveyance."

After a quick check with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the District legislative department, Mrs. O'Byrne reassured members at the afternoon session yesterday they were breaking no District or Federal law by wearing "greenback" corsages.

Preparedness To Highlight Program Today

Highlighted at DAR's morning session today will be adoption of resolutions, reports of committee chairmen, and voting for nine vice presidents general. The polls will open at 8 a. m.

Laying of the cornerstone of the new DAR administration building will follow the afternoon session, which will get under way at 2:30 p. m. A casket containing DAR documents, a picture of Mrs. O'Byrne, plus the United States and DAR flags, will be cemented in the cornerstone.

A national defense meeting will emphasize national preparedness and security at the night session, scheduled for 8:30 o'clock, following an 8 p. m. concert by the United States Army Band Orchestra. Vice Admiral Robert B. Carney, deputy chief of Naval Operations, will discuss "Buying National Defense." Dr. James R. Miller, member of the board of trustees of the American Medical Association, will outline "A Program of Action to Meet National Health Needs." Representative Ralph W. Gwinn (R., N. Y.) will talk on "Federal Aid to Education—the Final Act in the Tragedy of Socialism-American Variety."

'We Meet, or We Don't,' He Says

One Vote for Judge O'Byrne, Equable Spouse of DAR President, as the Ideal Mate

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

THE only male among thousands of women sat serenely in Constitution Hall's Box 3 throughout the morning session of the Daughters of the American Revolution Congress yesterday. He's Judge Roscoe O'Byrne, husband of the DAR President General. It's his initial appearance at a Continental Congress, though Mrs. O'Byrne presided last year, and, during the past three decades has worked her way up from the humblest to the most exalted DAR job.

The judge is here strictly as an observer and has taken in every session from the opening night, which he described as a "splendid scenic affair," as well as the more routine business meetings. He's not going to all the attendant parties, however, and no one has bothered to send him a corsage or at least a boutonniere—an oversight for such a nice person!

We asked, now that he'd seen the whole works, whether he intended giving his wife any suggestions. The judge, with a twinkle, "I don't think a president general would take any suggestions I'd make, do you?" The inevitable question, "How does it feel to be the husband of a DAR president?" was answered with positive pleasure, "It's a splendid feeling!"

THE judge is quite a guy. Short, florid, plumpish, he's white-haired, wears a pince-nez, a smart, brightish blue suit, a foulard tie with a small stickpin. Philosophical, he's accepted DAR doings as a primary part of his life, regards them with considerable detachment, never lets them get in his way. He was judge of the Circuit Trial Court in Brookville for three six-year terms. Now he's chairman of the Public Service Commission of Indiana, lives most of the week in Indianapolis, some 72 miles away from home.

Mrs. O'Byrne, whose job keeps her on the jump, is away 50 per cent of the time. "She's either there or she isn't. We either meet or we don't," the judge said equably. They have no children and they have arranged interesting lives. The DAR hasn't made any appreciable dent, intellectually or as far as hobbies are concerned. The judge doesn't go in for delving into American history, nor does he chase around deciphering tombstones or browsing amongst old records. "I just do my job and by the end of the day there's very little time to do anything except go to bed." All in all, Judge O'Byrne gets this department's vote for America's Ideal Husband of 1948.

Among the guests were the Minister of War for Colombia, Lieut. Gen. German Ocampo, and Senora de Ocampo, the Ambassador of Colombia and Senora de Restrepo. Jaramillo, Senorita Maria Elena Restrepo, the Ambassador of Argentina to CAS and Senora de Corominas, the Ambassador of Bolivia to OAS and Senora de Mogro Moreno, the Ambassador of Chile and Senora de Nieto del Rio, the Ambassador of Cuba to OAS and Senora de Guell, and the Ambassador of Uruguay to OAS and Senora de Mora.

Still others were the Ambassador of Guatemala to OAS and Senora de Gonzalez Arevalo, the Ambassador of Haiti, Joseph D. Charles; the Ambassador of Mexico to OAS and Senora de Quintanilla, the Ambassador of Nicaragua and Senora de Sevilla-Sacasa, the Ambassador of Paraguay, Juan Felix Morales; the Ambassador of Venezuela to OAS and Senora de Carnevali, the First Secretary of Colombia, Fernando Gaitan; the First Secretary of Colombia, Jose Brivo; the niece of the Brazilian Ambassador, Miss Sylvia Nabuco, and two house guests of the hostess, the Misses Ruth and Nellie Stornaiuolo of Venezuela.

The Colombian Foreign Minister was also honored at a luncheon yesterday by the Council of OAS. Guests numbered 50 and included a number of Latin-American ambassadors. A long table was set in the Hall of Flags centered with three large bouquets of spring flowers. Organ music was played throughout the luncheon.

Army Hostess Board Elects Mrs. J. E. Moore

Mrs. James E. Moore, wife of Brigadier General Moore, secretary of the Army General Staff, has been elected president of the Army Hostess Association at a meeting to elect permanent officers of the board of directors.

The Army Hostess Association was formed recently by wives of officers stationed in the area who volunteered to serve to help newly arrived Army families. An office, staffed by these volunteers, is in operation from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday, in room 2A320, at the Pentagon.

Advice is given on schools, transportation, shopping and other facilities available in Washington. The District area is subdivided and volunteer hostesses residing in each subdivision contact newly arrived families locating in their subdivisions.

The information provided by the Army Hostess Association was combined with the official data and the result was the publication of "An Information Guide for Army Personnel Reporting into Washington and Vicinity" giving general information on the subject.

Mrs. Hobart R. Gray, wife of Major General Gay, commanding general of the military district of Washington, is honorary president of the association. Other officers on the board of directors are Mrs. Edward H. Brooks, wife of Lieutenant General Brooks, vice president; Mrs. C. F. Von Kann, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Von Kann, secretary; Mrs. Joseph X. Gillen, wife of Captain Gillen, office manager; Mrs. Laurence Kuter, wife of Major General Kuter, liaison representative to women's clubs; Mrs. D. M. Oden, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Oden, roster manager; Mrs. Fred P. Campbell, wife of Lieutenant Colonel Campbell.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Matron Asks How to Cope Tactfully With Boy, 14, Son of Valued Friends; He Drops In and Pokes Through Closets and Drawers

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My problem is how to cope tactfully with a boy, 14, the son of friends, who comes into our home and seems to think nothing of opening the desk, or closet doors or any drawers, and handling the contents that interest him.

I am very fond of his parents and don't want to hurt their feelings; and his aunts (his father's sisters) have discussed the subject with me, but none of us want to risk losing his mother's friendship. She is college bred and the boy seems quite intelligent, which makes this nuisance-habit the more surprising.

In our family, respect for privacy is standard practise. I have a son, 20, and to this day neither he nor his father has ever rummaged through the other's bureau drawers or private papers. And when I want anything from my purse, my son will bring the purse to me rather than open it.

Perhaps you may think that for the sake of friendship I ought to try to overlook the problem; but his persistence makes it very annoying. In any case I want your advice; and possibly Bob's parents might read it with profit, too. C. S.

Woman's Delicacy Is Inappropriate

DEAR C. S.: It seems to me you have been making a mountain out of a molehill, by taking an unduly delicate attitude towards Bob's childish rummaging for hidden treasure to inspect.

Since he is only 14, and, I gather, drops in casually—without his parents—to do his poking about, he is really your "charge" at such times, and it is your "surrogate" right to call him to order, firmly and kindly.

Or even if his parents are present when he is brashly invading closets and drawers, again you have full courteous right to restrain him with a word and gesture to the wise.

For example, if you see him in the act of opening the desk or trifling with its contents, you should drift over quietly, close it gently, and say with a poised half-smile, "In our house big boys don't play with daddy's desk, and little boys would be spanked for it. That's what we taught Roddy;—but wouldn't you like some apple pie? I think there is some in the kitchen. Let's go see."

Lead Him by Ear Out of Mischief

THAT WERE figuratively leading him by the ear out of trouble, while maintaining a hospitable manner. The same technique, with suitable variations, should also be used if you find him pawing through a closet or bureau drawer—which definitely is a gross violation of householder rights to privacy.

If he is a repeater in that respect and you want it stopped, better say briskly next time he offends, "Bob, what on earth are you after? Come out of there, please!"—and if he doesn't respond at once, with abashed apology, you should busy yourself tidying-up mauled personal possessions, while explainng tersely, "I'm always glad to have you drop in; but we can't have this sort of thing, you know."

And you might add, "I wouldn't dream of going through your mother's closets and bureau drawers; and I'm sure she wouldn't want you going through ours." That's giving her as much leniency of judgment as she's entitled to, even supposing she is listening from the next room. M. H.

District Club Federation Hits Compulsory Health Insurance

THE DISTRICT FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS, representing 34 clubs here, yesterday went on record as opposed to national compulsory health insurance. The group voted to indorse instead the principle of medical-grants-in-aid from the Federal Government, to be administered locally as the States decide.

Before the action was taken at the federation's monthly meeting, Mrs. Harvey C. Wiley, chairman of legislation, told the group that "the common impression" that compulsory insurance would make health facilities available to all was "misleading."

"Only those people can benefit who are enrolled under social security and the self insured, and not even all of those who carry social security will be eligible," Mrs. Wiley said.

Mrs. Newton Wing raised the sole voice of approval during discussion, stating she thought England, with its socialized medicine scheme, was "taking the long look."

The federation also voted to write to President Truman, "urging that a qualified woman be appointed to the important position of Commissioner of the District." Action came after Mrs. Wiley quoted The Washington Post as saying that "the search is on for a qualified man or woman to fill this important post."

Mrs. Edward Magdeburger, federation president, and newly-appointed school board member, told the more than 60 delegates present she felt her appointment was "a challenge and a great tribute to the Federation of Women's Clubs."

Other actions the federation took were:

Voted to oppose a proposed amendment to the Food and Drug Act, requiring the Food and Drug Administration to prove fraud or intent to defraud, in criminal prosecutions against act violators. The resolution was brought up by Mrs. Wiley, whose late husband pioneered for pure food and drug legislation.

Voted to oppose a majority recommendation of the Hoover Commission, which suggested the Food and Drug Administration be removed from the Federal Security Administration, and split in two—its food section going to Agriculture Department, and its drug section to the Public Health Service.

Nabuco Credits Atlantic Pact To the Pan American Union

THE ATLANTIC PEACE PACT would not exist if it were not for the Pan American Union, in the opinion of the Ambassador of Brazil, Mauricio Nabuco.

Addressing the members of the Women's National Press Club at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Press Club, the Ambassador explained that the Atlantic Pact was permissible under the United Nations Charter because of Article 51 which provided for such alliances. This article was included in the Charter at the insistence of the American countries who did not want to give up the Pan-American alliance.

"We should all feel happy about the Atlantic Pact," Ambassador Nabuco said, explaining that "a peace pact between 2 countries is good and a peace pact among 12 is better.

"When all Europe is in, it will serve its purpose," he continued, expressing confidence that "it will result in the long run in economic and social benefits to the member countries and lead to peace . . . because prosperous countries do not attack."

A Right to Opinion

THE Brazilian representative pointed out that Brazil has a right to offer an opinion on peace since the Brazilian constitution forbids wars of aggression and the Brazilian borders—separating the country from 10 other countries—were all fixed by arbitration. Brazilian slaves were freed without bloodshed, the Ambassador said.

Discussing the visit of President Eurico Gaspar Dutra to Washington the middle of next month, the speaker said that it will be the second time in history that the head of the Brazilian government will visit the United States. The only other visit was made in 1876 by the Emperor who met Alexander Graham Bell at the Philadelphia exhibit. "That is how it happened that the second telephone in the world was in Brazil," the Ambassador explained.

When President Dutra visits this country he will go to Tennessee to study the Tennessee Valley Authority. "I hope he will also go to Vanderbilt University when he is there because it is doing the most for the Portuguese language," Nabuco said.

Progress 'Very Satisfactory'

IN reply to questions the Ambassador said that projects of Nelson Rockefeller's International Basic Economy Corporation are progressing very satisfactorily in Brazil and that Brazilians do welcome that kind of investment of foreign capital. He said also that most of the displaced persons who had come to Brazil were fitting into the economy of the country and that Brazilians were willing to take a great many of them.

Miss Dorothy Williams, president, presided at the luncheon. Seated at the head table with Miss Williams and the honor guest were Senator Estes Kefauver of Tennessee who will escort President Dutra to TVA during his visit, and Edgar Morris, who is chairman of the citizen's committee making preparations for the Brazilian's visit to President Truman.

Worry, If You Don't

You're Nuts If You Think You're Crazy!

Members of the Wellesley Club of Washington were told yesterday a little doubt about your own mental health is a good sign.

Dr. Winfred Overholser, superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, addressing the alumnae group yesterday at the Dodge Hotel, assured the audience that most people who think they are perfectly balanced are the ones who are not balanced.

Dr. Overholser also told his audience the ability to face reality without evasion is the mark of a well balanced person. To maintain mental health, it is necessary to have confidence in other people, trust them and tolerate their idiosyncracies, he said.

Dr. Overholser discussed new treatments for mental disturbances and said that although St. Elizabeth's is among the best equipped and staffed of United States mental hospitals, even this hospital, however, is short of operating funds.

The public doesn't take as much interest in mental hospitals as in the others, Dr. Overholser said. People just don't realize that half of the hospital beds in the country are in mental hospitals, he explained.

Dr. Overholser's talk was preceded by a business meeting at which Mrs. Donald F. Roberts reported that the District area has raised $87,500 for the seventy-fifth anniversary fund, 72 per cent of its goal of $125,000. One of the individual contributions to the fund was made in the will of the late Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Charles Evans Hughes, who bequeathed $15,000 to the college.

Ask Anne — Where to Buy Pan Handles

I have some Harvalloy pans that need new handles and I have been unable to find a store in Washington that carries them. Could you, or one of your readers, tell me the manufacturer's address? M. G. T.

Harvalloy pans are made by the Varvill Corp., at Sepulveda and West Century blvds., Los Angeles, Calif.

Would it be possible to finish unpainted pine corner bookcases so they would match limed oak? I do not want them to look "home finished" and am willing to work hard for a nice finish. I need complete instructions for this and would appreciate your frank answer if you do not think I can get the proper finish on them. G. G. B.

Because the grain of pine is so different from oak, a pine piece really cannot be made to resemble limed oak. As a matter of fact, because pine is a soft wood with a not too interesting grain, the best finish for it is a paint or enamel which completely covers the grain. Perhaps you could paint the corner cupboard a color to blend with your color scheme and contrast with the limed oak. If you choose to paint, choose a color which will be a real contrast to the light furniture.

Someone asked for a recipe for candy cereal. I have just found one:

CEREAL BALLS

1 teaspoon vinegar
1 cup golden syrup
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
4 cups puffed rice or wheat

Cook syrup, vinegar, and salt to brittle stage, stirring occasionally. Add butter and mix thoroughly. Pour on puffed cereal and mix well. This recipe makes 24 balls the sizes of a walnut. J. G.

Recently, I read in the Ask Anne column that E. R. wanted a recipe for caramel icing. I have found in some of the chain grocery stores the penuche flavor fudge mix that is very delicious for making either caramel icing for cake or the candy. It is very easy to make with no failures and isn't expensive. K. L. B.

Sometime ago, you listed a store in Alexandria which bought used shoes. I have a number of pairs, both mine and children's, in excellent condition but outgrown. Will you list the number again? D. C. O.

The shop sells the shoes for its customers on a commission basis. The telephone number is Alexandria 0649.

Here is my recipe for poppy seed strudel, sent in response to another reader's request: I have other recipes of the Austrian Hungarian kitchens if the lady is interested.

BASIC SIMPLE YEAST DOUGH

1 cup milk
1 egg
1 teaspoon sugar
½ cup lard or shortening
1 1/3 ounces yeast
¼ cup water (warm)
Pinch salt
Grated rind of 1 lemon

Dissolve yeast in ¼ cup lukewarm water and add 1 teaspoon sugar. Sift flour and salt. Combine shortening and warm milk, add egg and yeast mixture, then lemon rind. Add combination to flour and beat until light. Cover and let rise in warm place 2 hours. Use this basic dough for Hungarian dumplings, for Buchteln and strudel.

For Poppy Seed Strudel, roll the dough (after rising) on a floured board to ¼-inch thickness. Cover with the following:

POPPY SEED FILLING

2 cups poppy seed
1 cup milk
⅔ cup sugar
1 teaspoon butter
½ teaspoon lemon flavoring
½ teaspoon ground cloves
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon rum
1 teaspoon plum jam
½ cup raisins

Grind poppy seed very fine. Boil with milk. Add all ingredients except raisins. Keep over heat and stir constantly until smooth. Allow to cool and spread on dough, then sprinkle raisins over. Roll up and place on greased cooky sheet. Allow to rise in warm place 20 minutes, covered with towel. Bake in 400-degree oven 45 to 60 minutes. If necessary, lower the heat after the first 20 minutes. A. C. L.

LOOKING INTO SPRING: For those first warm days that are just around the corner, Washington's young business miss will want a trim, neat cotton. This one of fine Chambray is the answer to her needs for it is pretty both in line and price. It comes in pastel shades of pink, aqua, blue and gray in sizes 9 to 15. Tucking on the tuxedo-front bodice and pockets is woven with gold or silver threads to match the leather belt. Available at Kaplowitz Bros.

Tri-Delts Set 3-State Parley Here Saturday

Members of Delta Delta Delta Sorority from Maryland, Pennsylvania and Delaware will meet Saturday at College Park, Md., to attend a State meet at the University of Maryland chapter house. Hostesses will be alumnae from the Washington Alliance and collegiate members of the University of Maryland chapter.

Miss Lucia Brown, homemaking editor of The Washington Post, will be the speaker at a luncheon given at 1 p. m. at the Prince Georges Country Club. Her subject will be "Pancakes and Printers Ink." There will be a morning business session beginning at 9:30 and an afternoon session following the luncheon. Reports will be given by Mrs. Robert Norton, Mrs. Howard Eales, Mrs. Charles Perrin, Mrs. Eugene Moulds, jr., and Mrs. James S. Williams. Mrs. David C. Austin, jr. will be in charge of the meetings.

Reservations for the luncheon can be made with Mrs. Rollo G. Plumb, 2628 East-West Highway, Chevy Chase, Md., through Thursday of this week.

The Easy Way

So many times we are deceived . . . About our aim in life . . . Because we cannot see beyond . . . The curtain of its strife . . . We look for greener pastures and . . . A more inviting dawn . . . Where every shadow disappears . . . And agony is gone . . . But all we really want to do . . . Is run away from fear . . . And find the lightness that will lift . . . Our heavy atmosphere . . . We do not have the courage to . . . Continue with our quest . . . Or sense enough to understand . . . The struggle that is best . . . We want to wave a magic wand . . . To bring the perfect day . . . And everywhere we go in life . . . To take the easy way.

In Her Pretty Easter Bonnet Of All the Thrills—She Won It!

By Peggy Preston

TO THE lady wearing the "lavender-blue" bonnet, with the big blossoms on it, went yesterday's choice prize of the week—a new hat by Designer Michael Roy Chanda.

The winner was Mrs. Edward F. McGinnis, who competed with several hundred women for hat-honors at a luncheon given by the Women's Advertising Club of Washington at the Washington Hotel.

A panel of male judges, scanning the gathering with interested, if bewildered eyes, selected the hat worn by Mrs. McGinnis as the "most fetching." Then, Chanda, one of the honor guests at the luncheon, presented her with an empty hat box, which she may fill with the hat of her choice from his spring and summer collection.

Handing down the decision were the "morning lads" of radio, including Eddie Gallaher, WTOP; Bill Herson, WRC; Jim Gibbons, WMAL; Bill Jenkins, WEAM; Milton Q. Ford, WWDC; and Jerry Strong, WINX.

Deep Stuff on Headgear

HATS, their origin, meaning and influence (on the mood of the woman and her budget) were discussed by the principal speaker, Mrs. Maud Moody, millinery editor of Women's Wear Daily.

Mrs. Moody, who has been writing about hats for 25 years, and who knows all their worst and best features, admits she still cannot resist a pretty bonnet.

"Every season I see a hat that I want," she said. "And I marvel how the designers continue to produce something new year in and year out."

Mrs. Moody pointed out that millinery is one of the most important phases of the ready-to-wear business, which is the second largest industry in this country. The costs of producing a good hat is high, despite the popular idea that a hat can be whipped up with a small outlay of money.

"The designing process alone is tremendously expensive," she said. "A designer must create 25 hats and be happy if five are a success. Add to this the cost of labor and materials and you can understand why hats carry the price tags that they do."

Following Mrs. Moody's talk, a collection of new designs by Chanda were shown. Included were his spring and summer hats, and a few felts from his forthcoming fall collection. Close-fitting, soft felts, with yellow the leading color, are his leading predictions for autumn. The collection is displayed at Eriebacher's.

Shirley Demands Votes for Women

By Richard L. Coe

"ADVENTURE IN BALTIMORE," at Keith's, is a gentle, unassuming litle film, nostalgic and pleasant.

Shirley Temple and her husband, John Agar, are the young people; 1905 is the year. Robert Young plays a Protestant minister, Shirley's father, whose household teeters each time teen-age daughter comes to grips with art, women's suffrage and thoughts on labor.

Nothing sensational happens, though the chattering of parishioners suggests that when Shirley got John to pose as the Spirit of Labor in the greenhouse, things might have. But father is a man of good sense, faces the gossip for what it is and winds up by being elected bishop.

Shrley's escapades do lead to some quietly laughable incidents. Her horror that the family maid earns only 50 cents a day is eclipsed by her interest in sketching. Her insistence that women should have the vote gives Agar, as the boy next door, a curious speech to read, and her choice of a public model lands her in jail. The pace is leisurely, befitting both period and setting, and the cast is competent to Director Richard Wallace's instructions.

People, I find, are inclined to be of two minds about Shirley. Perhaps it's the nostalgia in me, but I rather like the earnest young lady she's become. She's pretty in a wan sort of way and her lower jaw does jut out to suggest a stubborn nature, but I'm inclined to like her gentle personality. Much the same goes for Agar, who still reads lines as though he's playing the lead in a high school play. But they're playing roles that approximate themselves, self-conscious, earnest youth setting their sights on the 20-year mark.

There's nothing roisterous or zippy about "Adventure in Baltimore," just a quiet, leisurely incident, dipped in nostalgia.

Keith's also has a round-up of the basketball season with appropriate highlights and basket shots.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY last night opened its springtime musical, "H'Ray, Mr. A.," which will be repeated tonight in Clendenen Hall on the campus . . . Marjorie Ehle wrote and directed the satirical story of political life and Michael L. Moore's score employes an orchestra of 20.

TONIGHT brings the opening of the George Washington University Players' spring comedy with music, "Somersault in the Sea," which will play through Saturday night at Lisner Auditorium . . .

"ADVENTURE IN BALTIMORE," RKO release. Produced by Richard H. Berger. Screen play by Lionel Houser from an original story by Lesser Samuels and Christopher Isherwood. Photographed by Robert de Grasse. Music by Frederick Hollander. Directed by Richard Wallace. At Keith's.

Seats for all performances are on sale at Lisner, Lubar's, 1300 G st., and the AAA.

ARTIST AND MODEL, 1905: Shirley Temple and John Agar, her real-life husband, are the heroine and the boy who lives next door in Keith's gentle comedy, "Adventure in Baltimore."

"GREED," one of filmdom's classics, is this week's bill for the Institute of Contemporary Arts revival series . . . Erich von Stroheim directed and in it ZaSu Pitts plays her lone serious screen role . . . The picture goes on at 8:30 at the Institute, 1322 New York ave., phone ST. 6266.

The Lyons Den

NEW YORK.—Albert Einstein told a visitor: The Golden Rule is a law of physics—if you try to give someone happiness, you get some back yourself" . . . Some practical jokers cut out a photo of a 1949 car from a magazine ad, and pasted it onto the old French street-scene in the Utrillo painting owned by Harry Kurnitz.

At the Friars Frolic in the Shrine Auditorium, George Jessel announced: "Here where we perform our operas, we have something in common with the Met—we also lost money" . . . Jessel said of a bad-check passing cafe-owner: "He saved my life once. There was a draught coming through the keyhole of my hotel room, and I'd have caught pneumonia and died—if I hadn't stuffed the keyhole with a check he gave me."

The P. G. Wodehouse short stories and novels now appearing in magazines are those he wrote while he was a prisoner in Germany. Wodehouse completed 14 stories and 4 movies during his stay in Germany . . . He was summering in LeTouquet, when the Germans were about to sweep across it, and had 30 minutes time to catch the plane out. But the British officials refused to permit him to take his two Pekinese with him, and so Wodehouse said: "I won't go without my dogs. Anyway, I don't believe that the Germans will come here." The Pekinese still are with him . . . This is Wodehouse's explanation for his broadcast from Berlin. He received so much mail from important Americans that the Nazis suggested he broadcast his thanks. He never knew that his broadcast, recorded alone in a studio, would be used as part of a propaganda broadcast.

When Al Lewin, the producer, was told that the head of one movie studio once had been a champ bowler, he said: "I don't believe it. In those days he wasn't interested in One Ball—but in Three."

Anna Roosevelt Boettiger's apartment is a unique souvenir of her trip to Yalta. It was a birthday gift to her father, aboard the U. S. S. Quincy. A seaman told her that the crew had made something they wanted to present to Roosevelt for his birthday. An admiral aboard refused to approve their plan to have the presentation made by a seaman chosen by lot. The admiral would allow them to make the gift, if he did the presenting . . . Mrs. Boettiger conferred with her father, then reported: "At 5 p. m. the admiral won't be in this room." And at 5 p. m. a seaman presented to Roosevelt an ashtray they had made of the casting of the first shell fired in the Normandy invasion. And the admiral still doesn't know of it.

2 Women, Baby Escape From L St. N.W. Blaze

Three occupants fled to safety yesterday as fire wrecked an upstairs room in a two-story house at 212 L st. nw.

Mrs. Odessa Houston; her daughter, Mabel Houston, and an infant grandchild, who were in the house when the blaze started, got out without injury.

Firemen were unable to determine the cause of the fire.

U. S. Consumer Declared Near Reign as 'King'

Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer last night warned businessmen they must be more alert now that the country has entered "a period of increasing competition when the consumer shall be king."

Addressing the Commerce Department's fourth conference on "The Negro in Business," he declared that "a sound national prosperity is of necessity color blind."

"All Americans must be permitted to enjoy the benefits of our economic system or we shall untilmately lose that system," Sawyer told some 300 delegates of Negro business firms, schools and universities in the Commerce auditorium.

Negroes have a potential purchasing power of 15 billion dollars a year, he said, and added: "This potential mass market for goods and services should not be overlooked."

Another speaker who addressed the first evening session of the week-long conference, Paul R. Williams, Los Angeles architect, declared the Commerce Department should allocate a million dollars to "help Negro business become big business."

Pointing out that "there are more successful Negro lawyers, doctors, college presidents and businessmen in this country than any other land," Williams said, "I still think the United States is the finest place in the world for Negroes."

600 of Legion's '40 & 8' to Gather Here on Friday

More than 60 members of the American Legion's Forty and Eight organization, representing the District, Maryland, Virginia, Delaware, and North and South Carolina, will gather at the Hotel Roosevelt this weekend for the club's annual Mid-Atlantic Promenade.

The program will begin Friday with a sightseeing trip in the afternoon and a stag banquet in the evening. Another tour Saturday morning will precede the Annual Wreck, or initiation of new members, at the Silver Spring Armory in the afternoon.

A banquet and dance will be held at the Roosevelt Saturday night. On Sunday, the group will hold elections and a business session. The sightseeing will include pilgrimages to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and George Washington's Tomb.

Skidding Truck Kills 2 Babies in Buggies, Hurts 4

New York, April 20 (AP).—Two infants in their buggies died today after a skidding truck plowed into a group of women and children in the Bronx.

Three women and another child were injured.

The women, two of them wheeling carriages, stepped off a center island to cross Edward L. Grant hwy. The truck skidded on wet cobblestones and struck them, smashing the buggies and dragging one 50 feet.

Janet Gotesky, 2, was killed in the wreckage of her carriage. Barry Levy, 2, died a few hours later. Their mothers were among the injured.

Police said the truck was operated by Giusseppi Vendett, 48. He was told by police to report Thursday for further questioning.

Conference Friday On Handling Records

The handling of records in the State Department will be discussed at the monthly meeting of the Interagency Records Administration Conference at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the National Archives theater.

Howard M. Samsel, chief, Facilities Branch, Division of Communication and Records, and E. Taylor Parks, Historical advisor in the Division of Historical Policy Research, will explain the State Department's system.

Miss Bailey Asks Job Back

Miss Dorothy Bailey asked District Court yesterday to restore her to her $8000-a-year Federal job pending a decision in her suit contesting her discharge on grounds of disloyalty.

Miss Bailey, who was supervisor of the United States Employment training section, said her reinstatement during the suit's litigation would in fact aid the Government because of her skills.

She declared that her position did not involve security functions.

Her suit, which may be the first to determine the powers of the Government under its employe loyalty program, was filed recently but has not yet reached the hearing stage.

Bethesda Express Bus to Commence Service Monday

The Bethesda Express, a weekday rush-hour bus numbered T-9, will begin rolling Monday between the Naval Medical Center and 13th st. and Pennsylvania ave. nw.

Negro School Fund Drive Launched

The Washington phase of the United Negro College Fund drive to raise $1,400,000 for 31 Negro colleges was launched last night at St. John's parish hall, 819 16th st. nw.

"By improving the educational opportunities and facilities of our Negro citizens," Ganson Purcell, local drive chairman, said, "we can find our surest, most effective and most democratic approach to the problem of race relations."

Purcell, attorney and former head of the Securities Exchange Commission, announced the Washington quota is $38,000.

Purcell read to sponsors and campaign workers a letter from President Truman, addressed to National Campaign Chairman John R. Suman, of New York City. The letter, indorsing the drive, stated, in part:

"The time is again at hand when many Americans turn their thoughts to the education of Negro youth. Along with most other Americans, I place great reliance on education as a means of national self-improvement."

Col. Campbell C. Johnson, assistant to the director of Selective Service, and cochairman of the drive here, termed the Fund "a sound investment in good citizenship."

Hung in 1771, Mission Bell Arrives Here

A San Francisco mission bell—hung in 1771 at the San Antonio di Padua Mission there—arrived in Washington yesterday for a one-day stand during a world-wide tour.

The National Conference of Christians and Jews are sponsoring the bell's journey, intended as a reminder of the principles of freedom and democracy.

The District Commissioners welcomed the bell in ceremonies at the District Building in the morning, and Attorney General Tom Clark spoke later at a special welcome program on the East steps of the Capitol.

Cafeteria Union Loses Election at Lansburgh Store

Cafeteria workers at Lansburgh & Bro. department store have turned down United Cafeteria Workers Local 471 as their collective bargaining agent, it was announced yesterday.

A secret ballot was conducted among the cafeteria employes Tuesday by the National Labor Relations Board.

The tally, announced yesterday, disclosed that of 110 employes eligible to participate in the election, 38 voted for representation by the union, 62 voted for no representation.

Local 471 has five days in which to file objections to the conduct of the election. Otherwise, the results are binding. Another representation election can not be held for at least a year under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Trials of Clergy 'Insult' to Man, Club Declares

The Boston College Club of Washington, D. C., yesterday told President Truman that it considers the trials of churchmen by Hungarian and Bulgarian governments a "mockery of law and an insult to mankind."

In a letter signed by Club President William F. Fitzgerald, the club asked Mr. Truman to direct the Nation's U. N. representatives to "exert their efforts in bringing about a thorough and impartial investigation by the United Nations of all the facts and circumstances bearing upon these trials. Such flagrant violations of basic human rights must not be tolerated in our time," the letter stated.

Autopsy Ordered On Roomer's Body

District Coroner Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald yesterday said he would perform an autopsy on the body of James E. Dinsmore, 33, who was found unconscious in his room at 1338 Monroe st. nw., shortly after noon yesterday.

Dinsmore was discovered by his landlady, Mrs. Mary T. Staley, who summoned Dr. George V. Martin, of 1150 Connecticut ave. Dr. Martin pronounced Dinsmore dead when he arrived. Police said that Dinsmore, a Capital Transit Co. employe, was estranged from his wife, who lives at 77 New York ave. nw.

Athens Honors Wife Of Ambassador Grady

Mrs. Henry Grady, wife of the United States Ambassador to Greece, is the first woman to be proclaimed an honorary citizen of Athens in the 2500-year history of that city.

The State Department reported yesterday that the honor had been bestowed for her "untiring work in the cause of Greek independence and freedom."

Montgomery Raises $45,260 in Tax Sales

A total of $45,260.84 was raised from sale of delinquent taxes in Montgomery County, Treasurer John B. Diamond, announced yesterday.

Of a total of 2116 pieces of property advertised for nonpayment of taxes, 437 were sold. Taxes on the remaining 1679 parcels were paid.

Pastor Davies Sees Triumph Of Rights Bill

The United States will have civil rights legislation "in spite of all the maneuvers of obsolete little men," the third annual Youth Legislative Conference of the National Association for the Advancement

Democrats Paying Boyle Full Time To Run Committee

William M. Boyle, jr., yesterday took on a full-time job of running the Democratic National Committee.

Boyle, now a Washington lawyer, has been a part-time vice chairman of the committee for several months.

Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, committee chairman, announced that Boyle will go on a full-time, salaried basis as executive vice chairman immediately. The salary was not announced.

"This move is a logical development from the constantly increasing responsibilities which have been assigned to Mr. Boyle and which have begun to consume his entire time and attention," McGrath said.

One of Boyle's principal jobs as a full-time director of the committee now will be to lay the groundwork for the 1950 congressional election campaign.

World Weather Treaty Confirmed by Senate

The Senate yesterday ratified an international agreement establishing a world meteorological organization.

The treaty, signed by 42 countries, seeks to coordinate, standardize and improve world weather reporting activities.

Brannan, Rummell To Be Ohio Club Guests

Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan and Dean Leo L. Rummell, of Ohio State University's College of Agriculture, will speak at the annual party of the Ohio State Alumni Club of Washington Saturday at Hotel 2400. The party will begin with a reception at 7 p. m., followed by a banquet at 7:30 and a formal program at 8:30.

Bar Luncheon Speaker

Lowry N. Coe, president of the District Bar Association, will speak at 12:30 p. m. Friday at the monthly luncheon of the Arlington Bar Association at the Washington Golf and Country Club. Members of the Alexandria and Fairfax bars have also been invited.

Senate Approves Envoy

The Senate last night approved the nomination of Louis G. Dreyfus, jr., of California as United States Ambassador to Afghanistan.

VIRGINIA FARMS

Ranging from 50 acres to 5,000 acres in size and from $20,000 to $500,000 in price. These farms are located in beautiful northern Virginia, from the Tidewater to the mountains. Many are within commuting distance of Washington. Farms are a specialty. If you want a farm for any general purpose to live out in town, be it in a stately mansion, see MASON HIRST, Annandale, Va., at the end of Columbia Pike. Phone FA. 7447. Closed Sunday.

WATERFRONT FARM

Here is a beautiful little farm on the Nomini River, with 1000 ft. of perfect waterfront, bathing, boating, crabs and oysters located in historic Westmoreland Co. at the intersection of the Nomini and Potomac Rivers. It has a brand-new rambler-type house, 80 ft. long, with a large picture window and 26-ft. living room, overlooking water. The cabin is modern in every respect, including automatic dishwasher, complete electric kitchen. It is too far to commute but will be excellent for retired service people and is located in a community of well-located front homes. It has 2 bedrms. and 2 baths and a guest bedroom and bath convenience in entertaining. Price is $24,000 and can be financed. Some furniture included. This was built for a year-round home by owner and places like this are seldom offered.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

You've Got to Enunciate More Distinctly, William

William Chapman of 4321 Royal st., Suitland, Md., was having dinner with his wife and his 2½-year-old daughter, Carol. Noting the time, Bill remarked to Carol:

"You're up late tonight, aren't you?" Carol shook her head and, pointing to the dish in front of her, replied with youthful indignation:

"This is a plate. I'm not a plate. I'm Carol."

THIS IS WASHINGTON

Al Ornstein of 4921 4th st. nw., was in the Peoples Drug Store at 4917 Georgia ave. nw., the other noon when an elderly man seated himself on the next stool at the lunch counter.

The old man ordered a bowl of soup, a cup of coffee, and a piece of cake. When the soup was served, he picked up his spoon—then hesitated a moment, deep in thought.

A decision reached, he put down the spoon, reached in his pocket, extracted some gaily colored Easter eggs and calmly proceeded to peel them—and eat them along with his soup.

Short summer, wasn't it?

GHOTI QUIZ

The National Aquarium Society, Inc., reminds us that midnight, tonight, is the deadline for entering questions and answers in its prize Fish Quiz.

The best question and answer sent to Ed Henderer, 209 Albany ave., Takoma Park, Md., will win a $5 prize.

Unfortunately, the questions must be limited to matters pertaining to the hobby of fresh water fish culture in and around the home.

Except for that, I could have won the five bucks hands down by asking: "Why is it the big one that always gets away?"

So you've forgotten that classic example of English pronunciation, and you can't pronounce the "Ghoti" in the caption above, eh?

Well, just to refresh your memory: The "gh" is pronounced as in the word "enough," the "o" as in "women," and the "ti" as in "nation."

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Big cans of sand for use on icy streets are scattered all over town. Many of us amateur gardeners could use some sand, especially where the soil is heavy clay. Would it be possible to get permission to help ourselves?

John Hamilton,
2025 Huidekoper pl. nw.

Dear John:

A spokesman for the highway department says your question is a bit late. Several agencies set out sand: The highway department, sewer department, park police and the transit company. However, most of the containers have already been picked up and stored for the summer.

In answer to your question—there's no objection to folks helping themselves to sand, so long as they don't abuse the privilege.

You're not supposed to try to build a house with the city's sand—but if you need a little for your garden, the highway department says you're welcome to it. Nobody's going to object.

Bill.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Agnes M. McWilliams, RN, of 112 New York ave., Takoma Park, Md., hopes that one of our afternoon contemporaries will spur blood donations by its recent reference to Red Cross "Gay Ladies."

YES, YES, GO ON

Mrs. Buddy Baker of 324 W. Martin st., Martinsburg, W. Va., thinks that the most provocative headline of the week appeared in her home town paper recently. It said:

MEET MR. GRUMP, OUR NEW DOG-CATCHER!
I'M SURE HAPPY TO MEET YOU, MR. GRUMP!
WELL, I'M NOT!

BARNABY

I have no choice but to authorize my biography... I can't stand in the way of your career as an author...
But...
If I refused, I'd be doing you a grave disservice. Who would ever have heard of Boswell if Dr. Johnson had said, "NO!"
Therefore, after considerable thought, and weighing of the pros and cons, I CONSENT.
YOU are chosen to write your fairy godfather's life story!

U.S. Tries to End Indo-China War

By Drew Pearson

It won't be announced officially, but the State Department has taken a secret and highly significant step to try to stop the three-year-old civil war in French Indo-China.

Caffery

Indo-China is a long way from the USA, but in these days of global cold war, what happens there can influence the spread of Communism in the Philippines, the Malays and India.

Therefore, Ambassador Caffery, has told the French Foreign Office that the United States considers it absolutely necessary to stop this fighting in order to keep it from playing into the hands of the Communists.

Caffery said he was authorized to pledge the full support of the United States to French plans for creating an anti-Communist government in Indo-China headed by Rao Dai, the former emperor. The United States might even be willing to consider economic help to such a government if it kept out all Communists.

Note—Another reason why we are anxious to end this revolution is because we want the French to bring their army back from Indo-China to France to guard against a surprise attack from Russia. The French have between 100,000 and 200,000 troops in Indo-China and have sometimes been suffering 1,000 casualties a week.

Pyramids and Bradley

Contrary to press reports, Gen. Omar Bradley, Chief of Staff, has never been a member of a pyramid club. And for a very good reason.

"At West Point," said Bradley, "I taugh mathematical probabilities. And even if I'd ever been invited to join a pyramid club, I wouldn't have done so, because the chances of a pay-off are too slim."

Legion's Lobbyist

Young Representative Olin Teague of Texas, decorated 11 times for bravery in the last war, took on a fresh battle recently with the No. 1 American Legion lobbyist.

Teague made the Legion's tough and skillful John Thomas Taylor eat his own words during his testimony in favor of the Rankin pension bill.

Taylor based his plea largely on "precedents" for pensions voted by earlier Congresses.

"Just a minute," broke in Teague. "While we're on the subject of precedents, let me read from the witness' testimony on this same question when the House Ways and Means Committee was holding hearing in 1930 on amendments to the veterans' Adjusted Compensation Act of 1924."

Teague proceeded to quote a colloquy between Jack Garner of Texas, later Vice President, and Taylor, then as now the Legion's legislative representative. Taylor admitted at that time that the 1924 bonus bill as amended would be a quitclaim against future pensions for World War I vets.

Pinned down by Garner as to whether the legislation would make future pensions unnecessary, Taylor replied, "No question about it."

When Teague finished reading from the Record, Legion lobbyist Taylor looked like the Washington Monument had fallen on him.

"I just wanted to get that in the Record for the benefit of colleagues who have asked me about it," commented Texas' Teague.

News Capsules

To Stop Deflation—A group of Western Senators headed by Jim Murray of Montana are working up a big anti-deflation program, including provisions for a large Federal lending drive to get new capital at work on the expansion of industrial capacity . . . One of the most important points of the new Murray legislation will be authority for industry to write off all big new capital expenditures in five years or less. In other words—accelerated depreciation.

Lobbyist Dinner—The foundry industry threw a party for a member of Congress the other night and sent out invitations. But, of the many invited, only a handful showed up . . . A reporter telephoned the private dining room, but was told curtly they didn't want any publicity. He went up to the room anyway and spotted Senator Myers of Pennsylvania, Democrat; Congressman Engel of Michigan, Republican, and Congressman Patterson of Connecticut, Republican. Less than 20 people were in the room, and 15 of these were supposed to be foundry company executives. Later Senator Capehart admitted sending out the invitations—at the request, he said, of Richard Wagner of Indianapolis, president of the Electric Casting Co.

Congress May Growl—Secretary of State Acheson is in for new trouble with Congress, especially with the Appropriations Committees, on the Atlantic Pact . . . The State Department has decided not to give Congress too much detailed information on Europe's military needs for fear of a leak to the Soviet Union. Despite statements to the contrary, Acheson already has all the military information from European powers, but wants a blank check from Congress—for security reasons.

Affidavit in Reply To Howser's Suit Filed by Pearson

By The Associated Press

Drew Pearson filed in U. S. District Court yesterday a sworn statement from a Long Beach (Calif.) man that he gave Attorney General Fred N. Howser of California $1200 from a Long Beach bookmaker during the 1946 political campaign.

Howser immediately denied the statement.

He is suing Pearson, columnist and radio commendator, for $300,000 damages. The suit charges Pearson made "untrue, false and defamatory" broadcasts about the California official.

In connection with the suit, Pearson's attorneys filed with the court clerk yesterday a deposition by James Thomas Mulloy of Long Beach.

Mulloy said in the desposition that he handed an envelope containing 12 one thousand dollar bills to Howser "in September or October, 1946."

Mulloy said the money was given him for Howser by Joe Irvine. He described Irvine as a bookmaker.

In California, Howser made this comment: "The statement of Mr. Mulloy is the basis of my suit against Mr. Pearson. Its falsity is well known to Mr. Mulloy and Mr. Pearson likewise."

MAKE THIS TEST!
Cover the bald half of this face—see how young the other half looks. Now cover that half—baldness ages the face 10 years!
Will YOU be BALD?
Is Your Hair GROWING or GOING?
Is your hair getting thinner and thinner on top and at the temples? Is dandruff choking growth in your hair follicles? Does your scalp itch and burn? These are danger signals and should warn you that baldness is overtaking you!
But today baldness is unnecessary. Modern science, in the form of the Thomas 26-year proved treatment, knows how to check thinning hair, rid your scalp of aggravating itch and dandruff. Knows, too, how to stimulate those dormant sources of hair growth—how to keep your hair growing.
A half-million other persons have benefited from the reliable Thomas treatment, given coast to coast in 45 professional offices. Consult a Thomas specialist today—let him show you how this time-tested method works. If he finds that you do not come within the scope of Thomas treatment—he will tell you frankly. See for yourself how hair growth is stimulated, dandruff and itch overcome with Thomas treatment. No charge is made for a complete scalp examination—you are cordially invited.

Father wore shoes, but he wore them till they wore out!

Why? Because shoe wardrobes were rare in those horse and buggy days. Pop had a pair of shoes for work and a pair for Sundays. He only bought another pair when his soft-heeled high-button dandies wore out.

That was back in 1914 when Pop had to work 15 hours to earn the price of his shoes. Today . . . because of higher wages . . . because of increased production under our free competitive system . . . Pop can get a better pair of shoes from the wages of 6 hours work.

Since 1914 wages have increased from an average of 22c an hour to $1.38 an hour.
Since 1914 production in the U.S.A. has increased 4½ times.

Pop's choice also depended on where he lived. In most rural areas, he would be lucky to find his size, much less the particular style he wanted. Today he knows that wherever he lives in America, he can buy the make and style of his wish.

Today transportation and distribution methods are geared to serve even the remotest hamlet.
Today your local merchant doesn't just sell things to you . . . he buys things for you!

But this story of progress not only applies to shoes . . . it applies to everything that has made our Nation the greatest symbol of freedom and prosperity in history.

Our vast industries . . . Our rights of choice . . . Our stores along Main Street . . . Our high standard of living . . . all follow the same pattern.

Sure Father wore shoes in 1914 . . . but today he wears the knowledge and progress of a free America.

IN 1949 it takes only 6 hours work to earn the price of a pair of shoes.
